CRITICAL EPOCH LIES AHEAD FOR 76TH CONGRESS

Shaping of Nation's Course at Stake.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—A critical epoch in American history, the consequences of which may involve such momentous questions as a third term for President Roosevelt, war or peace, and the future form of our government, will begin next Tuesday when the 76th congress convenes.

The struggle between the President and the congress over the restoration of a normal, constitutional balance between executive and legislative authority, begun in 1937 under the leadership of independent Democrats, will be resumed with a greatly augmented Republican opposition. Two immediate questions involved in this struggle are:

1. Will President Roosevelt, blocked by the November elections from a further expansion of the New Deal, be able to maintain the experiments in collectivism already spread upon the statute books?

2. Will congress, encouraged to a new sense of responsibility by the last elections, take away from the President the extraordinary grants of discretionary legislative power voted during the last six years on the continuing pretext of emergency?

In the aggregate, these discretionary lawmaking powers vested in the President, in the New Deal commissions and in a multiplicity of government corporations, have carried the government a long way from the true republican form prescribed by the constitution. The extent to which we have traveled in the direction of totalitarianism will be the subject of a later article in this series.

No responsible member of congress expects Mr. Roosevelt to change any basic policy, to accept fundamental revision of any New Deal law or voluntarily to surrender any of his discretionary powers as a result of the November political reverses. According to the President's intimates, he refuses to accept the election results as a repudiation of his administration, insisting that local and state politics and conditions were responsible for the defeat of outstanding New Dealers and the large Republican gains.

Faced with Realities.

The President, however, will be forced to compromise with realities, to make strategic retreats, in the opinion of congressional leaders. Thus they explain his appointment of an army officer, Col. F. C. Harrington, as administrator of the Works Progress administration, after the public revulsion against politics in relief as evidenced at the polls made a congressional investigation of the WPA seem inevitable.

Lest there be any appearance of surrender, however, the President elevated Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins to the cabinet as secretary of commerce, where, many believe, he is to be groomed as a possible successor to Mr. Roosevelt. For the further reassurance of his left wing advisers, the President determined upon the appointment of Frank Murphy, the defeated New Deal governor of Michigan, to a high federal office. His first choice for Murphy was the Supreme court of the United States, but when the White House scouts reported that Murphy could not be confirmed for the court, the President compromised with realities and promised Murphy the attorney generalship.

Question Defense Motives.

Mr. Roosevelt will not abandon, but will seek to camouflage his objectives, in the opinion of shrewd congressional observers. They interpret his much ballyhooed national defense and continental defense plans, calling for a vast expansion of the navy and for 13,000 army and navy airplanes, as a cunning stratagem conceived for the dual purpose of wresting further gigantic spending appropriations from congress and irritating the foreign dictators to promote a war scare and thus divert attention from the domestic troubles of the New Deal.

According to this view, the President's spending tenpins, alphabetically labeled, were knocked helter-skelter by the November elections, so he will set them up in another alley in the guise of national defense.

As cynical as this theory may sound, it is advanced in the utmost

ISLAND AIRPORT IS APPROVED BY U.S. ENGINEERS

City Can Push Plan for 325 Acre Field.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Photodiagram on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Airport engineers of the Civil Aeronautics Authority here today announced their approval of preliminary plans for a downtown island airport for Chicago. Maj. A. B. McMullen, chief of the authority's airport section, said the plans, general in nature, have been forwarded to Mayor Kelly's airport commission in Chicago.

These plans, McMullen said, will become the framework of a complete airport program that is to be worked out jointly by CAA representatives in Chicago, Works Progress administration authorities, and Mayor Kelly's airport commission.

Plan 325 Acre Fill.

Modern island air field plans and sketches shown here today called for the filling of 325 acres in a triangular shape. The island would lie 2,750 feet due east of Northerly island and its axis would be an extension of Chicago's 16th street. This field would provide three runways each 5,000 feet in length.

Stressing the safety and convenience of such a field, McMullen said the edge of the island closest to the city would be nearly one and a half miles east of the city's building line, and would provide for perfectly safe approaches and take-off lanes.

The field as drawn also provided for future expansions. The addition of 100 acres of filled land along the northeastern edge of the triangular island would permit the field to be fitted with double runways in all directions, each 5,000 feet long. The island then would have a total area of 425 acres.

Guarded from Winds.

The island would be guarded on two sides by a bulkhead which would be a breakwater. This would insure calm water surrounding the field no matter what the winds. The lake shore would provide ample protection on the west.

The three runways will be north-south, northeast-southwest, and southeast-northwest. Planes taking off to the southeast, to the northeast, to the north, or to the south would have unlimited distances clear of obstructions. Those heading northwest would have 12,200 feet of unobstructed line before reaching shore.

The shortest distance between the end of a runway and the shoreline would be on the southwest where ships would have 7,350 feet of clear area before the projected line of the runway meets the first line of buildings along the shore.

In Chicago tonight John Wentworth, member of Mayor Kelly's airport committee, said that with the plans now in the committee's possession it will be possible to plan the entire program.

New York Theaters Have Best Matinee Since 1929

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Broadway theatrical attractions this afternoon enjoyed the best matinée business since 1929. Nine shows played to standees and the others received patronage far above their normal. An estimated 681 persons paid for standing room to see shows. Box office treasurers agreed that the afternoon's prosperity might be traced to an upturn in general business conditions. The good weather also was an important factor.

235 Reliefers Out of 800 Are Called Cheats

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Charging widespread fraud on the part of relief recipients in this university city, Mayor John W. Lyons today directed a thorough investigation of what he described as "startling and shocking" irregularities.

The mayor asserted he had determined that 235 out of 800 persons chosen at random from the relief rolls had no right to benefits. Some, he said, have enjoyed steady employment many years. He added that the addresses given by others proved to be vacant lots or unoccupied buildings—in some cases even "beautiful" apartments.

Rise in Cost Is Cue.

An increase in welfare expenditures amounting to $250,000 in one year, despite an accompanying increase in employment, turned his attention to the situation, the mayor said.

"Those illegally on relief rolls," said Mayor Lyons, "are not only guilty of larceny of city funds, but of food from the mouths of persons actually in need."

City Solicitor Richard C. Everts said that while his office has not been consulted, he is prepared to prosecute any cases referred to it.

Mayor Lyons promised that "those responsible" will be prosecuted "and those who received the money will be forced in the courts to return it to the city."

All Must Reregister.

Lyons immediately directed the reregistering of all persons seeking relief benefits and a complete reorganization of the welfare department. He also suspended eight "visitors" of the welfare board, whose duties were to check applicants for relief.

Several members of a seven member welfare board, voted out of office weeks ago, promptly denied the mayor's charges, declaring all applicants for relief had been "double checked."

In addition to his verbal charges, Lyons submitted photographs of vacant lots and buildings which, he said, had been given as addresses by welfare applicants.

GOOD NEWS FOR DOGS: DEATH RAY FOR FLEAS PRODUCED BY SCIENCE

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Science has developed a death ray machine for fleas. It is a simply constructed lamp that plugs into an electric outlet and casts an infra-red ray which will kill any flea within its glow in a second or two. The idea is to train the lamp on a dog's hair, about 8 inches away, and move it slowly along. It gives the dog a warmish, cozy feeling and a glow of contentment but it raises the fleas' fever point to a temperature of 107 degrees and the flea dies.

PAXTON VOTES 4 TO 1 AGAINST A PWA PROJECT

Paxton, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—By a vote of 4 to 1, Paxton citizens today refused a PWA grant to build a sewage disposal plant that would have cost $109,000.

On Nov. 7 the city council passed an ordinance providing for the issuance of $60,000 worth of bonds to build the plant. Arrangements were made to borrow $49,000 from the PWA, agreements were entered into with contractors for the construction work, and contracts to sell the bonds were let.

Meantime many residents of this city of 3,000 were expressing disapproval of spending so much money. Petitions demanding a special election were circulated and today the citizens voted 657 to 172 against issuing the bonds.

POLICE TO TRUST LOOP REVELERS NEW YEAR'S EVE

They're noisy. They're boisterous. But Chicagoans who celebrate New Year's eve in the loop get an A in deportment from Police Commissioner Allman.

Extra police from all outlying districts used to be brought into the loop to keep order among the revelers. But the commissioner said yesterday he wouldn't send in any reenforcements for the downtown police this year.

Every one has been so considerate in recent years, he said, that it is'nt necessary at all.

Nears Victory in Fight Upon Deadly Disease

Yesterday, the twenty-fourth day he has been ill of a disease that is usually fatal in forty-eight hours, was a momentous one for Raymond Potter Jr. For prospects for the recovery of the boy, who is 14 years old, at last were definitly on the bright side.

Raymond Potter.

Only eleven persons in medical history have recovered from staphylococcus meningitis. Raymond may be the twelfth.

"If there is no relapse he should have smooth sailing," said Raymond's physician, Dr. Luther M. Lorance. He could not say the boy was out of danger. Raymond entered the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital Dec. 13 after being stricken eight days earlier in his home at 11347 Church street.

Gets Fifteenth Transfusion.

Yesterday Raymond, a pupil at Morgan Park High school, had his fifteenth blood transfusion. He was bright and cheery, his neck was less stiff, and his temperature range was 99 to 103 degrees. The bacteria attacking the meninges [covering of the brain and spinal cord] appeared to have been eliminated.

"Unless there is another flareup," said Dr. Lorance, "we're through with the meningitis. The mental symptoms have disappeared, the headache is gone, and the rigidity of the neck has lessened. It seems now that the meningial symptoms have gone."

Fight Stiffness in Joints.

Future treatment, the physician said, will be directed at clearing up conditions in the blood and at combatting stiffness in the boy's joints.

Besides the blood transfusions the boy has been treated with an experimental anti-toxin and with sulfanilamide, a drug used for some other forms of meningitis.

Carol Rebukes Hitler; Recalls Envoy to Nazis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—Rumania has followed America's example and recalled her Berlin minister, Radu T. Djuvara, for an indefinite period, it was learned today.

King Carol.

The recall was due partly to attacks made by the German press on King Carol II. of Rumania in connection with the slaying of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, leader of the outlawed Fascist Iron Guard, and thirteen of his lieutenants.

They were shot Nov. 30 by police who reported that the Iron Guardists had tried to escape while being taken from the Rumnik-Sarat prison to Bucharest for questioning.

Ordered to Cease Attacks.

Nazi papers insinuated that Carol had ordered the shooting of the Iron Guardsmen and that he had done so under the influence of Mme. Magda Lupescu, Carol's red haired Jewish mistress. The papers soon were ordered to cease their attacks.

Rumania, which suspects Germany of continuing her support of the Iron Guard, recalled the minister nevertheless.

While no official German comment was available on Djuvara's departure, Nazi circles asserted that "Djuvara will, in any case, soon be replaced by a diplomat who enjoys the confidence of the German government as well as that of King Carol. Under Djuvara's successor the Rumanian legation will be raised to the rank of an embassy."

Press Critical of U. S.

Although the Nazi press continued to comment in an unfriendly manner on American affairs—in a more reserved manner compared with recent outbursts—it is understood that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is refusing to follow the advice of his more radical counselors and break off diplomatic relations with the United States.

The Nazi papers continued to ignore the German protest against a speech by Harold L. Ickes, United States secretary of interior, in which he called Nazi treatment of the Jews bestial, and also to ignore rejection of the protest by Washington, D. C.

Jewish Report Played Up.

Dropping the subject of Ickes, Nazi papers today prominently displayed a report by the American Jewish congress in which alleged complaints were made that "anti-Semitism in America has reached an unprecedented high" and that American employment agencies are refusing to find jobs for Jews.

German papers also devoted much space to news of American rearmament. Under the caption: "Nobody wants to attack the United States," the Lokalanzeiger stressed that there is a "growing opposition in America to the New Deal war agitators."

FRANCE ORDERS SHARPSHOOTERS TO EAST AFRICA

Second Warship Off for Somaliland.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 28.—A battalion of 1,000 Senegalese sharpshooters—hardy Negro warriors who defend France's colonial empire—today prepared to sail from Marseilles Dec. 31 for Djibouti, capital of French Somaliland. The soldiers will reenforce the garrison of 1,500 troops at that strategic port on the Red sea.

A second warship was ordered to proceed to Djibouti. The vessel was the 2,441 ton destroyer Epervier of the eastern Mediterranean fleet.

The 1,969 ton dispatch boat D'Iberville, mounting three 5.5 inch guns, left Beirut, Syria, yesterday for Somaliland.

The Epervier is capable of thirty-seven knots and was expected to reach Djibouti before the slower D'Iberville, which reached the Suez canal today.

France's Reply to Italy.

The sailing orders to the Senegalese warriors and the departure of the two warships for Somaliland is France's military reply to reports—unconfirmed but not lightly dismissed by the French government and general staf—that Italian troops not only are concentrated on the borders of the East African colony but also have occupied desert territory of that possession.

The move also may be interpreted as part of a backdrop the French government is trying to arrange for the conference between Premier Mussolini of Italy and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain in Rome next month.

The French are taking the potential threat behind Italy's campaign for a slice of their colonial empire with full seriousness. Their concern over the possibilities in the near future hardly has been lessened by the decision of Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, not to stop over in Paris on their way to Rome.

French Are Chagrined.

The French government, no doubt, would have urged them not to discuss Italy's ambitions regarding Tunisia, French protectorate in North Africa; French Somaliland, and Corsica, French insular department, with Mussolini. The fact that the French officially have denied requesting the British leaders to pause here does not hide the chagrin felt in political circles over the absence of any direct contact before Chamberlain sits down behind closed doors for his tête-à-tête with the Italian dictator.

The fact which worries and angers the French is that they see the row with Italy shaping into an almost clockwork repetition of the celebrated Ualual incident which precipitated the Ethioplan war. This time the intended victims would be no Ethiopians, but the French themselves. [On Dec. 5, 1934, Italian and Ethiopian troops clashed at Ualual.]

The force of the parallel becomes clear, in view of reported occupation of border strips of French Somaliland by the Italians, if the circumstances surrounding the Ualual incident are recalled.

Natives Driven Out by Troops.

Ualual is a tiny spot which the Ethiopians claimed was in their territory, and which the Italians claimed to be part of Italian Somaliland. It was valued only .or a few water holes. They were used by Italian and Ethiopian troops alike until there was an "incident," in which Italian troops were alleged to have been slain by natives. The Italians thereupon drove out the natives and began the war which ended in the fall of Emperor Haile Selassie's empire.

It happens that there are similar desert water holes along the borders of French Somaliland, Italy's Ethiopia, and Eritrea, also an Italian possession.

For many years, by military courtesy, these have been used by both Italian and French troops, though they were mostly in French territory. Now it is reported that the Italians, taking advantage of the courtesy of their French neighbors, have moved in and taken strategic positions around these bases as though determined to try their luck a second time with tactics which were crowned with success when first employed.

If this is true, it is difficult to see how the French can regard the sending of a colonial battalion as sufficient response without the withdrawal of the Italians. For these reasons, the possibility is not excluded by informed observers that the Italian-French tension may come to a head very soon—perhaps even during or shortly after Chamberlain's appearance in Rome.

Suggest Basis of Settlement.

ROME, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Italian sources indicated today that Italy virtually had abandoned any hope of territoral gains at France's expense and said the Fascists had no intention of invading French Somaliland.

Exactly four weeks after the outbreak of Italian clamor for French recognition of her "natural aspirations" in Africa, diplomats suggested that a basis for a settlement between Rome and Paris might lie along these lines:

1.—Independence for Tunisia, French north African protectorate mentioned most often in the Italian territorial agitation touched off Nov. 30 by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano in the chamber of deputies. Under such an arrangement Rome could maintain control over the 90,000 Italians in Tunisia.

2.—An Italian share in the administration of the French controled Suez canal and lower rates for shipping through that waterway.

3.—Improvement of the port of Djibouti for the benefit of Italian shipping.

4.—The possible creation of a free port at Djibouti with lower rates on the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad for Italian shipments and a larger Italian share in the control of the railroad.

The suggestion of Tunisian independence was implied by Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor. He complained in the newspaper Giornale d'Italia that the French tendency had been to suppress Tunisia's autonomy, assert French sovereignty and make it a French possesssion.

DANCER DEFENDS PROMOTER IN U. S. MAIL FRAUD QUIZ

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Noel Carter, actress and dancer, said today after appearing before a federal grand jury that authorities were "just trying to pin something" on William P. Buckner, youthful promoter charged with mail fraud in a Philippine railway bond deal.

She was called to tell about a $5,000 party which Assistant United States Attorney William P. Maloney has said Buckner gave in Washington in August, 1937, for certain congressmen. When she emerged from the jury room, Miss Carter declared: "There was no party and I told the grand jury there was no party."

"I just wanted to go for the sleigh ride," she added laughingly when asked why she had gone to Washington at the time.

French Dispose of Munitions Shares to Czecho-Slovaks

PRAGUE, Dec. 28.—It was announced today that the French Schneider-Creusot group that held 50 per cent of the Skoda munitions shares has disposed of its holdings to the Czecho-Slovak government. It was reported that the deal was made in view of the changed situation of the Skoda works. Pilsen, where the works are situated, is now surrounded on three sides by German territory.

QUIT GLORIFYING FEATS IN SPAIN, DUCE TO BE ASKED

War Tales Annoy Britain, Chamberlain to Say.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Persons close to the government indicated tonight that when Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain goes to Rome on Jan. 11 he will ask Premier Mussolini to stop boasting about Italian intervention in the Spanish civil war.

The sudden and effective reappearance of Italian Black Shirts in the van of rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Catalonian offensive and glorification of their exploits by the controled Italian press have annoyed British officials.

Therefore, it was said in informed quarters, the prime minister will tell Il Duce that these events, together with his recent heightened agitation in the Mediterranean, are contrary to the letter and spirit of both the European agreement for nonintervention in Spain and the Anglo-Italian accord on Mediterranean and Spanish questions which came into force on Nov. 16.

Seeks More Withdrawals.

Chamberlain is expected to tell Il Duce that he expects him to withdraw more troops from Spain and that he cannot count on British neutrality in case of serious Franco-Italian trouble in Africa.

In official circles it is freely admitted that Chamberlain and especially Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax are embarrassed by the Fascist clamor for French territory.

As yet there is no indication that Chamberlain's Rome visit will be canceled. However, any serious incident between the French and Italians might lead to that. The London foreign office received a detailed report from its Paris embassy on movements of French and Italian troops today.

British royal air force personnel has been expanded until it is expected to total 100,000 active airmen by next June—a growth faster than ever attained in peacetime by either the British army or navy.

Air Force Speeds Up.

Between March and November personnel increased from 69,000 to 85,000. The flow of recruits was steady but hardly sufficient for needs of the hastened plane building program.

To increase recruiting the air ministry has done much to make service with the R. A. F. attractive to young men. The life has been varied and training has been arranged to assist airmen in finding civilian employment on leaving the service.

A parliamentary bill for merger of Imperial and British airways, Britain's biggest air concerns, into a public corporation is expected to facilitate employment of men leaving the R. A. F.

[President Roosevelt yesterday announced approval of a plan for giving a course of instruction to 20,000 college students annually to provide pilots for United States fighting planes in time of war.]

Bonus to Join Reserves.

When an airman leaves the service at 30 years, he gets a "gratuity" of about $500 if he agrees to join the reserve. He may be asked to serve on to the age of 42, when he retires with a pension.

For mechanical personnel there are two courses of training, both consisting of apprenticeship at training schools for one to three years, followed by regular service to the age of 30. Apprentices get free housing, board, medical attendance, uniforms, and six weeks' leave a year.

During service, airmen get four weeks, week-end, and late night leaves with free or half fare railway tickets. There are facilities for sports of all kinds.

Pilots and observers go through an intensive nine month course. Eight weeks are spent learning flying, air navigation, radio work, and aircraft maintenance at a civil flying school. Next comes a period of drill at an air force depot. Three months training on service planes completes the course.

Yule Cheer Ends

Mrs. Adele Holm, who accompanied husband and two other WPA workers on Waukegan holdup and then helped spend money on holiday party in tavern. All four were arrested and jailed.

WPA BANDIT GANG BLOWS $341 LOOT ON A MERRY YULE

Tell of Waukegan Spree After Robbery.

A merry Christmas was had by three WPA workers and the wife of one of them, all of whom are now in the Waukegan jail. One member of the band confessed yesterday that they took $341 in a holdup last Thursday and spent it all buying Christmas presents for each other and making whoopee in Lake county taverns.

They are George Foster, 23 years old, of Zion; John Paddock, 21, of 427 Franklin street, Waukegan; Robert Holm, 25, and Mrs. Adele Holm, 22, of 647 Walnut street, Waukegan.

Causes Tragedy in Home.

The arrest of Paddock caused a tragedy in his home. His mother, Mrs. Harriet Paddock, 48 years old, suffered a stroke when she learned he was in jail. She died a few hours later in the St. Therese hospital, Waukegan, of a brain hemorrhage.

"I was arrested once before," said Paddock, "for stealing plumbing from a WPA project. I was put on probation then, and my mother said that if I ever got in trouble again it would be the death of her."

The robber band gathered Thursday, according to Foster's confession, in the home of the Holms and planned to rob Mark Caldwell, owner of a north side confectionery in Waukegan.

Disappointed by Amount.

"Paddock had borrowed a car," Foster said, "and the Holms had a pistol. We all drove together to Caldwell's home at 536 North avenue. We waited for him and when he came I put the gun on him and took the money. The others were in the car.

"We all went to a tavern and split the dough. Everybody was disappointed; we had expected to get at least $800. Then we started drinking. We had a high old time while it lasted."

Caldwell had a suspicion of the identity of the robber and told Police Sergeant Bart Tyrrell, who arrested Foster Tuesday. His story yesterday brought the arrest of the others.

Foster said he and Paddock had forged the signature to a $40 check made out to William Viant, another WPA worker, just before the holdup.

FRANCO PUSHES TWO DRIVES TO OUTFLANK FOES

Day Long Battles Fought on Catalonian Front.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Dec. 28.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's grand offensive in northeastern Spain appeared tonight to have developed into two broad flanking movements designed to capture Barcelona's outlying defense line without a frontal assault.

Dispatches from the Catalonian front indicated Franco was concentrating the greatest force on the southern flank of the thirty-one mile line which guards the main approaches to Barcelona between Balaguer and Borjas Blancas. The line is about seventy miles west of Barcelona.

The flanking maneuver had been developing more slowly on the south than on the north, where the textile town of Artesa and the Balaguer bridgehead were the objects of bitter contests. The government still held Artesa, about fifteen miles northeast of Balaguer.

Attack in Great Waves.

The rebel command announced its forces had smashed through government fortifications north of the Balaguer bridgehead. The loyalists said the rebels sent their infantry and tanks to attack in continuous waves from 1 p. m. until 7 p. m. after six hours of artillery and air bombing preparation, but government officers declared the attacks were "totally repulsed."

On the southern flank of the Catalonian battlefront, dispatches from the government side said four divisions of rebels, reported to be Italians, attacked again and again with all their force on the Castelldans sector in an attempt to reach Borjas Blancas, but were met with equal fire from government lines.

The rebels struck from behind a high ridge facing bomb ruined Castelldans, twelve miles southwest of Borjas Blancas, and down the road from Cogull toward Soleras, Granadella, and Bobera.

Rebels Claim "Air Victory."

Borjas Blancas, severely punished by aviation before the six days old drive began, is a deserted and ruined ghost town like Tortosa on the lower Ebro river. Castelldans, a small bleak village, is a mess of smashed masonry, timber, and wire. Today's actions were fought in a cold, sharp wind.

An official rebel communique hailed a "great air victory" in which rebel planes were reported to have shot down at least twenty loyalist planes and perhaps five more. Loyalist reports said two rebel planes were downed in air battles and three more by anti-aircraft fire.

The action took place above the southern battle front. The rebels said a squadron of twenty-four fighting planes clashed with a government formation of sixty-one fighters and bombers over Alfes, a town a few miles south of Lerida. The report said machine gunners kept up a steady fire until the loyalist planes turned southeastward, taking the fight over the Valls airdrome near Tarragona.

JAPS CLAIM GAINS IN RECONQUEST OF SHANSI PROVINCE

Repulse Army Led by Chinese Governor.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Four Japanese columns assigned to mop up southwestern Shansi province were reported today to be routing an army under Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, who is considered by Chinese as governor of the province.

The mop-up forces were driving westward from the Shansi railroad and the Fen river with Yen's reorganized army between them and the Yellow river, where it forms the boundary between Shansi and Shensi provinces.

Bomb Headquarters.

The Japanese reported capture of Puhsien and several nearby villages. They continued their drive against Taning, Yen's headquarters, about twenty miles northwest of Puhsien and about fifteen miles from the Yellow river. Japanese planes bombed Taning and other Chinese concentrations.

Meanwhile, another Japanese column was said to have skirted Chinese defenses and to have occupied the Chienchianchen ferry across the Yellow, cutting the Chinese line of retreat.

Area Once Conquered.

The fighting covered a wide area which the Japanese presumably had conquered months ago in a major offensive southward through Shansi, indicating that the Chinese had reorganized and reoccupied numerous towns and highways.

Along the Canton-Hankow railroad, southwest of Hankow, the Chinese reported they were slowly forcing the invaders to withdraw northward to the outskirts of Yochow, Yangtze river port 122 miles upstream from Hankow.

FLORENCE LAWRENCE, STAR IN SILENT FILMS, TAKES POISON, DIES

Beverly Hills, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Florence Lawrence, 52 years old, star of silent films, killed herself today by swallowing poison in her home here, police reported. For the last three years the actress has been working at a stock company on the M-G-M lot. In earlier day films she was costarred with such notables as Mary Pickford, Maurice Costello and Clara Kimball Young.

Florence Lawrence in an early film rôle. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

She gave every promise of rising to great stardom in her early pictures with Universal and Vitagraph, but suffered a tragedy in 1915 which blighted her career. She was playing in a scene with Matt Moore in which they were to be rescued from a burning building. In the filming of the scene they were trapped. Miss Lawrence could have jumped to immediate safety, but chose instead to go back into the flames to aid Moore. Both were burned. Miss Lawrence suffered an injured back and scars.

Featured in her early days as "Baby Flo, the child wonder," Miss Lawrence was the original "Biograph girl" and the original "imp girl" in the silent screen era.

2 HELPING HANDS, 2 FUR COATS GONE AFTER WEDDING

No one thought anything about the two young men who directed wedding guests at the First Congregational church in Evanston last night to an anteroom and then helped them off with their coats.

The wedding was that of Miss Julianna Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benjamin Vanzwoll, 6023 Kenmore avenue, and Palmer Leonard Skoglund.

But after the ceremony two of the bridesmaids found that their mink coats were missing, and so were the helpful strangers. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Harry L. Stone, 2526 Lawndale avenue, Evanston, and Mrs. Richard C. Johnstone Jr., 2181 Pine Point drive, Highland Park.

HANGS SELF ON FRONT PORCH.

Charles Russell, 60 years old, hanged himself yesterday on the front porch of his home at 4732 North Campbell avenue. His body was discovered by his wife when she returned from a shopping trip.

COURTNEY TELLS MAYORAL PLANS ON RADIO TONIGHT

Petitions in Staf's Hands Hint He Will Run.

BY PARKE BROWN.

State's Attorney Courtney is expected to announce his candidacy for mayor in a radio speech this evening, evening.

He personally notified the newspapers yesterday that his talk over WENR at 8 o'clock would be "a statement concerning the mayoralty election," but he would not explain further.

Any doubt about the nature of that statement, however, was removed when it was learned that immediately after he notified the newspapers that he had engaged the radio time for his talk printed forms for his petition were distributed to all members of his staf with instructions to have them signed up at once. The first day for filing petitions is next Wednesday.

Announced a Week Earlier.

This development was accepted as assuring a warm contest in the Democratic primary of Feb. 28. Mayor Kelly announced his candidacy for renomination exactly a week ago tonight, using the same station and the same broadcasting period. Petitions for a third Democratic candidate, Martin Powroznik, are in circulation, but all the politicians say the battle will be between Kelly and Courtney.

The state's attorney's announcement does not come as a surprise to any of the politicians. They had expected it much earlier. Soon after the Nov. 8 election it was reported that Courtney would speak out on Dec. 5. That date passed without any announcement. Many of the politicians accepted an explanation that Gov. Horner's illness left unanswered the question whether the governor would support one of the contenders or would keep hands off the city fight.

Expect No Aid of Horner.

It is now generally believed among Democratic leaders that Horner, who is convalescing in Florida, not only will be physically unable to take part in the actual primary campaigning, but that he will permit his Chicago lieutenants to use their own judgment in determining whether to support the mayor or the state's attorney. Contrary to earlier predictions from the Courtney camp, some important ones already are taking part in Kelly conferences.

The Kelly organization now claims the support of forty-three of the fifty ward committeemen. Only three are definitly known to have aligned themselves with Courtney. They are his own ward committeeman, City Clerk Peter J. Brady of the 18th, Sanitary Trustee John Touhy of the 27th, and Joseph H. Donahue of the 47th. The other four committeemen have not declared their intentions.

CHICAGO STARTS NEW CAMPAIGN AGAINST SMOKE

Chicago has started its most active campaign to end the smoke nuisance, Frank A. Chambers, nead of the city department of smoke inspection and abatement, said yesterday. Two hundred WPA workers have been trained in smoke control work and are beginning to turn in their field reports.

The project is designed to establish standards for the proper use of fuels and the prevention of smoke. Property owners and building operators will get advice on how to end the nuisance. Other workers are compiling legislation and scientific literature on air pollution.

This morning Chambers will begin an inquiry into complaints that the Juvenile Court building, Roosevelt road and Ogden avenue, a Cook county institution, has been guilty of a smoke nuisance. Persons living in the vicinity notified the smoke department yesterday that a thick black smoke was belching from the stack at about noon.

Wife Troubles

VERA ILLEANA.

LOIS LAUREL.

VIRGINIA LAUREL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Dead Pan Stan Laurel's third wife, Vera Illeana, blonde stage dancer, sued him today for $1,500 a month separate maintenance, charging their honeymoon was crammed with nightmares of his former wives.

She said the film comedian's exwives not only troubled her immediately after she and Laurel eloped to Yuma, Ariz., last New Year's day, but that they had caused her constant annoyance ever since.

Mrs. Laurel No. 3 stated that the former wives caused the police to call on her, caused the fire department to burst into her home at night, and induced others to write anonymous letters and telephone her false messages about her husband.

Laurel's first wife, Lois, divorced him in 1933, and his second mate, Virginia Ruth, won her final decree on Christmas eve, 1937.

COUNCIL ASKED TO FREE MORE SUBWAY FUNDS

The city council's local transportation committee yesterday recommended that the council release an additional two million dollars from the traction fund to the subway construction fund. The council is expected to approve the recommendation today.

The subway fund already has three million dollars of traction fund money. The Public Works administration, which is paying 45 per cent of the cost of the subways will put its first two million dollars into the subway fund, making a total of seven million dollars.

This amount will be sufficient to pay the costs of the first two sections of the subway, Philip Harrington, city subway commissioner said. The total project is to cost forty million dollars.

DIES ON STREET CAR.

G. O. P. REGULARS PREPARE TO OPEN DRIVE FOR GREEN

Candidate Confers with 2 Running Mates.

With a city ticket composed of three men all in their early forties, the regular Republican organization made plans yesterday to start intensive campaigning next week.

Dwight H. Green, the choice of forty-eight of the fifty ward committeemen for the nomination for mayor, met and talked with his running mates who were approved Tuesday. These men are John W. Chapman, a lawyer, for city clerk, and Clement A. Nance, investment broker, for city treasurer. Both have served in the council.

Praises Running Mates.

"I am thoroughly pleased to have such fine men on the ticket with me," read a statement from Green. Chapman and Nance, in reply, asserted that it was an honor to run with the choice for mayor.

Green's campaign manager, Ferre C. Watkins, asserted that the job of electing the ticket "is more of a civic enterprise than a political one." Praise for the ticket also came from Edward F. Moore, chairman of the county central committee.

The mayoralty candidate left last night for Kansas City to preside at the national convention of Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, of which he is supreme justice. He will return tomorrow.

Beginning Tuesday, Green and his running mates will start attending meetings. They will speak in all of the fifty wards before primary day, Feb. 28.

All Active in Party.

While all have been active Republicans, none of the three candidates on the city ticket ever has sought city-wide or state-wide office. Green, as United States attorney, was instrumental in the conviction of Al Capone and other hoodlums and politicians for income tax fraud.

Chapman and Nance each served one term as an alderman. Nance is at present Republican state central committeeman from the 2d district on Chicago's south side. He has served on the committee for almost ten years.

ALBRIGHT DEATH UNDER TRAIN IS CALLED SUICIDE

Coroner Martin Fromm of Waukesha county, Wis., announced officially last night that David E. Albright, who was killed by a train at Oconomowoc late Tuesday, was apparently a suicide. The engineer and fireman on the train testified that Albright stepped deliberately in front of the engine when it approached a crossing at high speed.

Albright, 28 years old, was a real estate salesman in Chicago. He was a member of a prominent Milwaukee family and his marriage last April to Miss Virginia Milner-Preston of Wayne was a social event here. The Albrights separated in October. Mrs. Albright, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Milner-Preston, said she had seen him only once since.

Chicago police records show that Albright was arrested last Friday at Sunnyside and Lincoln avenues. He was to have appeared in the South State street court yesterday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The police said that he had been drinking before he was seized.

NAME HOWARD HUGHES TOP AVIATOR IN U. S.; WORLD HONOR SOUGHT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The National Aeronautics association selected Howard Hughes, wealthy sportsman pilot, tonight as the United States' outstanding aviator in 1938.

Howard Hughes.

It also nominated Hughes to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale as a candidate for the award of the F. A. I. gold medal, awarded annually to the world's outstanding aviator. The federation is an international organization of thirty-eight national aero clubs.

The N. A. A. nomination of Hughes was based on his feat of circling the globe last July in 91 hours 14 minutes and 10 seconds. He covered 14,672 miles on the flight and maintained an average speed in flight of 206.3 miles an hour.

RAID TWO LARGE BOOKIE JOINTS, CHOP THEM UP

State's Attorney Courtney's ax raiders visited the Des Plaines street district yesterday for the first time in several months and raided two handbooks. At the first, at 30 South Halsted street, 350 customers were chased out. This place was the largest raided in many weeks. The second handbook was at 1252 Madison street, where 175 men and women were placing bets. Both joints were chopped up, according to the custom of the ax squads. Since Courtney's men started the drive on gambling several months ago, 752 handbooks have been raided.

O'CONNOR PURGE FAILS TO CLEAR NEW DEAL PATH

Rules Committee Still Will Be Independent.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's lone success in his attempt to purge congress of independent Democrats has not removed the house rules committee as a stumbling block to New Deal legislation of the extreme or experimental type, house veterans revealed today.

When John J. O'Connor, chairman of the committee, was defeated for reëlection last Nov. 8, there was gloating among the President's advisers. But, despite O'Connor's absence, the committee will have a majority of anti-New Deal members. No matter what administration leaders may do, the committee is proof against packing with rubber stamp legislators.

This was the most discussed discovery of the day, which saw large groups of senators and representatives drifting back to the capital. These arrivals brought increasing evidence that the coming session will be a stormy one.

Assail WPA in Politics.

Among the day's developments were:

1. The senate campaign expenditures committee completed a rough draft of its report and included a unanimous attack upon the use of WPA funds to influence elections. The report will be made public next Tuesday.

2. Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] announced that he had received numerous pledges of support, "most of them from the Democratic side," for his resolution to place the senate on record against a third term for President Roosevelt.

3. Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] said he would reintroduce his anti-lynching bill during the first week of the session, and predicted it would be reported favorably to the senate in a short time. This bill produced a near record filibuster at the last session.

Three Supporters Defeated.

The situation on the house rules committee vastly concerned the White House. It had been assumed that the removal of Chairman O'Connor and the succession of Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.] noted for his acquiescence to administration orders, together with the filling of other committee vacancies by loyal New Dealers, would change the political philosophy of the committee.

Unluckily for the administration's scheme the elections resulted in the defeat of three New Deal supporters while such noted Democratic opponents of Mr. Roosevelt's theories as Representatives Martin Dies of Texas, Eugene E. Cox of Georgia, Howard W. Smith of Virginia, and J. Bayard Clark of North Carolina were returned to office.

The committee has been composed of fourteen members, by agreement of the majority and minority parties, although house rules actually provide that it shall number only twelve members.

Four Democratic Vacancies.

Under the Roosevelt régime, it has been composed of ten Democrats and four Republicans. Vacancies caused in the election leave four Democratic vacancies to be filled. All four Republican members were reëlected.

Even if these four Democratic vacancies are filled with rubber stamp members, there will be only six administration supporters on the committee. The four anti-New Deal Democrats can join with the four Republicans to beat down, by a vote of 8 to 6, any bill they deem unwise.

Major bills can be brought to the floor of the house over the heads of the rules committee, but the house rules are so technical that such a method is cumbersome and time consuming. Particularly toward the close of a session, the rules committee is in complete command of the legislative program. It was the opposition of the committee last year which stifled many a pet measure of the White House and aroused the fury of the President and his radical advisers against Chairman O'Connor.

Louder G. O. P. Voice in Prospect.

This 8 to 6 split of the committee against the New Deal is based upon hopes of the Democratic leaders that they can maintain the ratio of ten Democrats to four Republicans. But the new minority leader, Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, will not sanction such a ratio in view of the increased Republican membership in the house, it was learned.

Martin will agree, according to reports, to cut the committee to twelve members—eight Democrats and four Republicans. If the committee membership is kept at 14, he will insist that the ratio be nine Democrats to five Republicans. A refusal by Democrats to agree to this ratio would cause him to carry the fight to the floor of the house, where Republicans would join with conservative Democrats to give him a probable victory.

If the committee membership is cut to 12, the anti-New Deal lineup would be even stronger—8 to 4. If the membership should be composed of 9 Democrats and 5 Republicans, the anti-New Dealers would have a majority of 9 to 5.

WPA Faces Fight for Billions.

The early submission to congress of the senate campaign expenditures committee report insures plenty of material for WPA critics when that organization's plea for additional funds comes up in January. The WPA wants a billion dollars to carry the organization to the end of the fiscal year, June 30. Otherwise, officials say, it will be forced to disband on February 7, having spent the billion, 425 million dollars given it at the last session.

With overwhelming evidence that part of this vast sum was spent in favor of New Deal candidates in several states, many senators and representatives will point out the dangers of giving lump sums to the WPA to spend without any control by congress. Heated encounters between administration defenders and opponents are in prospect.

Talk Over Plans for Congress

DE VALERA TO BE GUEST NEXT MAY AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Eamon De Valera, prime minister of Ireland, now officially called Eire, has accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to be an overnight guest at the White House next May 7.

De Valera will go on to New York May 10 to open the Irish exhibit at the World's Fair. Later he will visit several cities, probably including Chicago and San Francisco, during a four week's stay in the United States.

His visit will precede that of the king and queen of England, who also will stay at the White House, probably in June.

ILLINOIS LABOR ATTACKS COURT CURB ON PICKETS

Will Oppose Ruling on Injunction.

The Illinois State Federation of Labor will oppose a recent court decision curbing picketing, Victor A. Olander, federation secretary, said yesterday.

Victor A. Olander.

The Illinois Appellate court held, a week ago, that an employer is entitled to an injunction against picketing of his business by outsiders if no strike is in progress and he has no controversy with his workers.

The injunction restrained the Hairdressers' and Cosmetologists' union, an A. F. L. affiliate, from picketing the beauty shop of Ross W. Swing at 5558 North avenue. Union organizers had tried to induce Swing's sixteen employés to join the union.

Drastic Setback, He Says.

Olander said the federation considers the Swing case a drastic setback for organized labor and the decision one which attacks a citizen's right of free speech and free movement.

"We regard this case," he said, as the most serious situation in many years. The court has taken the position that the relation of the employer and the employé is what it was back in the dark ages.

"And the court has taken the position that in the case of labor difficulties or in the efforts of labor to improve its condition the matter must be solely between the employer and his own employés. We disagree with that position.

Call Meeting of Unionists.

"We are going to begin our fight by calling a conference of trade unionists next week. We expect to have representatives of about 350 local unions brought together to map out our program. We will, of course, carry on the court fight in the Swing case."

The Appellate court in its ruling said that the Illinois statutes were never amended to permit the type of picketing in question and that it was not the court's function to formulate public policy.

Sues to Restrain Toman in Skarda Receiverships

Erwin E .Cowen, who has filed several suits in connection with receiverships the county treasurer's office holds on tax delinquent properties under the Skarda act, filed another yesterday. It asks that Treasurer John Toman be restrained from disbursing receivership funds for agents' fees, commissions, and brokers' fees. Acting as attorney and taxpayer, Cowen filed the suit in Superior court.

CRITICAL EPOCH LIES AHEAD FOR 76TH CONGRESS

Stakes Include Shaping of Nation's Course.

seriousness by some of the shrewdest observers in congress. In their opinion, there can be no other justification for a stupendous armaments program and its attendant war scare hysteria. The circumstances which give substance to the view, according to those who share it, include:

The new expression of continental solidarity contained in the declaration of Lima. President Roosevelt's repeated attacks on aggressor nations, obviously aimed at Germany, Italy, and Japan. Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes' direct attack on Dictator Adolph Hitler and the blunt rejection by this government of the Nazi protest. The apparent results of the recent White House visit of Anthony Eden, former secretary for foreign affairs of Great Britain.

Senate foreign relations experts are more convinced than ever, in view of the indications following Eden's conference with President Roosevelt, that there is an understanding amounting to a tacit alliance between this country and Great Britain. Eden, they recall, was forced out of the British cabinet last spring when Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain undertook his policy of appeasing the dictators—Hitler of Germany and Mussolini of Italy.

New Series of Outrages.

This policy came to fruition with the dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia and the Nazis, their appetite still unappeased, began a new series of outrages against political minorities and insulted Premier Chamberlain by attempting to dictate the makeup of his cabinet.

Then former Secretary Eden came to Washington with Mr. Chamberlain's blessing and hurriedly reported at No. 10 Downing street upon his return to London. Since then there has been a noticeable stiffening in Mr. Chamberlain's attitude toward the dictators, while the British rearmament program is being carried forward with renewed zeal.

Internationally, such a policy will have one of two results, according to the senate authorities—either the dictators will be bluffed into submission or there will be a war, to keep out of which the United States would find it difficult if not impossible.

Administration spokesmen, it was learned in congressional circles, already have approached senate isolationists with a proposition to amend the neutrality act to permit the President to discriminate against a belligerent nation deemed to be the aggressor and supply arms and munitions of war to the other powers. In return for such a concession, the administration offered to abandon the so-called cash and carry section of the neutrality act, which expires by limitation next May 1.

Authority Given President.

Under this section, the President is authorized in the event of war to prohibit the shipment of goods to belligerent powers on American vessels and to require payment in cash for war supplies purchased in this country. It does not permit discrimination between belligerents.

While this administration proposal was rejected, the President already has a virtual war making power in a little known clause of the emergency banking act of 1933. This legislation was put through the house before the members, or even the leaders, had read it, a folded newspaper being used as a dummy for the bill. The senate passed it without debate.

It provides in part:

"During time of war or during any other period of national emergency declared by the President, the President may, through any agency that he may designate, or otherwise, investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit between or payments by banking institutions as defined by the President, and export, hoarding, melting, or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency, by any person within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof."

Leaders Fight for Key Posts as Legislature Opening Nears

BY PERCY WOOD.

The political leadership of each house of the legislature still remained in doubt last night, less than a week before the lawmakers convene. At least one good battle is assured at the party caucauses in Springfield next Tuesday night, and contests of lesser intensity may develop.

Posts to be filled at the caucuses are speaker of the house, president pro tempore of the senate, and Democratic and Republican floor leaders of each chamber. Each party also will pick postmistresses, doorkeepers, secretaries, and clerks. Both houses must be stafed when the opening gavels fall at noon next Wednesday.

Benson Favored for Post.

Observers forecasting choices appeared unanimous on only one major job—the Republican floor leadership of the senate. Senator Arnold P. Benson, Batavia publisher, appeared slated for this position as successor to Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield. Benson, it was reported, will have fifteen of the twenty Republican senators with him when the caucus opens and it is possible that his will be the only name presented. Senator Searcy has said that he would not make a fight for it.

On the majority side of the upper house, the Democrats seemed likely to reëlect Senator George M. Maypole of Chicago president pro tem. Because of the illness of Gov. Horner, Lieutenant Governor John Stelle will be spending most of his time in the executive office on the second floor of the capitol and the president pro tem. will be presiding officer of the senate in his place.

The floor leadership probably will be given to Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman. He has guided most of the important legislation enacted by the senate at recent sessions.

Speakership Fight Warm.

The most intense caucus fight will be staged by house Republicans who, with their seventy-nine members, have the numerical strength to elect the speaker. Supporters of both Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago and Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville claim their candidate will poll the forty votes necessary to control the caucus. And should a deadlock develop, there are half a dozen dark horses ready to enter the balloting in hopes of becoming the compromise candidate.

The one of the two leading candidates who fails to carry the caucus for speaker likely will be in the running for floor leader. Others reported to have some support for the floor generalship are Edward P. Saltiel of Chicago, Robert J. Branson of Centralia, and Clinton Searle of Rock Island.

The house Democrats, who will for the first session since 1931 be in the minority with only seventy-four members, are in a quandary over leadership. At their caucus they will select a candidate for speaker who will automatically become the floor leader in the probable event that a Republican is sent to the rostrum.

Names most frequently mentioned for Democratic leadership are those of James P. Boyle, Benjamin S. Adamowski, and Frank Ryan of Chicago; Henry Knauf, Ladd; Schaefer O'Neill, Alton; A. B. Lager, Carlyle; Dr. Frank A. Stewart, Girard, and Joseph Sam Perry, Wheaton.

Several aspirants seek the clerkship of the house, which the Republicans will select. Among them are two retiring representatives, R. R. Randolph, Harrisburg, and Calvin T. Weeks, Chicago. Bert McCann of Bloomington, a former clerk, is also said to be in the running, as is one of the present assistant clerks, Henry Rugg of Carlinville.

Probable candidates for doorkeeper of the house include Will Colvin, Springfield, and Frank J. Leonard, Chicago, present chief assistant to Capt. Hal Reading, Chicago, a Democrat.

Since Democrats retain control of the senate, it was expected that Alfred E. Eden of Champaign would be reëlected as secretary of the senior body. And the reëlection of John Kilcumimings of Springfield as sergeant-at-arms was also forecast.

Stelle to Fight New Taxes.

Acting Governor Stelle announced in Springfield last night, after a conference with three Horner leaders, that his message to the legislature would be short. He said that the administration would fight any proposed increase of taxes but would advocate the continued use of 1 cent of the sales tax for relief. This matter must be acted upon before Feb. 15, 1939.

The acting governor also said that the budget would be submitted to the legislature within 30 days after it convenes. Sitting with him from the Horner camp yesterday were Charles K. Schwartz and James M. Slattery of Chicago, and Sam Nudelman, director of finance.

WISCONSIN 'GIRL' CHANGED TO BOY BY OPERATION

Madison, Wis., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—After 15 years of life as a girl a high school sopohomore has had original male characteristics restored through an operation.

Success of the delicate operation, performed at Wisconsin General hospital here, was announced today by Dr. William Stovall, superintendent of the hospital. Dr. Stovall declined to disclose the patient's name.

The child's parents live on a farm in northern Wisconsin. At birth a deformity led them to regard him as a girl and he was raised in dresses. As the child grew older mental and physical traits foreign to girls were noticed and he was brought to Madison for diagnosis. Specialists recognized the condition and the operation was ordered. Dr. Stovall said the boy will mature as a normal male.

BAIL SET FOR 3 HELD AS COSTER BLACKMAILERS

Light Shed on McKesson Financial Tangle.

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Two men and a woman accused of having blackmailed the late F. Donald Coster-Musica, chief plotter in the huge McKesson & Robbins Drug company swindle, were held in bail late today on federal complaints.

They were charged with violating a section of the Lindbergh law of 1934, which makes extortion in interstate commerce through threats punishable by a maximum of twenty years' imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

Those held are Walter H. Cragg, a disbarred attorney, and Joseph Brandino and the latter's sister, Mary. The two men were held in $7,500 bail each and the woman in bond of $5,000. Officials said they had threatened Coster-Musica over a long period of years and had mulcted him of large sums of money.

New Facts Uncovered.

Meantime new disclosures were being made regarding the strange financial transactions in which the big drug company bought stock for far above its apparent market value and sold it in a manner to make large profits for others.

The information was brought out in testimony given before Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall, who is holding hearings on the financial tangle in which Coster-Musica left the corporation when he killed himself Dec. 16 after being unmasked.

McCall put on the stand Jacob Roggen, senior securities accountant of the attorney general's office, who gave an analysis of the financial activities of the Consolidated Investment corporation, a McKesson & Robbins subsidiary.

Control Held by Coster.

Roggen said that although McKesson & Robbins put up $4,298,200 to take over 42,982 of the 60,000 shares of preferred stock of Consolidated, control of the subsidiary was held by Coster-Musica through 10,000 shares of common stock which he obtained for $15,000 through a dummy, Frederick W. Wingersky.

Consolidated engaged in various curious transactions, Roggen testified. He described one in which McKesson & Robbins transferred to Consolidated stock in the Crown Drug company, for which McKesson & Robbins paid $2,545,264 and which Consolidated disposed for $1,142,800.

Between June, 1930, and November, 1931, Consolidated acquired for McKesson & Robbins 102,150 shares of the International Vitamin corporation for $225,769, or $2.20 a share. Of the acquisition cost, 61 cents a share, or $63,269, went for bonuses, including a bonus of $50,000 paid to J. G. Burns as commission for obtaining options.

Other Bonuses Revealed.

At the time of these purchases, said Roggen, bids for Consolidated stock in the financial district ranged from 25 cents to $1 a share, so that McKesson & Robbins was acquiring it for far more than was being offered in the open market and was paying bonuses in addition.

Consolidated bought 12,000 shares from Simon Lubarsky, president of International Vitamin, for $15,000 and paid him a bonus of $7,000.

The 102,150 shares of International Vitamin eventually were turned over by Consolidated at $3 a share to the Muriel Securities corporation, which was organized by Lubarsky and a nephew. Lubarsky paid for the stock with an unsecured noninterest bearing note. He at once sold 95,000 shares to a group of underwriters and subscribers for $4 a share, giving him a large profit.

In Fairfield, Conn., Coster-Musica's widow, Mrs. Carol E. Jennings Coster, was appointed by Probate Judge Bradford Boardman as executrix of the estate of the swindler. Mrs. Coster is sole beneficiary named in the will of the man who lived under the name of Coster to conceal the criminal record he acquired under his real name, Musica.

BERENICE DECKER HUSTEN.

Berenice Decker Husten, brunette night club dancer who was Miss Chicago of 1930, won a divorce yesterday from Russell Husten. Judge Rudolph Desort granted the decree on the ground that Husten is now a convict, serving an eight year sentence in the Leavenworth federal penitentiary for transporting stolen jewelry. Police said Husten threw 483 diamond rings out a window when they trapped him in a Minneapolis hotel in 1936. The former Miss Chicago is now 25 years old. She lives at 7828 Ellis avenue. Her attorney, Sidney Korshak, won her permission to resume her maiden name of Decker.

DESPITE RULES, COP QUITS AND MAKES IT STICK

Robert A. Vogt didn't want to be a policeman any more and, he decided, police department regulations weren't going to stop him. So on Dec. 2 he reported late for duty at the Sheffield avenue station. Then he announced that he was resigning.

"You can't do that," said Lieut. John Buckley. "Rule No. 422 says you have to give a week's notice."

"O, is that so?" Vogt said. And he walked out of the station.

And Vogt, who lived at 4847 Magnolia avenue, has been A. W. O. L. ever since, Capt. Thomas Duffy told the police trial board yesterday. He made good his resignation, too. Last week it was delivered at the station. It was postmarked Lincoln, Neb. And in it were Vogt's hat shield, star, keys, and arrest book.

DAZED EXECUTIVE FOUND IN STATION KEPT AT HOSPITAL

Alexander A. Milne, retired pickle company executive, who was found dazed in the Illinois Central station Tuesday, was kept in the Psychopathic hospital yesterday for treatment. He was identified during the day by his brother, Robert Milne of Highland Park, Mich. It was at first believed Milne was suffering from amnesia, but Dr. John J. Madden, assistant psychiatrist at the hospital, said he was afflicted with an old age malady. Milne, who is 75 years old, was carrying $5,000 in cash and about an equal amount in traveler's checks. He formerly was manager of the St. Paul, Minn., branch of the Heinz Pickle company.

DEATH INQUIRY ORDERED.

The coroner's office yesterday began an investigation of the death of Mrs. Margaret Frohberg, 30 years old, who was found unconscious Saturday in her apartment at 3435 Elaine place. She died yesterday in the Augustana hospital. She is believed to have taken an overdose of a sleeping potion.

BARE PRESSURE USED BY LOBBY ON PRICE FIXING

Sandbagging Tactics Laid to Combine.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—When the Tydings-Miller bill to exempt interstate price fixing on trade-marked articles from the federal anti-trust laws was pending in the senate the charge was made that the druggists' lobby was sandbagging manufacturers to join the price fixing combine.

Representative Emanuel Celler [D., N. Y.] cited to the senate judiciary committee this statement by an official of the National Association of Retail Druggists:

"From now on there will be no alibi for sincere manufacturers not to have a price stabilization program and to put same into 100 per cent operation. As for those manufacturers who do not embrace this opportunity to play fair with their retail distributors, in my opinion, it is going to be just too bad."

Quotes Association Journal.

Mr. Celler also called attention to the publication in the association's official journal of lists of "A" manufacturers, classed as "fair."

"The implication is quite strong," said Mr. Celler, "that the others are not fair. They are wise enough not to give information on what would be called the 'B' manufacturers, that is, those not fair, as in the case of the 'A' manufacturers, but those that are not fair are boycotted; and beyond question there is ample proof of it as to those particular manufacturers who are not willing to jack up prices along the lines above indicated."

When the bill reached the senate floor Senator William H. King [D., Utah], quoted extensively from the results of an investigation by Prof. Ewald T. Grether of the University of California into the operation of the California price fixing law. He stressed that part of the Grether report "which shows the intimidation and coercion which were resorted to in order to accomplish certain results favorable to those who favored the price fixing plan."

Report Tells of Tactics.

Prof. Grether related the coercive tactics employed by the druggists to force "a well known national dentifrice and antiseptic manufacturer" into the price fixing combine. Although the manufacturer was not identified by name in the Grether report, inquiry discloses that it was the Pepsodent company of Chicago.

The incident occurred after enactment of the California law legalizing intrastate, but before the enactment by congress of the Tydings-Miller act legalizing interstate contracts fixing prices on trade-marked articles. At first the Pepsodent company, according to the Grether report, was reluctant to fix resale prices of its products in California but eventually yielded to pressure by the retailers.

"The company," said the Grether report, "was praised, particularly because it guaranteed minimum margins of 18.4 per cent, 26.5 per cent, and 34.2 per cent, depending upon the quantity purchased. However, on July 13, 1935, dealers in California received letters from this firm advising them that it was necessary to withdraw from operation under the Fair Trade act since they were making shipments directly from Chicago and hence were involved in interstate commerce."

Cite Reason for Law.

The reason for the withdrawal was the liability of the company to prosecution by the federal government for violation of the federal anti-trust laws in entering into a price fixing agreement covering goods shipped in interstate commerce. It was to get around this difficulty that the druggists, grocers, and other dealers put through congress the Tydings-Miller act exempting such interstate price fixing contracts from the federal anti-trust laws.

As soon as the Pepsodent company canceled its price fixing contracts with California dealers, says the Grether report, "a storm broke loose in California which swept into other states before it had spent itself. On July 17 the Northern association passed a resolution condemning the company and urging and advising its members to 'discontinue the sale of the products of any and all companies which cancel fair trade contracts.' Similar action was taken in the Southern association. The response of the trade was amazing; an almost universal boycott was raised against the firm."

Report Discrimination.

According to other testimony the Pepsodent products were taken down from the shelves and taken out of windows of every drug store in the state and eventually in neighboring states and placed under counters where they could not be seen by customers.

"For a period," the Grether report continues, "it was possible to obtain the products of the firm only from a few cut rate outlets. An interesting aspect was that a number of large wholesale houses also coöperated by refusing to deliver the items of the company. It appears that the company had a startling decline in sales in California. Worse still, the antagonism spread into other states and affected sales and attitudes nationally.

"The outcome was that the company capitulated completely, again issuing contracts in California, and likewise, so it is stated, giving a check of $25,000 to the National Association of Retail Druggists to be used in its fight for price maintenance legislation. In truth and in fact, this company was coerced into violation of our anti-trust laws, since it sought to maintain prices in interstate before passage of the Tydings-Miller bill."

Pepsodent Officer Explains.

Interviewed by THE TRIBUNE today Charles Luckman, vice president of the Pepsodent company, said:

"There was an 'apparent' boycott of Pepsodent among many dealers in California in 1935. The boycott was 'eliminated' late that year. The company decided to come under the fair practice trade acts in California and other states, but found it had to form separate corporations in each state to do so.

"Therefore, about Dec. 1, 1935, Pepsodent made a voluntary contribution of $25,000 to the National Association of Retail Druggists to start a fund for discussion, education, etc., for the passage of a national enabling act to allow it and similarly situated companies to come under state fair practice acts without having to incorporate separately in each state. Many other companies contributed to the fund, entirely voluntarily, and the Tydings bill was the result."

Senator King asserted that this incident was a sample of the coercion practiced by the price fixing lobby to break down the anti-trust laws.

Nixon is awaiting execution for the slaying.

CHANCE OFFERED G. O. P. TO PROVE ELECTION FRAUD

Prosecutor Wants Jury to Hear Charges.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Leonard P. Kincade, reëlected prosecutor of Vigo county, announced today that with the convening of the county grand jury next Tuesday, he will offer an opportunity for an investigation of conduct of the November election in which irregularities of many descriptions have been charged by Republican investigators.

In a letter addressed to Arch N. Bobbitt, Republican state chairman, Kincade offered to talk with Bobbitt about the appointment of a deputy prosecutor to conduct an election inquiry and assured Bobbitt that the grand jury would like to hear the names of persons who took part in election irregularities.

Plans Beer Racket Inquiry.

Kincade also announced that he intends to conduct an investigation into the "wholesale beer racket in Vigo county, a racket in which a local Democratic lawyer and political leader has demanded a cut in wholesale beer profits."

This action of the prosecutor is interpreted in political circles here as marking a definite split between Kincade and Thomas O'Mara, author of the present Indiana beer law and reputed Democratic leader of the county, who also has been prominent in state affairs of the Democratic party.

Asks About Vote Buying.

The letter to Bobbitt which Kincade made public reads in part:

"Newspapers have quoted you to the effect that a certain local political lawyer received a package of 1,000 $20 bills from an Indianapolis bank and purchased votes at $20 each from a local hotel.

"Newspapers have also quoted you to the effect that a local political lawyer demanded of beer wholesalers a certain per cent of their receipts before a license could be secured or renewed.

"In order that you may have an impartial prosecutor to handle the inquiry, I assure you that since there are two vacancies in my office, I will be glad to have you consult me about the appointment of a new deputy to handle same."

A PAROLE FAILS TO REFORM GANG 'MASTER MIND'

Now He's Back in Prison for Life Term.

[This is another in a series of articles dealing with the parole situation in Illinois.]

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Frank Garing came to Chicago by way of prisons in Ohio and Indiana. An unreformed criminal, he soon made himself troublesome to Chicago police. He did this by means of robberies. But Garing was not, in the strict sense, a holdup man. He was, in the eyes of police, somewhat worse. He was the master mind for robbers.

Chicago police eventually caught up with him and sent him to prison. Then, some seven years later, the parole board, politically appointed, turned him loose. As it happened, Garing returned to his old ways again. Thus he became what police call "a parole board mistake."

First Sentenced in 1918.

The first record of Garing, who is now in his early forties, was written in 1918 when he was sentenced to the prison at Columbus, O. He was released in 1919. He moved his operations to Indiana, and in December, 1919, went to the Indiana State reformatory for a term of six months to five years.

Garing's experiences with the authorities in Ohio and Indiana apparently prompted him to move to Chicago. Chicago and Illinois were known in the '20s as easy for parole. Between the time Garing left the Indiana reformatory and some time prior to 1928 there is little known of his activities. But around 1928 he made himself felt.

Numerous robberies were committed at so-called soft drink parlors whose owners could not diplomatically complain since they themselves were violating the law. One such spot held up was at 1147 Center street. That was the place that led police to Garing's trail.

Name Garing as Accomplice.

Policeman Lawrence O'Keefe, now of the Warren avenue station, but in 1928 assigned to the Hudson avenue station, worked on the case. He and Policeman George Egan captured the two bandits. They speedily named Garing as their accomplice.

According to O'Keefe's report, Garing did not actually participate in the robbery. He waited outside in a taxicab.

Policeman O'Keefe's investigation revealed Garing as a criminal master mind who conceived robberies, planned them, supervised them from the outside, and greedily shared in the loot. It's usually difficult to convict a man like that, but O'Keefe and his partner worked diligently, and built up a substantial case against him.

Garing was arrested and tried. His two robber agents testified against him. An independent witness identified him. On Nov. 23, 1928, Garing was sentenced to prison for one year to life. The presiding judge had no alternative but to impose an indeterminate sentence. The Loesch law, vetoed last year by Gov. Horner, attempted to correct such a condition by permitting the trial judge in any case to fix minimum and maximum limits.

Serves Only Seven Years.

Garing served approximately seven years of the one year to life sentence. The parole board freed him on Sept. 18, 1935.

That this was a mistake was proved to police satisfaction last March 30. Some time earlier three bandits held up the liquor store at 162 North Cicero avenue. Policemen Patrick C. Huohy and Albert L. Glass of the Austin station, arrested Orlando Gilgen for the crime. He named Sam Erson and Harry Siegel as accomplices.

According to a report by Capt. George E. Lynch the three named Garing as their chief and master mind. Garing had planned many of their robberies, they said, but had not participated in their execution.

Under the Ilinois law a person who helps plan a crime may be deemed a principal even though he does not carry out the crime. Under that law Sam Cardinella was hanged for murder. He didn't kill any one, but he furnished the guns with which his confederates did. So Garing erred if he thought his master minding would protect him from prison.

The state's attorney's office indicted him as an habitual criminal. Today Garing—ex-convict from three states—is back in prison under a life sentence.

Mrs. Anna Schlagel Warner of 27 South Sangamon street overlooked it when George Schlagel fell behind in support payments for their son, George Jr., 6 years old. But when he neglected to send the boy a Christmas present, Mrs. Warner had Schlagel brought into Judge Joseph Sabath's court.

George Jr. was looking forward to the present that never came, Mrs. Warner told the judge yesterday. Her attorney, Victor Frohlich, said the Christmas card Schlagel sent wasn't enough. The judge rebuked the father. And Schlagel paid $39 on the $110 he was behind and hurried out to buy a present. He lives at 5120 South Union avenue. Mrs. Warner is 28 years old. She has remarried since her divorce from Schlagel.

YOUTH SEIZED FOR EXTORTION; WEDDING OFF

Wauseon, O., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Paul Simmons won't have the lavish wedding he had planned for himself next month on his twenty-first birthday. Instead of looking forward to that pleasurable ceremony he was in jail here tonight wondering what fate awaits him at the hands of a grand jury.

Paul Simmons. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

He pleaded guilty today to a charge of attempting to extort $25,000 from a retired business man under penalty of death. Justice of the Peace H. H. Hamm held him for grand jury action and sent him back to jail when he was unable to post $10,000 bond.

The youth told Sherif Harley Loveland he wanted to get married next month and had no money. He decided that in one bold stroke he would obtain funds to finance his nuptials in fashionable style and set himself up in a business that would enable him to pay back the extortion money.

HEINTZ NAMES WOMAN AS BUYER OF HIS HAIR DYE

Miss Christine Conzo of 21 South Menard avenue, was identified yesterday at the state's attorney's office as having purchased a bottle of hair dye for Hubert Heintz to use in his attempt to shield his identity after holding up a loan company on Nov. 4.

The identification was made by Heintz, son of a wealthy Winnetka broker. He said the young woman made the purchase at the direction of Attorney Francis J. Kennedy, who had been retained to defend Heintz. Kennedy and Attorney Edward A. Fisher have been charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the hair dyeing incident. The two attorneys were accused by Heintz's father when the young man confessed to the robbery.

Miss Conzo refused to answer any questions. She would not admit knowing Kennedy or Heintz. She said she had been advised by Attorney James M. Burke—representing Kennedy and Fisher—to refuse to discuss the case. Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers gave Miss Conzo a subpena to appear before the grand jury on Jan. 10, when the Kennedy-Fisher case will be presented.

Bellwood to Vote Jan. 10 on Change in Government

The village board of Bellwood last night set Jan. 10 for a referendum vote on a change in the form of the village government, now composed of a president and six trustees, elected by districts. The commission form would consist of a president and four commissioners, elected at large, to head various departments of the village.

PAROLE REFORM SUPPORT URGED ON PROSECUTORS

State's Attorneys' Head Makes Recommendations

A series of parole reforms, one of which would require a crime repeater to serve at least two-thirds of his maximum sentence before his release could be considered, was advocated yesterday by Robert E. Nash, speaking before the Illinois State's Attorneys association. He spoke at the organization's forty-second annual convention hotel.

Hans Riemer, who addressed prosecutors.

Nash, state's attorney of Winnebago county, recommended seven changes in parole administration. Concerning crime repeaters, he said that legislation providing for serving of two-thirds of the maximum sentence would mitigate much of the criticism leveled at the state parole board.

Makes Other Recommendations.

His other recommendations were:

1. No legislator or any one holding public office should be permitted to go before the parole board, the presiding judge, or the prosecutor in behalf of a prisoner. Political prestige has no legitimate errand before a parole board, he said.

2. The law should provide for rotation in office of the parole board members to the end that there would be a staggered personnel, insuring against political domination at any time. Individual members should at all times feel independent of their appointing power and political sponsor.

3. State's attorneys should coöperate with the parole board by indicting parole violators and returning them to prison on new commitments. Because of friendship, official laziness, or political pressure, a parole violator is often returned as such when he should have been indicted for the crime which constituted the parole violation.

Detailed Statements Urged.

4. State's attorneys should go into greater detail in preparing the statement, concurred in by the presiding judge, which accompanies the offender to prison. Prosecutors constantly withhold information, negligently or carelessly, which cannot otherwise be elicited from the prisoner. Many unfortunate paroles have been granted because of this laxity.

5. Parole agents should be appointed exclusively from the certified list of the state civil service commission. Appointments for purely political reasons should be stopped.

6. Parole agents should have special qualifications in both education and training for their jobs.

Tells Prisoners' Attitudes.

Another speaker at the convention was Hans Riemer, a sociologist of the Indiana state public welfare department. In 1936 Riemer deliberately forged a check and was sent to the Kansas state prison at Lansing for a one to five year term. He wanted to gain first hand experience on prisoners' attitudes.

Riemer explained that no one at the prison, either officials or convicts, knew his purpose and he was treated the same as the other inmates. He was pardoned after serving four months.

"I found that the leaders among the convicts are those men who conduct themselves as opponents of the warden and the forces of law," Riemer said. "They connive to gain privileges, even while openly flouting authority. Most of the leaders tell each other that they'll go back to careers of crime when they are freed. A convict who says he plans to reform on regaining liberty is never popular with his fellows."

William J. Campbell, United States district attorney in Chicago, pledged the coöperation of his office with prosecutors throughout the state, particularly in preventing and reducing juvenile delinquency.

STOPS CHILDREN AT PLAY; KILLS WIFE AND SELF

Shots Orphan 3 as They Listen in Bath.

Roy Gadke killed his wife and himself with a gun yesterday in the second Christmas holiday family tragedy in 24 hours. The double killing left the three little Gadke children orphans.

A moment before he opened fire, Gadke told the children something serious was about to happen. Then he pushed them into the bathroom in their apartment at 1041 East 47th street. His wife, Mrs. Mary Monica Gadke, realizing that he meant to kill her, ran toward the kitchen. He fired a bullet into the back of her head and another into her body. Then he ended his own life with a third bullet.

Follows Yule Party Tragedy.

On Tuesday another south side father shot his wife to death and then wounded himself critically. He is Gordon T. Cox, who killed Mrs. Grace Cox after a gay Christmas party with their children in their home at 1721 East 86th street.

Gadke was 32 years old. He was employed only part time. His wife, who was 30, supplemented his income by working as a waitress. Sergt. William Ryan of the Hyde Park police said Mrs. Gadke worked until midnight, and that her husband suspected her of other romances because she came in late at night.

Children Hear Shots.

Yesterday morning there was an argument while the children were playing beneath their Christmas tree. They are Geraldine, 2 years old; Dolores, 9, and Leroy, 10.

Police said Dolores told them their father herded them into the bathroom. Then they heard shots from his .32 caliber revolver.

Mrs. Gadke still was breathing when the police arrived. She died in the Chicago hospital.

The police reported that Dolores said after the shooting:

"Daddy told mother this would happen."

Tavern Owner Robbed After Return from Bank

Fred Meyers, owner of a tavern at 3259 North Racine avenue, went to a bank yesterday and drew $500. He planned to use the money cashing pay checks for his patrons. But as he started to enter his tavern by the side door two men with pistols met him and took the $500.

WALGREEN WINS HONOR FOR WORK IN AMERICANISM

Officers of the Chicago Police post of the American Legion yesterday presented to Charles R. Walgreen, head of a drug store chain, an engraved parchment expressing appreciation of his efforts to perpetuate true Americanism. Mr. Walgreen has furnished the funds to create a foundation for the study of American institutions at the University of Chicago.

The memorial was delivered by a committee headed by the post commander, James F. Fanning. Accepting it, Mr. Walgreen said:

"We believe that democracy and freedom are inseparable. A nation which is not free to examine itself is no longer democratic. We think our way of life is best, but not perfect, and we want to improve ourselves. The purpose of the foundation is to find out where we stand as a nation, and how we got there. I believe such study is the American way to build an even greater nation."

COLD WAVE RUNS SECOND SECTION; IT'S DUE TONIGHT

Chicago is lined up for a new cold wave tonight, Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said last night. But before the arctic air arrives the temperature today should reach 30 or 32 degrees, with the probability of some snow, he predicted.

Early yesterday the mercury dropped to 2 degrees above zero, the coldest of the season. Then it began a steady rise to 25 last night, while the cold spread to the eastern seaboard and into the south.

Lloyd explained that the new cold wave is a second section of the same frigid mass from western Canada and Alaska which sent in the first. It will be even colder, he predicted, because the first section already has cooled off the atmosphere.

URGES CULTURAL SIDE OF SCIENCE FOR BETTER LIFE

Carnegie Research Head Tells Modern Needs.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Richmond, Va., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The cultural claims of science, as a necessity for better living and in the struggle for the preservation of democracy itself, were urged upon the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Dr. Oscar Riddle, noted research director of the Carnegie institution of Washington, D. C.

Dr. Riddle told the new National Association of Biology Teachers that the first and main duty of secondary schools is to teach civics and manners, science and discipline.

"We leave it to you or to the members of any group of educated men," he said, "to estimate the chances a diligent pupil now has—during his first six or eight years in school—to hear anything, for example, about the rule of natural law throughout the living world, the animals as our own ancestors, the man of 500,000 years ago, or the inevitable inequalities of human nature.

Deplores Subterfuges.

"Not only are mind-arousing things touching the origin and destiny of man withheld from the alert minds of childhood during the period of their keenest curiosity, but the subterfuges supplied, together with the continuous drills of memory and absence of the joys of thought, sooner or later succeed in anesthetizing the best functions of the minds of our boys and girls.

"Freedom of thought is the prime support of democratic government and of a progressive people, yet our primary schools lack this freedom at all points where life-science deals with the basic questions of the origin and destiny of man."

Life, Dr. Riddle said, should be presented as a growth under natural law and as the phenomenon most worthy of study in our part of the universe, which has been in existence for two billion years.

He called attention to the fact that all men, except identical twins, are unequal in abilities. It is necessary to understand this, he added, if democracies are to avoid unreason and extremes that may destroy them.

Seek Chlorophyll Secret.

Two other scientists, Dr. A. F. Blakeslee of the Carnegie institution of Washington and Dr. O. L. Inman of Antioch college in Ohio, told of a new attack being made on what Charles F. Kettering has designated as the most fundamental problem for the human mind: "Why is grass green?"

Science knows that chlorophyll, the green stuff in plants, is the chemical that makes all other life on earth possible. It converts sunlight into matter and energy, provides grain and vegetables and wood, and in ancient geological eras laid down the coal and oil the human race finds so useful.

Until recently only two kinds of chlorophyll were known. But Blakeslee and Inman, experimenting with the effect of X-rays on the seed of the jimson weed, discovered a third kind.

This form, they said, was closely related to the constituents of human blood and may eventually be useful in the treatment of disease.

Wealth Distribution Studied.

Carl Snyder, New York economist, predicted that within thirty years America would have one or two individuals possessing fortunes of two or three billion dollars.

Snyder's theme was that the distribution of wealth among any population apparently followed almost exact mathematical laws that have not changed in centuries. Measured by scientific methods, he said, the rich do not get relatively richer nor the poor relatively poorer.

"George Washington and Stephen Girard had fortunes as great in their day," he asserted, "as Ford and Rockefeller have now. Records in France, England, and Germany, based on income tax returns, show that there is slight variation in the distribution of wealth anywhere."

This, Snyder said, suggested there is a law regulating the size and distribution of fortunes. The distribution, he said, paralleled the distribution among the populace of money making ability.

Warns on Heavy Taxes.

The new huge fortunes would come because of an increase in the total income of the people as a whole.

Also, Snyder asserted, few of the great fortunes were kept intact by inheritance. Spoliation of the rich by heavy taxes, he averred, would have little effect on the trend of a certain proportion of the total income to flow into the hands of multimillionaires, but would "apparently result in placing untold millions upon the relief rolls permanently."

His conclusion was that the only way to increase mass well being is to give free rein to the energy and abilities of the specially capable and energetic types. In that way, he indicated, both the rich and the poor will get more wealthy.

Death Rays for Germs.

New methods of killing disease germs with light waves were described by Dr. Henry C. Rentschler and Dr. Rudolph Nagu of the Westinghouse research laboratories at Philadelphia. Apparently, they said, all types of germs—and there are thousands of types—can be killed by subjecting each to a certain intensity of light for a given period.

To make the operation effective, they added, experiments would have to be made to fit each germ type to the proper kind of light to do the killing. It was suggested that this extension of knowledge would be of great benefit in operations; that surgeons might have at hand various kinds of light to kill tetanus, gas gangrene, and other dangerous organisms.

Wedding Present

Stewardess Esther Nelson and puppy bought as wedding present for fellow worker.

Three weeks ago when Mary Belle Burgess resigned from her job as stewardess for American Airlines to wed Dr. Ernest Serrano of St. Louis, she told other stewardesses that she wished she owned a dog. Yesterday she had her wish. Five of the stewardesses pooled their money and bought a 3 weeks' old German Shepherd for a wedding present.

STORK IS FACING BIGGEST JOB OF HIS LIFE AT ZOO

Maybe Yes! Maybe No! Nancy Won't Tell.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Officials at the Chicago Zoölogical park are busy planning little garments with large dimensions. Ziggy, the five ton Indian elephant, is about to become a father.

Perhaps it should be said that Nancy, the comparatively small [three ton] Indian elephant, is about to become a mother. It won't occur for at least nineteen months. And maybe not then.

If and when it comes, however, the calf of this mammoth couple will be the first elephant born in an American zoo. Since 1930 about twelve have been born in European zoos, but none here except in circuses, and then only rarely.

The Hitch: Nancy Won't Tell!

The problem zoo officials now face is: Is it true? They think so, but they have no assurance yet, and they are terribly curious. After all, nineteen months is a long period of uncertainty.

Consequently, they called modern knowledge to their aid Tuesday. Dr. Eugene Piette, Oak Park pathologist, gave Nancy the Aschheim-Zondek pregnancy test, usually reserved for humans, and considered 98 per cent foolproof.

The first test on Nancy may be considered a distinct failure. Two inoculated rabbits died within twenty-four hours. This is not surprising, Dr. Piette said, considering they were dealing with an elephant, but he will try again in three weeks.

Twine Trunks Devotedly.

In the meantime, the young elephant couple [Ziggy is 20 years old, Nancy 12] both seem in high spirits, Robert Bean, assistant director and curator of mammals, said. Placed in adjoining pens, they manage to twine trunks in gentle devotion.

Ziggy's rheumatism, from which he suffered two months ago, is gone. His tusks, the finest set of ivories in this country, have a high sheen. And Nancy, who has always been as aloof as Ziggy himself, is being quite coy.

"And we've all got our heads together about a name for the baby," Mr. Bean said.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a story printed on Dec. 17 Paul Romanoff of 6818 Wayne avenue was identified incorrectly as a business agent of the Wholesale Grocery Workers' union. He was taken into custody with George [Bugs] Moran and officials of the union, but was released when it was learned he was the accountant who has been employed to install a new bookkeeping system for the union and has no other connection with the union or with Moran.

An item Monday morning said that Charles E. Olson, who died in a Hyde Park police cell, lived at 6110 Blackstone avenue. Though Olson gave police this address, subsequent investigation showed he actually lived at 6119 Ellis avenue and never had lived at the Blackstone address.

GARY BOND ISSUE FOR BIG SEWAGE PLANT APPROVED

A bond issue of $2,652,000 ordered by the Gary sanitary board for construction of a sewage disposal plant was approved yesterday by the Indiana state tax board. The Public Works administration has made a grant of $2,166,133 for the plant.

Gary, Hammond, Whiting, and East Chicago have been ordered by the Indiana state board of health to stop polluting Lake Michigan. The PWA has made grants of 45 per cent of the cost toward a $3,195,000 plant in Hammond and a $3,000,000 plant in East Chicago. The East Chicago grant has been held up, however, because taxpayers prevented issuance of bonds for the city's share of the cost of a plant.

Whiting has applied for a WPA grant for its proposed $900,000 plant. This has not been approved and officials yesterday doubted that it would be, because all construction work under the grants must be started by Jan. 1.

U. S. CONVICTS 5 OF MAIL FRAUD IN INDIANA CASE

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Five officers of the Continental Credit corporation and associated firms were found guilty of using the mails to defraud in a sealed verdict read today in federal court. They were accused of participating in a $1,200,000 fraud scheme.

John W. Moore Sr., president of the corporation, and his son, John W. Moore Jr., secretary and treasurer, were found guilty of all twelve counts in the indictments against them, including eleven mail fraud charges and one alleging conspiracy.

Ralph Kimball, president of the Kim-Murphy company, Lansing, Mich., and Ralph S. Phillips, treasurer of the Mineral Felt company, Toledo, O., were found guilty of one mail fraud count each and of conspiracy. Russell E. Sie, Union City attorney, was found guilty of two mail fraud counts.

Maximum penalties of five years for each mail fraud count and two years for conspiracy may be imposed, plus fines of $5,000 for each fraud count and $10,000 for conspiracy.

THE RISK-TAKERS

By CALEB

MANY members of this country's hundred and thirty million citizenry are voluble critics of Business. Much of their feeling directs the focus of its fire on organizations that have become nationally or internationally known corporate names; and they derive great endorsement of their "rightness" from the occasional headlines indicating a defaulter's career hidden behind the mask of management.

The present paragraphs are in no sense a defense of any type of defaulter . . . the biggest business type included. Betrayals of trust, wherever found, deserve discovery and summary punishment. But evidences of mistaken or unfinished thinking are strongly shown in any sort of condemnatory criticism which implies that mere bigness connotes badness.

Nothing, in any review of easily available facts, could be further from the correct interpretation of Big Businesses than to brand them with the fallacious stigma of "size." What should be far more generally and sympathetically known than it now is, is the incalculable benefit that many concerns of vast resource and financial power have released to the public-at-large . . . without the slightest reference to present, or even postponed, profit.

More of our rank-and-file, for example, should be made familiar—to cite a single illustration—with the definite altruism, as well as pardonable commercialism, which inspired the du Pont laboratories to invest six successive years' experimentation and twenty-two million dollars in the developing of American-made dyestuffs and related chemicals . . . before the appearance of a single dollar's profit. Ten years' toil and twenty-seven millions of money likewise went into putting synthetic ammonia on a profit basis.

Long periods of time and countless costly experimentations like these are risks—enormous risks. Who but a giant-sized business could dream of undertaking or completing them? Yet what process of arithmetic could begin to compute the social and industrial service values they represent? . . .

Let us condemn malefactors wholeheartedly—in every walk of life. But let us think twice, and ponder well the always and easily available records—before making bigness and badness synonymous in our personal or social judgments of any business.

UNIONISTS SEEK TO AVOID TRIAL IN MILK TRUST PLOT

Negotiate with U. S. for Consent Decree.

Labor union officials are seeking to avoid prosecution under recent federal indictments charging a conspiracy to fix milk prices in Chicago, it was learned yesterday. The move to avoid trial on the charges is the second overture to the government to settle the suits and the second break in the ranks of the indicted parties.

Last week the Pure Milk association began proceedings to try to get rid of the charges by agreeing to control of milk prices in Chicago by Secretary Henry A. Wallace's department of agriculture. The PMA officials hope that by allowing the department to control prices [the same thing the PMA is charged with trying to do] the indictment will be dropped.

Seeks Deal with Government.

Robert G. Fitchie, president of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, who was among the labor leaders named as aiding in price fixing, was reported yesterday to be negotiating with department of justice officials with the aim of working out a consent decree that would get the indictment against his union dismissed.

Frank J. Gillespie, secretary of the Dairy Employés union, left for Washington yesterday and is scheduled to confer today with Thurman Arnold, head of the attorney general's antitrust division, on behalf of Fitchie. Gillespie was not named in the indictments, but he is an attorney. Fitchie was out of the city, and it was assumed that he was with Gillespie.

Some Prefer to Resist.

Not all of the union leaders named are willing to sign a consent decree, it was reported. Leslie G. Goudie, secretary of the Teamsters' joint council, could not be reached, but it is understood he does not favor the move and plans to fight the charges. Steve Sumner, secretary-treasurer of the milk wagon drivers' local, said he knew nothing of a consent decree plan and maintained he and the union were innocent of the charges.

The milk drivers union was accused of conspiring with dealers to fix prices by allowing its members to work only for dealers who maintained price schedules.

The Fitchie contingent has made one previous visit to the department of justice offices in Washington, and while no agreement was reached, the door was left open for the negotiations now under way, it was said.

Gambler Shot to Death in Hollywood Bookie War

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Weldon I. Irwin, who has a police record as a gambler, was found shot to death today a block off Hollywood boulevard. A bookie war is blamed. Irwin is reported to have operated a betting establishment patronized by Hollywood celebrities. He posed as a real estate dealer from Whitewater, Fla.

Auto Crashes as Driver Slumps Dead at Wheel

Spencer Gray, 49 years old, colored, collapsed of a heart attack at the wheel of his automobile last night and it struck another car parked in front of 1520 Howard street. Gray was dead when police got him to Physicians' Memorial hospital. He was a houseman for a Glencoe family.

Fencing Planned

The Illinois commerce commission is making a survey to determine if additional safety measures should be installed on the South Chicago branch of the Illinois Central railroad. One measure under consideration is the fencing in of the right of way from 71st street and Dorchester avenue to 91st street.

STUDY PROPOSAL FOR FENCE ALONG I. C. RIGHT OF WAY

Seek to Make South Chicago Branch Safer.

Plans for improved safety measures along the South Chicago branch of the Illinois Central railroad are an important part of the Illinois Commerce commission's 1939 program for bettering railroad crossing protection in the state.

James M. Slattery, chairman of the commission, made this announcement yesterday. He revealed that a survey of the South Chicago branch of the railroad was started two weeks ago. The work is in charge of H. E. Bartlett, consulting engineer for the commission.

Study Proposal for Fences.

One of the proposals is to fence in the right of way of the Illinois Central between 71st street and Dorchester avenue and 91st street and Exchange avenue. Many accidents have occurred on this four mile stretch of track, which is at street grade.

Joseph Wright, an attorney for the Illinois Central, has been directed to prepare estimates of costs for fencing in the line. Bartlett emphasized that in asking for this estimate the commission has not reached a decision that this method of protection finally will be ordered.

Major Activity for Year.

Slattery said grade crossing protection throughout the state will be one of the major activities of the commission next year.

He said there are more than 18,000 grade crossings in Illinois and it is not possible to meet the situation wholly by building subways and viaducts. There are two other principal ways of improving protection, he added—more adequate safety and signal devices and the closing of unnecessary crossings.

"In years past," Slattery said, "highways and railroads were laid out with little regard to the hazard of grade crossings. There are too many such crossings in Illinois and engineers estimate that at least one-third of them can be eliminated without undue expense or inconvenience.

Firemen Save Gas Victim; Then He Reviles Them

Leonard Johnson, 31 years old, found unconscious in his gas filled kitchen at 3112 North Francisco avenue last night, was revived by a fire department rescue squad. When he reviled them for saving his life he was taken to the Psychopathic hospital.

U. S. MOTORISTS NEAR GREATEST SAFETY RECORD

7,400 Fewer Fatalities Estimated for 1938.

Unless American motorists end the year in a wild spree of carelessness on the streets and highways, the nation will cut its automobile accidents death toll by at least 7,400 for 1938. This would be the greatest reduction in motor fatalities on record for any one year, according to the National Safety council.

It would make the 1938 total 32,000 deaths. There has been an accumulated saving for the year of 7,400 lives, the safety council's records show. Even if the December total should be as high this year as it was last—3,730—the toll would be only 32,000.

Renew Pleas for Care.

But if the reduction rate set for the first eleven months could be maintained through Saturday night the 1938 saving would be approximately 8,000 and the year's total would be only about 31,500.

Auto deaths through November totaled 28,370, compared with 35,770 during the same eleven months of 1937. At least 40 states curtailed fatalities.

Meanwhile the council urged careful driving, in view of the wintry conditions that have spread through most of the nation, and especially in view of the holiday eve that ends the year.

Returning Vacationists Killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Washick of Mundelein, were killed and their two children were injured yesterday in a headon automobile crash near the Louisiana-Mississippi boundary.

The family was returning from a vacation trip to Florida. Their daughter, Agnes, 18 years old, incurred fractures of the collar bone and pelvis, and their son, Walter, 12 years old, was cut and hurt.

Fred Clavey, 70 years old, janitor at the Rugen school in Glenview, was killed by an automobile last evening as he was walking in Shermer road in the suburb. The driver, James Laing, 2251 Ridge avenue, Evanston, was not held.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 893 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 686 were killed in Chicago, where 20,503 were injured during the same period.

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

DRUNKEN DRIVER IN HEADON CRASH GETS JAIL TERM

For driving while intoxicated and colliding with another automobile, Henry McCloud, 1620 Madison street, was sentenced by Judge Stephen Adamowski in the safety court to serve thirty days in the county jail and not to drive his car for one year.

Police testified that McCloud was driving on the wrong side of Washington boulevard in the 1200 block. Six persons were injured slightly when McCloud's car and one driven by Joseph Rabinowitz of 3515 Medill avenue, crashed head-on.

Jury Orders Driver Held in 2 Auto Crash Deaths

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Charles Moore, colored, 750 East 46th street, Summit, held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. Moore was the driver of a car that crashed into another at 69th street and Harlem avenue, Stickney, on Oct. 29. Vernon J. Harris of 243 Forest avenue, Forest Park, and his daughter Hilma, 14 years old, were killed in the collision.

Fire Destroys Valparaiso School, Erected in 1904

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The Central grade and junior high school here was destroyed tonight by fire. The building, erected in 1904, was valued at about $100,000.

COST OF CLEANUP FOR KANSAS CITY SET AT $100,000

State Aid Necessary, Says Attorney General.

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Attorney General Roy McKittrick assured Gov. Lloyd C. Stark today he was "in hearty accord and sympathy with your expressed desire to eradicate 'the blight of crime and corruption from Kansas City'" and asserted it would take $100,000 to do the job.

"I want to make it plain that in coöperating with you in a campaign of eradication of crime and corruption, I do not care to do any shadow boxing or to make any futile efforts," the attorney general wrote the governor.

"All I ask is sufficient men and money to enable me vigorously and effectively to conduct the investigations and prosecutions of law violators without any favoritism to any one."

Governor Asks for Action.

The governor's letter last week directed the attorney general to "clean up" Kansas City—"a stench in the nostrils of the decent citizens of the United States"—and to file ouster actions against any local officials who refuse him aid.

McKittrick pointed out that in the New York investigation and prosecutions carried on by District Attorney Thomas Dewey, "the success of his efforts was made possible only by the fact that he had ample resources, including finances, assistant prosecutors, investigators, and detectives.

Proposes Legislature Act.

"It is my judgment that to accomplish the desired results I will need at least $100,000 specially appropriated to employ the additional assistants, investigators, and other special helpers and to take care of traveling expenses, witnesses' expenses, and other numerous items usually incurred in such investigations and prosecutions. I respectfully urge that you ask the legislature which will convene next week to make such an appropriation for carrying out the program outlined in your letter."

ORDERS WALLACE TO TELL VOTE ON MILK PRICE PACT

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Frank Cooper today held that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace must make public the ballot count that permitted him to become price dictator of the New York milk market.

Wallace held the election last summer under the 1937 agricultural law. It provides that when 75 per cent of the producers for any market vote favorably, the secretary may declare a marketing agreement in effect.

The present action was started by three coöperatives and a dairy company which have refused to comply with the Wallace agreement.

"The secretary of agriculture is giving himself implied powers if he believes he can determine what information he will disclose to the public," retorted the judge. "If he can withhold information on one thing, he could refuse on all other matters pertinent to the public interest."

INDEPENDENT AIR FORCE FAVORED BY MANY FLYERS

Say Effectiveness Would Be Increased.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Experienced flying officers of both the army and navy would like to see the United States free its air squadrons from both the older services and create an independent air force. They vision three separate units of national defense—the army, the navy, and the air corps—but admit there is small chance for their dreams to come true at this time.

There is ample precedent for an independent air force. England has its Royal Air force, created during the world war. France has its army of the air, separate from ground or sea units. In Italy there is the independent Regia Aeronautica. And Germany has its Luftwaffe—or air service. Russian air power is concentrated in a separate command.

Striking Power Coördinated.

And the trend in this direction has had its effect in this country also. Two years ago the army's air forces were reorganized so that all the striking power of the air corps—all the pursuit, attack, and bombardment air units—were combined under the command of one officer. This fighting force was called the general headquarters air force.

All the branches of observation aviation, of training, repair, supply, procurement, and administration were placed under the chief of the air corps. Both the striking force and the rest of the air corps remain, however, part and parcel of the army.

Naval air units, on the other hand, are subordinated entirely to the fleet. They are allowed no independence of action. Every mission is in conjunction with the surface vessels. Radius of action is limited, and the size and power of naval aircraft are limited as a result. "Teamwork with the fleet" is the navy's aviation motto.

Officers Favor Separation.

While it is impossible to get any serving officer from either the army or naval aviation branches to speak for publication, most of them believe that the air force would develop along sounder, broader lines if the curbs were removed.

Technical developments in aviation within the last 20 years have shown that aircraft are capable of delivering telling blows by themselves. On either land or sea they are able to engage and destroy enemy forces in independent attacks. Properly used, the flying officers believe, aviation could take over the first line defense of the nation.

Segregation of the GHQ air force indicated realization of this by the army's leaders. In time of war the general staf would plan the uses of GHQ forces, allowing these units to atack the most profitable targets offered by the enemy, ignoring to a large extent the lines of conflict on the ground.

Can Hit Behind the Lines.

It is generally assumed, in the army, that the GHQ forces will be hitting at targets hundreds of miles behind the enemy lines. They will be destroying power plants, factories, rail heads, docks, attacking the strongest war vessels far at sea. Their raids will be unrelated to front line warfare of ground forces, in most instances.

This is employment of air power in the most efficient manner possible, the flying officers believe. They hold that such a GHQ air force arrangement for the navy as well would be highly effective.

It is the source of supply, and the all-important matter of appropriations that concerns most of the air corps officers. As an independent unit, with a commanding officer of aviation and a representative in the national cabinet, the air corps would not be dependent upon the good will of either the army or navy for operating funds.

Money for experimentation and research, for equipment on a large scale, and for employment of an adequate flying and ground personnel would be obtained directly.

Place Flyers in Command.

And chiefly it would place command of the air forces in the hands of flying officers, instead of under the control of officers whose war experience has been gained in some other branch of the army or navy.

Ever since the world war the army's air corps officers have been flyers, although in 1918 a number of ranking air corps officers were not flyers. That was a sore point and since that time the army has prided itself upon having pilots as its flying chiefs. The air corps' general officers, now headed by Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, average nearly twenty years' flying experience apiece.

In the navy this situation is somewhat different. Few of the navy's highest aeronautics branch officers have had extensive flying experience.

There is no question that the active pilots in the navy are the peers of the army's flyers. Due to their special training in certain phases of aviation they are, in some branches, even better than the army. But there are also many high ranking navy aviation officers whose personal flying logs show less time than the cadets who are just graduating from the army or navy flying schools.

Navy Opposes Plan.

The navy has very jealously guarded its aeronautics bureau ever since 1921 and 1922, when an effort was made to combine both army and navy flying into a separate air force.

Knowing the strength of the navy support in Washington and the navy's lobbying ability, flying officers no longer believe it possible to merge the two air groups. The hope at the present time is that a separate department of air can be set up to take over the duty of determining policies, obtaining appropriations, and overseeing research and development of all fighting airplanes.

Provokes a Storm

(Story in adjoining column.)

Grace Moore, actress and singer whose curtsy before the duchess of Windsor in Cannes, France, has provoked a controversy on the proper etiquet.

GRACE MOORE'S BOW TO WALLY REKINDLES FEUD

Curtsy by Singer Fans England's Battle Royal.

CANNES, France, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Grace Moore, American opera singer and movie actress, sailed for New York today amid a controversy she stimulated by giving the duchess of Windsor a deep curtsy in public.

The curtsy is reserved for royalty and Miss Moore had come face to face with an increasingly puzzling question—whether the American born duchess who married an abdicated king is or is not royalty.

The duchess had a private box at a concert given yesterday by Miss Moore. During the concert the singer stopped before the box and curtsied. The controversy was on.

Riviera Is Divided.

The Riviera winter colony was divided on the issue, with Americans and French asserting that the duchess might as well be given the prerogatives of royalty, as they believe she is certain soon to be given the status of royalty.

On the other hand, some of the English say the duchess, who is the former Wallis Warfield, never will have these honors. The countess of Pembroke, an expert on court etiquette, is opposed to curtsying to her.

"If the duchess is made a royal highness," she was quoted in London's Sunday Dispatch as saying recently, "then I shall be pleased to drop her a curtsy."

[After her marriage to the duke of Windsor, the former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain, the duchess officially was listed as the twenty-ninth duchess of the realm, whereas her husband was listed as the third duke of the realm. Contrary to the reported hopes of the duke she was not given royal status.]

Scolds Two for Curtsies.

Lady Pembroke was quoted in the Sunday Dispatch as saying she had scolded Lady Diana Cooper, wife of the former first lord of the admiralty, and Mrs. Euan Wallace, wife of the parliamentary secretary for the board of trade, for curtsying to the duchess.

Persons close to the Windsors said that the duchess of Westminster, Lady Brownlow, and Lady Mendl, as well as dozens of other prominent English women, always bend their knees to the duchess.

READY TO FINISH AIRPORT WITHOUT FEDERAL MONEY

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Although the federal government has withdrawn further financial support for completion of this city's municipal airport, Mayor S. Davis Wilson said today that the city had enough money to finish the work and that the job will be done well.

The project, started by the WPA which has poured about 7 million dollars into it, was ordered ended because the city had built a blind landing runway in a direct line with nearby Fort Mifflin, in which ammunition is stored.

Mayor Wilson said the airport work would be completed first and then steps will be taken to have the munitions removed from Fort Mifflin and stored elsewhere.

Goering to Visit Italian Colony as Guest of Balbo

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air, will visit Italian Libya in North Africa in February, it was reported today. He will be the guest of Air Marshal Italo Balbo, governor of Libya. The visit, following that of Premier Edouard Daladier to France's North Africa possessions next month, is regarded as a gesture of Italian-German solidarity.

NAZI CHILDREN GET 8 HOUR DAY IN STEEL MILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—A decree, partially suspending laws for the protection of German children employed in heavy industries, was published today.

During the first three months of 1939 boys and girls less than 16 years of age may be employed up to eight hours a day in steel works and rolling mills. In plants where the working hours of adults exceed eight hours youths between 16 and 18 years of age may be employed for nine hours a day.

The women's department of the German Labor Front announced preparations have been made to make full use of the working capacity of women. The Nazis yesterday abolished the eight hour day.

Priest Is Sent to Prison for Criticism of Nazis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KLAGENFURT, Germany, Dec. 28.—The Rev. Father Albert Schoenhart, a Roman Catholic priest, was sentenced to six months in prison today. He was accused of having said to a Hitler trooper: "The Nazis are worse than the communists. In the next war Germany will be wiped off the map."

GERMANS PREDICT GHETTO LAWS IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

Activities of Jews to Be Restricted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28. — The German press today announced that Czecho-Slovakia soon will introduce ghetto laws modeled after the Nuremberg anti-Semitic legislation.

Jews in Czecho-Slovakia, newspapers said, will be eliminated from politics, civil service, the teaching profession, the press, motion pictures, and radio.

While a small number of Jews will be permitted to continue practicing law and medicine, the Czecho-Slovak population will be advised officially to refrain from consulting Jews, the press said.

More Jews Flee Danzig.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Jews are emigrating from Danzig in increasing numbers in anticipation of the free city's union with Germany, which they and Nazi leaders of Danzig consider inevitable.

Anti-Semitic laws patterned after those of Germany are being steadily adopted by the Nazi dominated government and are spurring the Jewish exodus. Nazi authorities assert Jews are permitted to take their wealth with them when emigrating from Danzig, in contrast to the rigorous restrictions in Germany.

Reports published abroad that Adolf Hitler would visit Danzig soon were not confirmed here. Officials pointed out that Hitler would come only if Danzig — formerly German — were again part of the reich. They added that anschluss [union] was not contemplated at present.

However, in political circles it was expected that a New Year message from the free city's Nazi leadership might indicate a likely date for Danzig's return to Germany.

Liechtenstein to Oust Jews.

VADUZ, Liechtenstein, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The tiny independent principality of Liechtenstein is preparing to oust Jews and others regarded as undesirable aliens. An order to this effect was published today.

The move is directed not only against Jews, but also against those who have sought refuge in Liechtenstein in recent years from prosecution for offenses committed abroad, such as tax evasion.

Jews living in Liechtenstein since before the world war are not affected. It is estimated that only about twenty or thirty Jews will be affected immediately, chiefly those who have fled here from Germany since 1933.

[Liechtenstein, a sixty-five square mile sovereign state situated between Germany and Switzerland, has a population of about 10,000. Of Germanic origin, the people are about 90 per cent Catholic.]

SOVIET CLAMPS DOWN NEW RULES IN EFFORT TO SPEED UP INDUSTRY

MOSCOW, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A decree issued tonight drastically tightened discipline imposed on soviet workers in offices and factories. Aimed especially at floaters and habitual absentees, the new law requires executives to deal ruthlessly with "disorganizers of production" and threatens the executives with removal or arrest if they fail to exercise a firm hand.

Workers henceforth will get no vacations unless they have been on the job at least one year. Maternity vacations, until now of four months, will be limited to thirty-five days before the birth of a child and twenty-eight days after.

THE WAR SCARE IN WASHINGTON.

Mr. Roosevelt continues to view future American international relations with great alarm. It is expected that he will stress the dangers at length in a message to congress asking for large appropriations for American armaments. Mention is made of twelve thousand airplanes. An outpouring of federal money will be shunted into the munition works. There must be a battle fleet in the Atlantic as well as in the Pacific. The emphasis is being switched from the rehabilitation of the underprivileged to the defense of our shores and the preservation of democracy from its marching enemies.

Mr. Roosevelt's picture of the dangers threatening the American republic on all sides may puzzle a great many people who cannot for the life of them see an enemy anywhere. There is a great deal of uncomplimentary language being tossed about. No one would pretend that Germany and the United States are on particularly good terms. American officials call the Germans hard names. The Germans retaliate. Ambassadors have been withdrawn and there is no love lost between the Nazis and this country.

Most Americans think that the governments of Germany, Italy, and Russia, and of many of the satellite states which have been drawn into the larger orbits, are calamities to their people and menaces to endurable forms of life. However, none of these governments, with the possible exception of Japan, is making any trouble for the United States, and even Japan is professing the warmest friendship. It would be nonsensical for Japan to do anything else, having its hands full with its job in China.

The United States is not diplomatically accepting the changing conditions in China, but our government knows very well that it could not obtain the consent of the country for a war to protect such interests as Americans have in Asia. The chances that the country would be involved because of Japanese aggression against the Philippines is a disappearing hazard because Japan is fully occupied for the time being and because the United States is withdrawing from the islands. The sentimental urge that this country ought to retain responsibility while relinquishing authority hasn't made much headway as yet.

The still remote chance that a foreign military nation might seek an alliance or a foothold in one of the Latin American countries has been fully considered and it remains a remote chance. The relations of the United States with a number of aggressive nations are not warmly friendly, but danger to our shores is not raising its head on the horizon. An American government which wanted to keep the peace would have little difficulty in doing so. If we are to underwrite British or French security, that would be another story. Nevertheless, both Great Britain and France, although increasing their armaments, are making every effort to placate their unruly neighbors and prevent controversy from becoming fatal. They are much more devoted to appeasement than our own government and they are more guarded in their official statements.

A reasonable regard for the defense requirements of the United States would meet the approval of most sensible Americans, who, however, cannot understand what the war scare in Washington is all about. They can interpret it by refusing to accept it at its face value. They can explain it in the terms of domestic politics. The enemy the New Deal really fears is not approaching Washington by warship, bombing plane, or military transport, but by the American railways. The enemies are members of congress, both Democratic and Republican, who have back of them the election returns of November. They are Democrats whom Mr. Roosevelt endeavored to throw out of his party and they are Republicans elected by voters disgusted by the six year record of the Roosevelt revolution.

The bombers Mr. Roosevelt fears are such men as Senator Sheppard of Texas with his report on election corruption, Mr. Dies with his report on anti-American activities, Senators Byrd and Glass with their reports on the financial condition of the country, the unpurged Democratic senators who were on Mr. Roosevelt's black list and nevertheless are returning to Washington, and many members of congress whom John Lewis tried to keep at home because they stood in his way. The social security act, the labor board, the department of labor, the alliance with the communist party, the silver purchase, the WPA, the socialistic TVA, and the Nebraska power scandal are some of the New Deal achievements which will be under fire, and the New Dealers need a diversion. Therefore the foreign dangers have been called up out of the air and are to be dressed in flesh and infused with life.

The aggressive nations of the world have no liking for the United States. They even profess a contempt which they do not feel, but they are so preoccupied with adventures and enterprises requiring all their cunning and strength that they would consider themselves insane if they gave the United States a cause for war which would be accepted by the American people. The United States is particularly fortunate and is one of the few nations in the world which can regard its immediate future as fairly secure. Nobody wants to quarrel with it and if our government got a fight it would have to go looking for it.

The American experience in trying to make the world safe for democracy would not lead to a repetition of that effort. We know now that if the various peoples of the world are going to get and keep democracy they will have to work for it themselves. We know that until the determination to have freedom is strong enough to attain its objective nothing is gained by overthrowing one form of despotic government only to have it succeeded by another even worse. The only foreign enemies America has to fear just now are propagandists who come peaceably here and work upon American opinion with the protection of the national administration. Mr. Dies in his report will have something to say about that, but Mr. Roosevelt's rearmament program is not the cure for these domestic dangers. Complete publicity is what is needed and the federal government has done its best to prevent that.

ANOTHER FALSE MOVE.

Secretary Hopkins' first move in taking office is to be a nationwide drive to persuade employers to hire more help. This calls to mind that July day five years ago when New Yorkers paraded all day to honor Hugh Johnson's blue eagle, the bird which was going to get a job for every one by Labor day.

Came the first Monday in September, 1933, and there were more men walking the streets than ever. The complete failure of the NRA in attaining the stated objectives of reducing unemployment by getting employers—through pledges and codes—to hire more people soon was recognized by every one. The basic unsoundness of NRA was not, however, perceived at Washington and one make-work scheme after another has followed in succession.

The foundation thought, which persists despite failure after failure, seems to be that the welfare of workers can be promoted by diverting income from enterprise to the government. Nearly all of the measures which have been adopted have had the effect of distributing the existing wealth or flow of income. None of them has been aimed at increasing the amount of wealth and the flow of real income.

These experiments have resulted in reducing the funds which could be kept in industry for its development. They have virtually stopped the creation of jobs in new industrial equipment. It seems to have been forgotten that the indispensable thing for everybody is that industry should be successful. If through increased costs and a confiscation of profits, business is prevented from being successful, it cannot have credit. If it is not successful, it cannot command venture capital. If it is not successful, it cannot pay taxes to support the public jobholders. If it is not permitted to be successful, it cannot long continue and employés must lose their jobs.

In a recent article the London Economist observed that any policy aiming at the improvement of the standard of living of the wage earners should make it one of its first objectives to insure the maintenance of business success. Whenever, by reason of envy and jealousy, those who could conduct industry successfully are prevented from doing so, the catastrophe does not fall on them alone but upon everybody.

THE PILGRIMS AT PROVINCETOWN.

Provincetown on Cape Cod built its Pilgrims' tower as a way of thumbing its nose at Plymouth across the bay and as a reminder that the first landing was not on the rock, but on the sand. The Cape Codders never had much success in making the country conscious of their historical priority and they must admit that if the Pilgrims could not have found anything thereabouts except the sand dunes they would have soon shoved off for other shores. Plymouth wasn't much, but it did have some soil. The only soil Provincetown ever saw was brought in by sea captains for window boxes.

It is not clear why the row between Plymouth and Provincetown has been started again unless, perchance, the chambers of commerce wanted to do some civic advertising. Plymouth has the rock, in its funny Greek temple, and the burying ground. It should be willing to allow the town across the bay to have its few weeks of the Pilgrim Fathers when they scouted the region. The modern tourist can follow in the Pilgrim footsteps and see where they first found water and later, on Corn Hill, discovered an Indian cache of corn which was a providential addition to their supplies.

As for the new row, it may be said that anything recalling Provincetown to the recollection is welcome. It is the nonpareil of the American seaboard with its alleys and white cottages, its Portuguese from the Azores, its Greenwich Village bohemians, its survivals of seafaring families, its artists, and its old Yankee housewives who dust out the keyholes when they smash and settle in the annual house cleaning. Of course, the Pilgrims landed at Provincetown. Who wouldn't?

BUSINESS AND EDUCATION.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

The recent recommendation of William F. Russell, dean of teachers college of Columbia university, that business men and educators get closer together is one which takes the bull of demagogy by the horns and throws it for a loss.

Much of our current political philosophy is based on the assumption that business and education—or at least business and culture—meet on no common ground. Nothing, of course, could be farther from the truth. But it remains that a great many students believe business is guilty of all sorts of heinous crimes, that it is heartless, witless, and selfish. This belief, more than anything else, provides the opportunity for demagogs to practice their art, since it gives form and color to their denunciations of the profit motive and its resultant methods.

Business, of course, was once guilty of one silly assumption. Years ago it cherished the belief that government was designed to function for its especial benefit. This was folly—and today business pays for it. But this error is not comparable to the error of educators who assume the business structure of our civilization is entirely bad.

Most of our creature comfort and social security come from the development of business and its employment of educated men. Dean Russell wants business men, in each community in the nation, to join with school men in facing the common social problems confronting us all. In Peoria this is entirely possible. The group of Peorians who heard the dean at the New York dinner where he spoke can wisely heed his advice and attempt the understanding which he urges.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

FOUND IN THE MAIL BAG.

The Tuesday mail bag was the most amazing case of "hangover" in our experience as man or columnist. About 98 per cent of its contents dealt with Christmas. Perhaps the three days of that protracted festival, from Saturday to Monday, had given every one the impression that its celebration will continue indefinitly. [This might be a good idea.]

Among the New Year's cards was a pearl of great price—a sketch with water colors of an early American scene at a railway station, labeled "Tribune Tower," at train changing time. A signboard in the foreground reads: "Change here for the Line o' Type." The Linemaster himself appears, as a slightly Celtic type, shooing the villagers off the track. The sketch, designed with high professional skill, contains fifty-six figures, four vehicles, a train of six cars with engine and tender, four animals, three lamp posts, one bridge, one village in the distance, and various other details. Its message wishes the editor of this column "the best passenger list the Line has ever known for the New Year's run."

The card is signed "Shandy Gaff," who says of himself: "He feels not altogether an intruder, having traveled on the Line odd times in former years when B. L. T., conducting, gave a pass or two." The sketch is also initialed W. R. B. It's almost a masterpiece. It shall be framed.

Critics Become Jitterbugs.

Drama critics behave strangely when relieved of their duties. Bernard Shaw took to writing plays that broke all the rules, and William Archer, his learned contemporary in London, a translator of Ibsen, cooked up a melodrama called "The Green Goddess." But we are even more eccentric; we headed for the opening of "Shadow and Substance" and after getting past the ticket-taker found ourself in the wrong theater.

CRY OF THE WINTER-BOUND.

I'm cold. I hate the cold. I envy those Small feathered ones of wisdom more than mine.
I know as well as any warbler knows
That winter is part of Nature's sure design,
Yet here I stay until the chill winds whine,
Until a gloomy, lowering, snow cloud throws
A sodden blanket o'er the year's decline.
I hug the fire and fret as each night grows
Some colder than the last as dusk comes down.
The foolish winter birds come seeking crumbs
Upon the sill. The elm tree's leafless crown
Is rattling in the wind. A bare vine drums
A tattoo on my window. Warmth has fled.
As far as I'm concerned the year is dead.

Spiders and Spinach for Dinner.

"I had an interesting moment today," the Third Grader remarked as she pushed her spinach to one side of her plate. "I saw a spider catch a fly and eat it."

"Yes, you did," sneered the Smart High School Sophomore. "Why don't you catch your spinach and eat it?"

"Be still!" the Old Man admonished the Smart Sophomore. "Now where did you see the spider eating the fly?"

"O, will you stop talking about eating flies?" cried the wife of the Old Man.

"Yes, for pity's sake, can't you change the subject to more appetizing channels?" Grandma piped.

Before any one could interrupt, the Third Grader spoke rapidly, saying:

"Under the radio. He has a nest there and when I was laying, I mean lying, on the floor I all at once saw this fly fly into the nest and the spider jumped on him and bit him, I guess, and then started to roll him around in a ball and after he had rolled him around in a ball for a while he stopped, and I could see him eating him."

"Did he eat his insides an' everything?" the Fifth Grader wanted to know.

"Omigod!" Grandma gasped and ran upstairs.

The Old Man's wife now slapped her hand on the table and leaned over into the face of the Third Grader.

"Now, that's enough," she snapped. "You eat that spinach and don't let me hear another word about spiders and flies out of any of you!"

Everybody finally ate all their spinach and the carrots and potatoes and hamburgers, and the Smart Sophomore then took out the plates and started to bring in the pie. Everybody was still scared, for the wife of the Old Man was still real mad and her eyes were blazing. The Fifth Grader, though, was leaning way back in his chair, and you could see he was pretty anxious about something. Suddenly he asked the Third Grader:

"Was the radio going when the spider caught the fly?"

TO AN EBONY ELEPHANT.

Emerald tipped tusks and a jade green eye,
Trunk in air, and I wonder why
You are content to face an inkwell,
You of all behemoths supposed to think well.
I wonder if even the jungle's voice
Comes to you in the trafic's noise;
For streets are jungles with motors purring
As fatal as jungles with tigers stirring.
Death's abroad with the honking horn,
A prelude often to limbs being torn,
And nothing the glades of Burma know
Can be more cruel than what's below.
Here is quiet, here is repose,
And beside you a glass with a damask rose;
So toss those ebony trunks in air
And gambol at will in an office lair.

Clarence P. Milligan.

Have you heard the typical feminine compliment?

"My dear, what a stunning dress! Didn't they have it in your size?"

That sails for hours
Through confetti stars.

Key to an inner meaning in "Shadow and Substance": The author has patterned his proud, contemptuous, and intellectualized Canon Skerritt after Dean Swift, the satirist, also a great hater of fools.

DON'T TRY TO BE A HERCULES.

MANY of us use figures of speech which are not true at all. Thus we may refer to a friend as "strong as a bull," as "spry as a cricket," as "brave as a lion"; or characterize his disposition as "hard as flint," his heart as "stony."

While certain of these qualities may be desirable others are shunned instinctively. Even the alluring attribute of great strength is frequently a delusion. All too often these superhuman behemoths burn out at an early age because they routinely attempt feats which may be beyond even their prowess. A husky exterior may hide damaged kidneys, a weakened heart, or some other organic defect which cannot fail to abbreviate the span of life.

As far as is known there are no benefits to health in acrobatic excesses. Indian runners who were able to cover great distances trained themselves to a sort of easy trot which was no more rapid than a brisk walk but which, because of the springiness of the stride, proved infinitly less exhausting. Any grueling competition which drains vitality to the very dregs cannot but be harmful. Thus endurance contests which involve walking, dancing, cycling, or skating are likely to leave in their wake injuries which will never be repaired. While after-effects may not be observed immediately there will probably come a time when some vital structure will give way because of such a foolish and useless overload. Then, too, the whole matter smacks of a type of cruelty to which thinking persons would not subject animals. Even if one's physical being escapes, the nervous system may not.

One may well wonder why we are not willing to adopt reasonableness and restraint in all of our affairs. We can attain a stalwart physique by avoiding intemperance of all kinds—in play, work, even rest.

The boy of ten is doing something most of the time. This is as it should be. But his periods of meditation will increase with age. If he is to maintain vigor, however, after he reaches middle life he will realize that a seat at the fireside—for every waking moment—will not do. If he has been a long time sitter he cannot easily resume exercise. To get back into the swing of normal existence the whole question of muscle action will need to be approached gradually and it may require weeks or months to attain a desirable minimum.

The trouble with the easy chair habitué is that he is using but one or two of the many avenues which have been provided by nature for the elimination of wastes. He stokes the furnace repeatedly with fuel [food] but he fails to take in enough oxygen to burn the material. Furthermore, he may forget entirely the important rôle of the skin in ridding the body of noxious products. The return of used up blood to the main depot depends largely upon muscular movements. A lagging circulation may stagnate in the extremities and then—because his feet swell slightly—he may rush to his physician with fears of heart failure. While the chances are that there is nothing wrong at the pumping station, nevertheless there is a gross failure on the part of the muscles to squeeze the venous blood back to the cardiac organ. If for any reason a moderate amount of activity cannot be indulged in, we can resort to the hygienic measure of massage.

From the standpoint of the nerves there is no real advantage in being as "spry as a cricket." Tumblers, trapeze performers, and professional gymnasts are obliged to cultivate certain sets of muscles to an extraordinary degree. Furthermore, they may achieve high coördination and an unusual sense of balance. But, for most of us, this is entirely unnecessary. We have the satisfaction of knowing, however, that until decrepitude comes upon us we possess the power of developing our latent powers should the need arise. The biceps of a blacksmith or the torso of a wrestler would be little more than a burden to an office worker.

While we may all love music we need not be forced to acquire the nimble fingers of a trained violinist but there is value in cultivating the ability to participate in some sport with fair skill. There is more joy in living if we have a reservoir of energy but no one has to be a Hercules to be well or to keep in good trim.

CIRRHOSIS OF LIVER.

S. B. A. writes: What is cirrhosis of the liver? Can it be cured?

REPLY.

A chronic disease characterized by hardening of the liver with a consequent loss of function. Alcoholic cirrhosis is common to those addicted to alcohol. The cause of biliary cirrhosis is not known—possibly an infection. In early cases, treatment is beneficial. After the disease becomes advanced, however, little can be done.

CHILD AND MEASLES.

D. C. writes: How long is a child with measles incapacitated?

REPLY.

About two weeks. It is important that the child should be kept quiet until he has fully recuperated. Failure in this respect may lead to complications, such as eye, ear, or sinus infections.

LEMON JUICE AND TEA.

A. J. writes: I use the juice of one-half a lemon in my tea in the morning. Is this too much acid?

REPLY.

No. Fruit acids are converted into alkalis in the course of digestion.

FORMULA FOR COLLAPSE.

Macomb, Ill., Dec. 23.—Here is our sure formula for swift dissolution, be we family, corporation, or a nation:

Spend and live beyond our means.

Encourage increasing dependence upon our munificence, for there be weak brothers among us.

Make of honest toil and strain a mockery; let him who profits thereby be suspect of fraud and ill intent.

Create dissensions among us, match us one against the other that we combine not in any good work.

While our substance, physical and spiritual, wastes with the days, let us find much amiss elsewhere and in great concern and loudly attend it.

And let our purpose veer with the breezes and they be mild and without discomfort to a gross body.

All this may seem the maundering of a deposed postmaster, but I'll give you this: That deliberate, malicious intent to disrupt a great nation could not have accomplished more in the time elapsed.

D. B. TOLLEY.

THE NAZIS SELL THEIR VICTIMS.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Your editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE headed "The Nazis Sell Their Victims" deserves the hearty commendation of every decent minded man.

If the collection of ransom on a gigantic scale under threat of murder, pillage, and torture is to become the established national policy of a nation which loudly proclaims the superiority of its culture and its destined right to be supreme over all the nations of the world, then the world might well stop to ask itself where civilization is headed for.

And isn't it ironic that a nation which bases its hatred and cruel persecution of Jews on their alleged lust for gold should itself resort to a method of obtaining gold which is so brutal, cruel, and barbaric that it is without a parallel in even the darkest chapter of mankind's long history? GARRISON GRAWOIG.

FOR THE ARCHIVES.

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 25.—I hope the President will include among his state papers, which he so generously gives to the United States, the balanced budget that we heard him talk so much about in 1932. I am sure it would be an interesting document. O, yes, he should also include in this donation the platform of the Democratic party which he indorsed 100 per cent. Very interesting it would be to the American public.

GOVERNMENT COMPETITION.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—In this morning's Voice I read a letter stating that approximately 42,000 catch basins had been cleaned all over Chicago by the WPA, and bemoaning the fact that work was to stop because of lack of funds.

Does not this writer realize that this is another case of government competition? To have a catch basin cleaned costs about $3, so you can imagine how much this activity has taken from private sewer contractors who cannot compete with free WPA labor.

I have a good friend who is a sewer contractor and who told me this was his worst year in business, due to the WPA. He has to pay the city for a license and bond to operate, and then he finds no work to do. The painters, landscapers, and many other businesses have the same trouble with WPA. You can't compete against free labor.

In most cases it is some politician who uses the WPA for vote getting. I saw an article in a neighborhood paper, by a certain alderman, stating that the people of the section should not have their basins cleaned, as he was going to have the WPA do it. This was in a well-to-do residential neighborhood.

It can't happen here? Well, it is happening. Pretty soon we'll all be on WPA, and there will be no more private industry. R. T.

PROBLEM IN GRATITUDE.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—I received a present of a pair of stockings and my friend wrote that one stocking was from her and the other from her husband.

When I put on my new gloves I have loving thoughts of the donor. It is the same when I use my new handkerchief or cologne. And so throughout the year I have loving thoughts of my friends.

But the stockings! I may put on one and think kindly of the husband and that may be the one given by the wife, or I might put on the one given by the wife and think only of the husband. And, if there would be a run, I might blame the husband when the wife would be entirely to blame for a poor investment.

MR. PATMAN'S TELEGRAM.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Your recent editorial about kicking Congressman Patman out of office was swell. Don't let his telegrams stop you. Give him the "works," and more power to the finest All-American newspaper in our country.

MRS. MYRA JENSEN.

DEMOCRACY TO THE SOUTH.

Gary, Ind., Dec. 26.—The reactionary character of the Roosevelt administration has been again demonstrated by the Lima conference. The ultimate aim of this conference, according to Secretary of State Hull, is to keep the western hemisphere "free from the paralyzing and disruptive forces" of the bandit dictator nations who, according to Hull, threaten to foist "serfdom" and "barbarism" on the South Americans.

Sheer humbug. Many of the South Americans are already Fascist. For example, the titular head of Peru, Benavides, suspended the constitution, surrounded himself with yeggs designated Storm Troopers and, with the autocratic clique that backs him, wields absolute power in the country.

Similarly did the governmental chief of Brazil, Vargas, scrap the constitution, write what he called a new one, and now pronounces every statement "unconstitutional" that is in conflict with his wishes. This is to mention only two of the "sister republics" that the Roosevelt administration hails as democratic nations. W. J. VALENTINE.

SPEED TRAPS DEFENDED.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—There's so much outcry against speed traps because the automobile driver wants to ignore trafic laws whenever advantageous to him without being caught in the act. The burglar and the highwayman denounce just as enthusiastically laws that prevent them from plying their trades.

Patroling highways in plainly marked cars makes the trafic law violator hesitate only while he knows he is being watched, which is the reason why, where one person is apprehended, fifty escape detection because there are never enough law officers to watch everybody.

Trafic law violations will never be reduced to the safety point as long as automobile drivers are allowed to consult their own convenience at the expense of other users of the public streets and highways. E. F. O.

A McCUTCHEON BOOK.

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 25.—Please give us a McCutcheon book, suggested by Hoosier. I will buy five if they come within a middle class pocketbook.

V. M. B.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—In the letter "Merry Christmas for Jawn" are expressed sentiments which I have meant to voice long ago.

"Jawn," as we all call him, to my mind is the dean of all cartoonists. I have said if a book of his cartoons could be published it would be one of the best and truest histories of passing events in existence. You never look at one of his cartoons that there isn't a moral lesson in it.

Tell Hoosier he's expressing a thought plenty of people will indorse.

E. B. SCHMIDT.

AIR BORNE PESTILENCE.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—Can you kindly inform me where I may purchase a radio in order to obtain a variety of programs. I have a radio, but all it says is "acid indigestion," and now I believe I've got it.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About fifteen years ago I borrowed a sum of money from my father and signed a judgment note. Twelve years ago I stopped payment of interest. My father died five years ago. Mother passed away several months ago, leaving a will, charging these notes with interest compounded, also for rent that I owed for the years of 1925 and 1926. The total amount that I owe, according to the will, equals my share.

1. Is it correct for me to sue for a recovery?

2. Are these notes null and void after seven years?

3. If I sue, can the estate sue me for a recovery?

4. If so, what is the possibility of the estate winning?

5. My wife countersigned these notes; will she be held liable to make good on what future income she might have if they win, or myself only? M. A.

1. We see no way for you to set aside your mother's will without proving undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.

2. The limitation period is ten years, but we do not see that this is material in view of your mother's will.

3 and 4. See preceding answers.

5. Unless there has been a new promise or part payment, it seems probable that the statute of limitations would be a defense as far as affirmative liability is concerned, but this would not prevent your mother from distributing her estate in the manner described in her will.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JOINT TENANCY PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—As it is our wish and desire that when one of us dies, the surviving party shall have full possession of all the assets and use same with full right of ownership until death, but when both of us are dead the assets which remain shall be divided between our children according to law.

According to the above, is it possible for the surviving party to establish another testament in which the remaining assets are not all given to the children, but to a third party. Is it possible to establish another testament without the signature of both or has one the right to do so when the other is dead? If the surviving party desired to give away some of the assets to others, should he not have done this while he lived? Does it not make it impossible to do so after death in a second testament signed by only one party? D. N.

"Full power of ownership" might or might not involve the power to sell. We cannot advise on such ambiguous wording without having the surrounding circumstances before us. If a substantial amount is involved, we advise you to have a personal interview with an attorney.

Pedestrians: Parents whose children are home for the holidays.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke Speaks.

Members of the English Speaking union listened absorbedly at tea-time in the baroque dining room of the Arts club, with its plaster curtains and magenta tufted satin chairs, to a man in a dark suit and horn rimmed glasses talk, with beautiful clarity and subtle humor, about the theater. He was Sir Cedric Hardwicke, leading man in Shadow and Substance at the Selwyn.

American critics pan humorous English plays and English critics pan American plays, he said. But a sense of humor depends on local conditions, experiences of the individual, and considerations of time and space. Thus You Can't Take it with You, a big success in America, was a flop in London, and the English comedy success, Time and the Conways, was a New York failure. The reason, according to Sir Cedric, is that the American success dealt with people who cared nothing about making money, a humorous novelty to Americans but a matter of course to the British, while Time and the Conways dealt with people who cared about money and so was thought humorous in London. Good point. Good poke.

When a play deals with the elementals of life or with philosophic matters the British and the Americans see eye to eye, Sir Cedric said. And British and Americans are in enthusiastic agreement about one thing—staying away from the theater.

"Twenty-five years ago the theater was for the masses, now it is for a small group of intellectuals," the English actor said. One of the reasons why keeping the theater alive is worth while is that it is the only art form left where speaking and hearing are continued. "People are in danger of losing the art of hearing through having things bellowed at them through a loud speaker," he said. "The art of talking and listening is the human grace that helps people to withstand the impact of the machine age."

Sir Cedric is doing his bit toward keeping alive the art of speaking and listening. For even without Julie Haydon's tender and beautiful performance, Shadow and Substance would be a pleasure for the sake of Author Carroll's spare and pointed phrases as delivered by Sir Cedric.

Your Chicago and Mine.

A pair of merrymakers tried to get into Ernesto's restaurant on Walton place late Christmas afternoon, and although it was closed for the day Pietro, head waiter, happened to have dropped in and left the door unlocked behind him, so they got in. When he saw their disappointment at not being able to get dinner he said he would cook and serve it for them if he could get in the icebox. Meantime he served them a drink and disappeared into the kitchen. Several other couples dropped in, and then a few more. Finally there were some thirty hungry and thirsty patrons gathered about the bar. One of them, a girl in evening dress, got behind it and began to serve drinks, carefully collecting for the house. Another patron turned piano player. Pietro discovered he could get into the refrigerator and he cooked dinners for them all. Some of the guests acted as waiters. When Ernesto dropped into his supposedly closed restaurant to open it up Christmas night he found he already had done a pretty good evening's business.

'Petrouchka' Is Exciting Time for Ballet Fans

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo got its auditorium theater audience well worked up last evening over the bright, barbaric "Petrouchka." This was the first performance this season of the Fokine-Strawinsky-Benois pantomime.

The part of Petrouchka, the pathetic clown whom a magician invests with human emotions only to see him suffer horribly through their exercise, went to the peerless Leonide Massine. The puppet dancer to whom Petrouchka gives his poor sawdust heart was the charge of Alexandra Danilova.

That these two luminaries shone brightly is hardly news. In the case of Frederic Franklin, however, a superb performance in the part of the Blackamoor served to strengthen still more the admiration which he has won here in ten short days of the ballet's stay. His intelligence and humor were plainly in evidence through his whole enactment of this taxing role. His worship of the coconut shell, for instance, was skilfully worked out to the last detail—to the exact angle of face to body and to the subtlest effect of grimace.

The carnival scenes boasted a wonderful glitter and a moving overtone of strangeness. The splendidly garbed masses which these episodes require were handled in finished style.

Possibly because its members were tired from an afternoon performance, the orchestra made a most disappointing contribution to the evening's "Sylphides." With Efrem Kurtz at the conductor's stand trying to get the instrumentalists and the dancers to agree on the beat, at least, this delicate and ethereal ballet failed of much of its proper effect of unearthly lightness and effortlessness. This despite excellent individual performances by Nathalie Krassovska, Alicia Markova, Nini Theilade, and Igor Youskevitch.

Three Exhibits Open at Arts Club Tuesday

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Arts club, which like other city clubs ceases to be anything but a place in which members give parties during the hectic Christmas holidays, will come back to its own next week.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a tea to open three interesting exhibitions and there will be two guests of honor. On Wednesday morning there will be an illustrated lecture.

The shows to be seen for the first time at the tea are paintings by Juan Gris, drawings by Pablo Picasso and paintings by Honore Palmer Jr. Gris, who died in 1927, was a young Spaniard who belonged to Picasso's group in Paris. He painted mainly in the abstract, of course. Several of his paintings have been shown at various times at the Arts club, but this is his first one man show in Chicago.

Junior Chryslers Will Be Guests.

The Picasso drawings are from the collection of Walter P. Chrysler Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Chrysler are coming from their home in New York for the tea. This is not the first time the young connoisseur of modern art has been the especial guest at an Arts club tea. He was here just two years ago when works from his collection were shown in the club galleries. There was no Mrs. Chrysler then, however, for Miss Peggy Sykes of New York and Mr. Chrysler were not married until last April.

The paintings of the late Mr. Palmer, who died at the age of 29 last February, will be of unusual interest to Chicagoans, for the only works of his that they have seen heretofore are the murals in the main bar of the Palmer House. He did have a successful show in New York several years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer Sr. are at their winter home in Sarasota, Fla., and it is doubtful if they will be here for the tea next week.

The lecture Wednesday morning will be given by a Frenchman although his name, Charles Sterling, sounds much more English or American than French. His subject will be "The Development of Portrait Paintings from Fouquet to Cezanne." He is an attaché of the picture department of the Louvre and is a well-known art critic in France.

World Affairs Council Will Hear German.

A German with a decidedly British name, Colin Ross, is to talk at the next luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. His subject will be "German Policy After Munich." The meeting will be on Tuesday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Mr. Ross is the author of a number of books on foreign affairs, and is connected excellently with the highest circles in Germany. He is personally acquainted with Adolf Hitler. He holds no government position, but he states that his views "in general coincide with those of the National Socialist party."

Brother to Play at Debut of Sally Perry.

It would be hard to tell which is the more thrilled, the sister whose brother is to play at her debut, or the brother who will lead his orchestra at his sister's party. Both Miss Sally Perry and I. Newton Perry Jr. are greatly excited at the prospect. The party is tonight, a dinner-dance at the Casino. It is being given for Miss Carolyn Chapman as well as for Miss Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman will receive with their attractive young daughters. The invitation list was not limited to contemporaries of the buds, so it will be an old-fashioned debut in the sense that there will be guests of all ages. In the stag line will be a young man who has come from his home in Andover, Mass., for Miss Perry's debut, David Thompson.

Mrs. Jacob Bischof is giving a cocktail party for her debutante sister, Miss Ann Harrington, preceding the Perry-Chapman debut.

Reveal Engagement of Miss Janet Castle.

The cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Castle at their home in Geneva turned out to be an announcement party. They told their guests of the engagement of their younger daughter, Janet, to George Harker Atherton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Atherton, of Geneva. The Castles and Athertons lived next door until about ten years ago, when the latter family moved to New York. Just last summer they returned to Geneva and since then the romance has developed.

Miss Castle went to the Walnut Hill school in Massachusetts and recently has been studying at the Goodman theater. Mr. Atherton is a graduate of the University of Michigan. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

Vassar Alumnae Give Party Tonight.

"Vassar Comes to Life" is the name Vassar alumnæ have given their annual Christmas dinner-dance, to be held tonight in the Vassar House restaurant in the Diana Court building. Amateur photographers have been invited to bring their cameras to photograph their friends and a group of dummies that are to be part of the decoration.

Miss Harriet Welling and Miss Barbara Kelly are entertaining at cocktails preceding the dinner. Miss Welling, Miss Barbara Bastien, Miss Josephine Zeiss, and Miss Lydia Hastings are to be hostesses at a large table; the Errett Van Nices are entertaining at dinner; Miss Barbara Austin and Miss Nancy Leigh are entertaining at another table of friends and Miss Jane Bethge is giving a cocktail party at home before the benefit.

Christmas Party of Wellesley Club.

The Chicago Wellesley club will hold its Christmas party this afternoon at the Ambassador East hotel. Mrs. Ely Aaron of Highland Park is in charge of arrangements and Mrs. Earl White of Evanston, president, will preside.

Ann Burnham and Mary Randall, students at Wellesley, will sing and Ann Wemple and Jane Harrison, other students, will speak. Miss Virginia Onderdonk, instructor in philosophy and a graduate of the college, also will speak.

Mrs. Robert M. Roloson will entertain at an informal tea this afternoon for her son, Richard Mellier Burnes, and his bride of last summer, the former Ruth Carney of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Burnes will return to Cambridge, Mass., next week.

Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard is giving a breakfast today at her home in Hubbard Woods for debutante Virginia Ballard, daughter of the Roger K. Ballards.

Edward F. Swifts Start West Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swift are leaving today for Pasadena to attend the marriage on Jan. 3 of her elder son, Joseph S. Mather Jr., and Miss Gretchen Schleicher. Thomas Mather, a student at the Hill school, will be his brother's best man. The day after the wedding the Swifts will sail to spend three months in New Zealand.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins are giving a dinner-dance for their subdeb granddaughter, Shirley Hopkins, tonight at the Deerpath Inn.

Janet Rowe, Virginia Elwood, and Carol Plamondon are giving a dinner at the Churchill hotel before the Dance club party this evening. The three young hostesses are freshmen at the Girls' Latin school, where the dancing party will be given.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jarmleh Kelly of 1411 State parkway will be at home today from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. R. William Perry Jr. are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Rex William III., on Dec. 23 at St. Luke's hospital. Mr. and Mrs. R. William Perry of South Hoyne avenue are the infant's paternal grandparents. Mrs. Perry Jr. was Mary Lippitt of Denver, Colo.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

A Night Club Opens.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 28.—Two smartest dressers of the femmes in this colony are Connie Bennett, representing the United States, and Marlene Dietrich, representing Europe. . . . They hooked up at the Earl Carroll opening and La Bennett won, her white gown being just a trifle more chic than Dietrich's gold creation.

The town is chuckling at a Los Angeles newspaper picture of Marlene Dietrich, Sally Eilers, Lili Damita, and Dolores Del Rio at the Earl Carroll opening. . . . "Famous Hollywood Beauties" is the caption, but the photography is so frightful that the quartet look like crows.

In this column I've directed Joan Bennett to do some hard work to develop a voice that would be in tune with her gorgeous appearance. . . . "You're right," she said at the Carroll opening, "but whom can I go to?" . . . Not many stars in this town would have sense enough to admit that they needed a voice coach or any kind of coach.

In seventy-five days Earl Carroll converted an empty acre of ground into the most gorgeous night club this colony ever has seen. . . . It was bulging with celebrities for the grand première, and the streets were jammed with curious thousands as the cars drove up to the entrance. . . . Carroll bedazzled Hollywood with the most gorgeous girls this town ever has seen, but Earl took no pride in that. "I timed that first act to 56 minutes," he lamented. "Mechanical troubles extended it instead to an hour and a half."

It was really a brilliant opening in a brilliant setting. . . . Candid shots: Darryl Zanuck sitting next to the stage smoking a cigar this long. . . . Errol Flynn with Lili Damita, who had a beauty spot on her cheekbone. . . . Claudette Colbert coughing from the thick smoke of Mervyn Le Roy's cigar. . . . Mrs. Jack Warner embarrassed when her strapless gown sagged unexpectedly as she was whispering to Marlene Dietrich and Andy Lawlor.

Mrs. Jack Warner's strapless dress falls.

Performers embarrassed when the stage elevators suddenly dropped them out of sight in the middle of a number. . . . Walter Wanger posing for the photogs with Connie and Joan Bennett. . . . Gilbert Roland wearing the mustache he sprouted for "Juarez." . . . Myrna Loy's lovelliness set off by a silver fox cape. . . . It was really a super-super-super-opening.

RKO isn't signing Douglas Corrigan for a second picture until the public shows they like his first.

Myrna Loy's night club laugh.

Seventy year old George Arliss and his missus in town, the veteran proposing to complete his memoirs here for summer publication. . . . The real reason that Arliss was cold to the John D. Rockefeller Sr. picture is that Arliss is an anti-vivisectionist and agin the Rockefeller medical work. . . . I have heard of a lot of casting problems, but this one is unique.

Aside to Mayor La Guardia: Pardon the delay: Didn't get your letter account of holiday mail. . . . Nick the Greek says that Duke is a real good bet at 2½ to 1, but doubts you'll get those odds.

Incidentally, Duke Pundit Wallace Wade says that Notre Dame quarterback Sitko was right in electing a running play on fourth down with fifty seconds to play in the first half of the Southern California game. . . . "That's the play I'd want my quarterback to call," says Wade, "because a kick has two hazards, it can be blocked or run back for a touchdown."

Conrad Nagel, daughter Ruth.

Randy Scott, when he was at White Sulphur Springs, met Sam Snead, and ever since Randy has been playing in the low 70's. . . . I just played with him and Fred Astaire. . . . At the fourteenth, Scott holed a niblick shot out of a bunker forty yards away for a birdie 4. . . . At the seventeenth he laid an iron next to the pin for a birdie 3. . . . It was magnificent, but it cost me $8, and I am sorry that Mister Scott ever met Mister Snead, no clowning.

Chinese songs mingled with English carols and swing. Little Chinese legs draped in soft turquoise blue embroidered pants capered about in American tap dances. Straight bobbed black heads nodded in rhythm with blonde curls. Apparently the only persons who thought the combination curious or quaint were the parents standing around in the background.

Chinese children of Chicago gave a party yesterday afternoon in the Congress hotel. The American children who were the guests made donations to an after-Christmas present for children in war-ridden China. It will be sent to the Chinese Red Cross medical relief commission.

The Chinese children were most decorous as they received their guests and bade them be seated. It was the Chinese children who gave the entertainment, and they took their duties seriously. In an intermission, however, when cookies and lemonade were passed, Oriental reserve broke down completely and the Chinese children giggled and chattered. Every one had fun but one boy, who said sturdily: "No, if we're going to play war you're not going to make a sucker out of me. I'll not be a Jap."

Three little Chinese maids sang Chinese and English songs. The eldest was Katherine Lee, 9 years old, of 5538 Blackstone avenue, whose father, a Hongkong banker, of the seventh generation of bankers in his family, sent Katherine and her mother over here to visit before the war.

While her mother longs to go back to her husband and son, Katherine has become so Americanized that she wants to stay in America and be a nurse. Lilah Kan, 7 years old, of the Blackstone avenue address and a cousin, was another singer.

The other member of the trio was Irena Fung, 6 years old, of 5719 West Eastwood avenue, a lively, gay child, who sang a solo in Chinese, "Tin Foo Bo Duawu," or "Around the Throne." She is one of the Fungs whose removal into the Eastwood neighborhood last summer resulted in protests from some of the neighbors.

"Everything is fine now," said Irena's mother. "All that was so silly. Now the children play with other children and all is natural and peaceful."

Casual Frocks Give You Snap at Budget Price

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Simple little casual dresses, the kind that are smoothly streamlined, detailed with meticulous tailoring, and made of soft but sturdy materials are grand new finds for all shoppers operating on a skimpy budget. Hop sacking fabric is an ideal texture for these models, for the pleats can be pressed flatly and all details can be stitched into position and stay that way. Most of these midseason finds boast short pleated all-the-way round skirts, with blouse tops cut with elbow length sleeves.

The colors are exceptionally beautiful, chartreuse green is the fashion spotlight stealer so far, with crushed raspberry rose, powder blue, and soft yellow and dusty pink coming along in the order named. Small precise prints in off white tint are spattered all over the pastel tinted backgrounds. All the lighter pastels are, of course, designed for cruise and midwinter wardrobes, but there are plenty of extra smart darker shades equal to any occasion here at home.

Two piece combines are emphasized with a third color in the wide suede belt and a few modified dirndl effects in dark colors are laced with contrasting thongs, making good buys for afternoon dresses for home life no matter what the temperature outside.

Office dresses in navy and black are available in clinging dull crêpes in the same low price range. Most of these prints and plain solid colored clothes are tagged with price marks that never go over the $17 limit; and most of them are priced around $10, with some even lower. They're the snappiest casual clothes in town. Even the most exacting clothes collector will appreciate the snap of the silhouettes, the details, the lovely new colors, and the amazingly low price marks.

Frock for Slender Figures

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

It takes slim figures to wear the princess frock well, because it is such a revealing style. No excess curve could escape notice when the lines of a dress are utterly plain and there are no plaits, fullness, or belts to hide superfluous pounds. Therefore this slim princess dress is designed for sizes 11 to 19 only. These are sizes, not ages, remember, so if you're 16 or 60, it makes no difference, just so your figure conforms.

This frock has a V neckline, which may be bound or faced. The center panel veers off into jaunty pockets up near the shoulder. The pointed effect achieved is flattering to the bustline. The sleeves are puffed, and may be either long or short. If you like, use a slide fastener or buttons down the bodice.

All types of fabrics make up well in this model. The original is of silk, but soft woolens and cottons [in case you are going south] are equally acceptable

Style No. 2147 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1¼ yards of 1 inch bias binding.

BAKED HAM TASTES BETTER WITH

10-MINUTE CRANBERRY SAUCE

1½ cups sugar — 2 cups water

1 pound (4 cups) Eatmor Cranberries

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open. (5 minutes is usually sufficient.) Remove from fire, allow the sauce to remain in vessel until cool. 1 pound of Eatmor Cranberries makes 2½ pounds of sauce.

YOUR NEW YEAR'S HAM will taste better, hot or cold, at dinner or buffet suppers, when you dress it up with home-made cranberry sauce. Quick, easy, colorful—and so good to eat you'll be glad you made a lot!

Her Second Choice

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright, 1938, By Elizabeth York Miller.]

Nora Stacy receives a letter from India from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob. Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob, hoping he'll call off the wedding, but Bob goes through with it. Their wedding night Bob tells Nora he married her for convenience, too. They agree their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Cissy Longton tells Nora that Mrs. Almy, who used to work in their office, is suspected of giving away the firm's secrets to a rival. Nora dismisses the housekeeper, Mrs. Cooper, when she finds her conspiring with Mrs. Almy. Bob is in danger of being arrested for double crossing his country. A government man, Capt. Grew, arrives at Fairways and Bob invites him to stay for an informal party. He tells Bob he is investigating Mrs. Almy, Bob's suspected mistress. Nora hears him. Mrs. Almy is plotting with Jim to steal plans that night from the Fairways Tower room safe. Pearl faints just after Jim has pretended to leave, but Mrs. Callender sees him later sneaking out from the Tower room door. Bob takes Pearl home and returns to Nora with lipstick on his face. He doesn't explain that Pearl forced her Judas kiss on him. He thinks Nora gave Jim a duplicate key to the Tower room, but she convinces him otherwise. On her way to Sunday service Nora meets Jim.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

NO QUARTER TO AN ENEMY.

A shadow darkened the doorway and the voice of Capt. Grew exclaimed: "Hello. I thought there must be somebody in here! You've got a fire, I see."

Nora was a picture of confusion, while Jim stared at the intruder with a mixture of disdain and impudence.

"Quite a cozy little cabin—what is it? A mill house?"

"It used to be. Well, so long, Nora—I've got to get back on the double. Sorry to make you late for church."

That was his way—the coward's way. He was off with no more than a surly nod at the captain, leaving her to face the music alone.

"I hope you don't think . . ." Nora said with a twisted smile.

"Unfortunately I am paid to think," the young man from the home office told her. "Perhaps by this time you know who I am."

"Yes, my husband told me."

"And I suppose he sent you to have a little chat with Mr. Murdock in this somewhat unusual spot?"

"My husband thinks I went to church," Nora said. "I don't imagine he would be too pleased if he knew. You see, he has some reason to believe I am in love with Mr. Murdock."

Again it was that other Nora who urged—nay, compelled—her to speak so frankly. Her manner was simplicity itself.

"I thought you were, too," he said.

"Did you hear what we were talking about?"

"No, I'm sorry to say, I didn't. Are you going to ask me to say nothing to Mr. Matherson about this—er—little encounter?"

"It would be kind of you to let me tell him myself," she said sweetly.

Nora ran towards the church, slackened her pace in the vestibule, and then slipped inside to take a seat in one of the pews near the door.

She knelt down, buried her face in her hands and strove to get back her breath.

Nora had breakfasted in her room and gone off without seeing Bob, but as she left the house she heard his voice from somewhere in the grounds.

He was lending the gardeners a hand with clearing paths.

David and Cissy and the Rawlings all went to church.

When Bob saw smoke ascending from the cottage at the gates, he took his shovel down there and cleared Pearl Almy's path for her. Bonzo came frisking out to help him and presently the mottled face of Mrs. Cooper appeared briefly at the bow window. It disappeared almost as quickly.

Bob set down his shovel, made a snow ball to throw for Bonzo, and then stamped the snow off his boots preparatory to banging the knocker. He had to wait a little while and even knock again before the door was opened a crack revealing a section of Mrs. Cooper's face.

"I'm sorry, sir, but Mrs. Almy isn't down yet," she whined.

"It's you I want to see," said Bob.

She had to let him in, although in spite of what she had said to Nora yesterday, it was plain she did not anticipate any satisfaction from the interview.

"Wh-what can I do for you, sir?" she quavered.

But Bob looked as mild as milk. He began to unbutton his coat to find his notecase and fountain pen.

"How is Mrs. Almy this morning?" he asked pleasantly, as he produced these objects.

"Well, sir . . . she seems very well. Only she isn't up yet. . . . I hope you know, sir, that my leaving you at such short notice was due to a misunderstanding——"

"That's all right, Mrs. Cooper. I want to make out your check. How much do I owe you?"

"Well, sir, it would be a month's board and wages, I take it, in addition to the two weeks' due on this month."

"And you were getting thirty shillings a week, weren't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then I owe you three pounds."

Mrs. Cooper stared at him aghast.

"Why, sir—that's only for the two weeks that's already owing!" she exclaimed.

Bob had cleared a place on a table and was busy writing out the check. When he had finished he said: "Yes, I know, and that is all you are going to get, my good woman. I don't make presents to traitors. Here you are, and I have told Keen to pick you up with your luggage in half an hour and drive you to the station. Otherwise it is just possible some one from the police may pay you a call and ask a few awkward questions."

Mrs. Cooper's face looked like a pallid jelly with purple spots on it.

"I'd like to know what this means!" she gasped.

And her gasp was echoed by one from the landing of the stairs, which ran up from the back of the living room.

There stood Pearl, clutching a dressing gown, and her face was glittering pale, like frosted marble.

"Yes—" she said faintly. "What can you mean, Bob? What has poor Mrs. Cooper done? Surely, if it was anybody's fault it was mine, for presuming to run in to have a chat with her."

She came on slowly down the stairs, her gaze intent as though to search the innermost workings of his mind.

Was it possible he had discovered the theft? If so, she was in a far tighter hole than Mrs. Cooper, who of course knew nothing about what had happened last night.

"This woman has abused my confidence," Bob said. "Properly speaking, she made the mistake of thinking that she was in your employ instead of mine. Beyond that, we need not go. . . . I know that Mrs. Matherson promised you a month's wages in lieu of notice, Mrs. Cooper, but that was before I discovered the facts of the case. Here's your check—and count yourself lucky."

If looks could kill, Robert Matherson would have dropped dead on the spot. But obviously the dismissed housekeeper had a guilty conscience, on more than one score as it happened, and she had no way of finding out if Bob knew that not only had she allowed Mrs. Almy the run of Fairways when Beals wasn't anywhere about, but had allowed her to help herself wholesale from the stores and wine cellar.

Mrs. Cooper picked up her check and started to go, but at the door she paused and asked: "What about my reference?"

"I am afraid you will have to rely on Mrs. Almy for that, or use the one you had before you came to Fairways," Bob replied.

Pearl Almy was shaking with fright. She knew her man and the reputation he had for never giving quarter to an enemy. Mrs. Cooper had afforded a salutary example.

"You shouldn't have come down," Bob said.

"I always knew you were cruel," she said.

"What? Because I refuse to pay blackmail to a lying, treacherous woman? Because I won't give her a reference, so she can go into somebody else's house and play the same game over again? I should think by this time, Pearl, you knew me better than that."

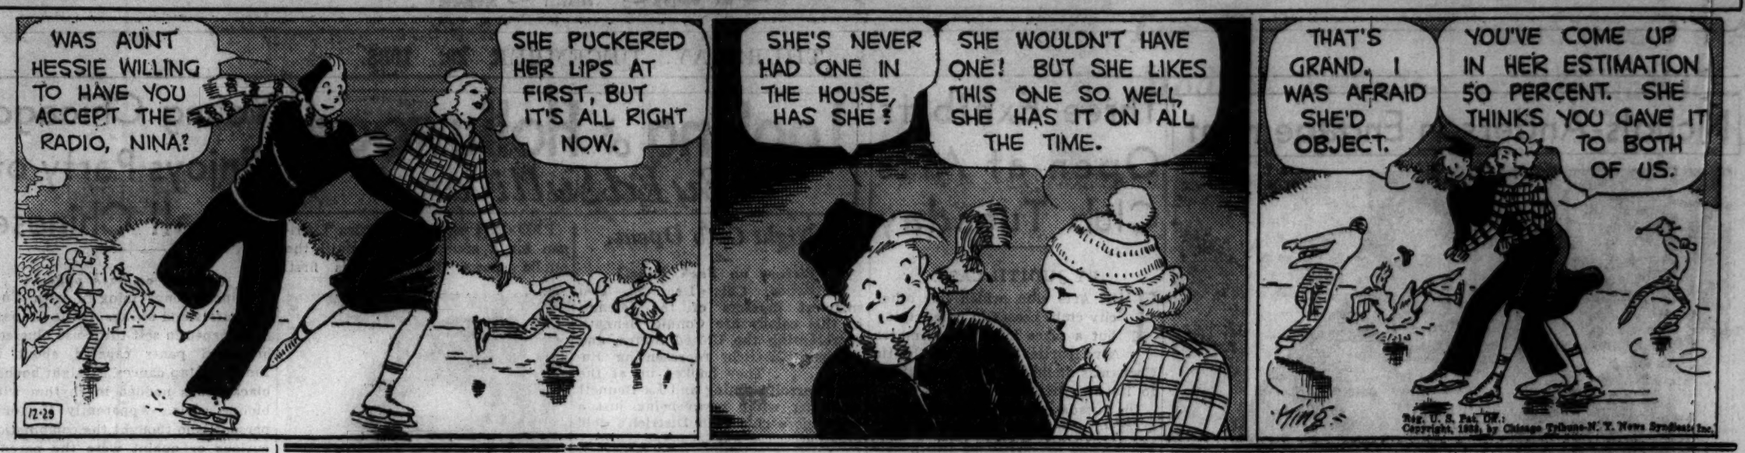
GASOLINE ALLEY—IT'S A PLOT



Chic Demands Cleanliness of One's Attire

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The conversation of one of those visiting neighbors brought forth the announcement from a husband: "Women do look neater and better pressed than men. I guess it is because they send their clothes to the cleaners oftener."

"Yes?" questioned one of the wives. "That's news to me. In our household men's clothes go to the cleaners more often than the feminine wardrobe."

There's a point there, anyway, for thought. It would be shameful did we deliberately disillusion such men as believe we are cleanliness addicts. We also are a bit inclined to disagree that women are the better pressed and dry-cleaned sex. Women at home on limited budgets will see to it that Dad's suit gets off on time so that his office appearance is good. If there's scrimping to do, they will do it. The neat ones, however, will learn how to clean their own clothes, brush and sponge and press them at the ironing board. And there's no question on earth of the influence such clothes care has in keeping up a reputation for an attractive appearance. There are home slackers in this respect, true, but there are slackers also among the business girl group who should be most meticulous in this respect.

All women should be meticulous about their clothes. They [the clothes, not the women] should be sent to the cleaners often, unless, as said, you are skilled in the work yourself. We will find few men, we fear, to flatter us into believing we are the well pressed ones. This is their domain, one in which they are expert and observing. We have heard more than one man speak of the rumpled skirt, for example, copies of which are seen time and again when women rise from their seats in public conveyances. You see skirts that look as if they had not been pressed, brushed or rejuvenated since the day they were bought. That's an item to ponder, if you'd register as one of the best and neatest.

There is an additional consideration women should give in connection with clothes being sent frequently to the cleaners. It is that of perspiration odor, which will get into suit and coats and cling everlastingly. Your woolen frocks retain these odors just as unpleasantly, and the sweater type of thing really should be bought for its washability, for suds seem to be the one thing that will successfully restore their freshness.

Roosevelt Academy Cadets Hold Fifth Military Ball

Six hundred members of the Roosevelt Military academy at Aledo, Ill., and their guests last night held the fifth annual military ball in the Lake Shore Athletic club. The academy was named for the late President Theodore Roosevelt. The ball was sponsored by the parent and alumni association. The crack cadet drill team, led by Cadet Lieutenant Robert Hodge of River Forest and directed by Maj. James M. Rudolph, gave an exhibition. Cadet Lieutenant Hodge and Miss Leah Dannenberg of 6042 Kenmore avenue led the grand march.

The Housewife

The best furniture craftsmen—men who have spent a lifetime in the creation of good furniture—use a wax polish to keep it looking well and to preserve the beauty of the wood. For wax leaves a mellow, satin-like finish rather than one of a high mirror-like gloss.

You can buy this wax polish and use it on your own furniture. It cleans and polishes in one operation and it can be applied over wax or any other polish. Simply put it on lightly with a clean, soft cloth. Let it dry a minute or two, then polish with another clean cloth until the wood takes on a mellow luster and is dry and smooth to the touch. A polish such as this is excellent for antique furniture as well as for modern pieces. EDITH WEIGLE.

Engineers Give Annual Luncheon for Daughters

The annual fathers', sons', and daughters' luncheon of the Chicago Engineers' club was held yesterday in the club dining room at 314 Federal street. About 114 attended, including some grandfathers and grandchildren. Edward Haupt, an honorary member, spoke. W. A. Mann is president of the club. O. F. Burnett Jr. was chairman of the program committee.

Before the youngsters start back to school again they may want to have a session of popcorn ball making. Holiday time seems the best time of all for popcorn balls. Friends and relatives, both old and young, are dropping in at odd times, and those who won't care to join in the popcorn ball making probably will be willing to help eat the crunchy confections.

Plain Popcorn Balls.
5 quarts popped corn
2 cups sugar
1½ cups water
⅓ cup white corn sirup
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Shake unpopped kernels from popcorn. Boil sugar, water, corn sirup, and salt to the very hard ball stage, from 254 to 260 degrees by the candy thermometer. Add vinegar and vanilla, and boil to light crack stage, 264 degrees. Pour sirup slowly over the corn. Stir well and quickly to coat all of the corn. When cool enough to handle, butter the hands and shape corn into balls. Let stand until hardened. Wrap individually in wax paper.

Molasses Popcorn Balls.
[15 medium.]
3 quarts popcorn
1 cup molasses
½ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt

Remove unpopped kernels from corn. Put molasses, sugar, butter, and salt in a saucepan, and cook to 230 degrees. Add the vinegar and cook to 238 degrees. Remove from heat. Pour over corn and mix well with a spoon. When cool enough to handle grease hands with butter and shape into balls. Let stand until cold. Wrap in wax paper.

Maple Popcorn Balls.
[10 small.]
2½ quarts popped corn
1 cup light corn sirup
½ cup maple sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt

Cook maple sugar and corn sirup together, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until sirup reaches 275 degrees. This, by the cold water test, is a very hard, almost brittle stage. Remove from heat, add butter and stir only enough to mix. Pour slowly over the popcorn. Mix well. Form into balls with the hands [which have been greased with butter].

President of Williams to Be Luncheon Guest

The Williams College Alumni association will give its annual midwinter fathers' and sons' luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. James P. Baxter III., president of Williams college, will attend the luncheon.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The somewhat sallow skin is a trial. You know the kind. Maybe you have one yourself. It never looks shining clean and radiant and the sallowness has nothing whatever to do with natural color. And somehow, the sallow skin looks old.

What such a skin needs usually is stimulation in pleasant, easy doses. Using a complexion brush for cleansing at least a couple of times a week is one excellent way to pep up the dull skin. A little gentle patting each time you apply cream, whether cleansing cream or the lubricating kind, is a good habit to develop.

But there are creams that have a different effect on the dingy complexion. Some are circulation creams or stimulating mixtures. Our own idea is that most of these should be confined to use in the salons, where the operator can judge exactly how much stimulation your skin will take and where she is familiar with the action of the preparation used. Many of these cannot and should not be used near the eyes.

A cream that can be used at home, with great success and complete lack of any risk of irritation, is one made by a great beauty specialist. It's been on the market for years and has more enthusiasts every day. This cream is not a cleanser nor a massage cream. It is to be filmed on the skin at night and allowed to remain. It's designed to clarify the dull skin and to refine its trying texture. And results with it have been remarkable. Women over thirty are its greatest boosters, but lots of youngsters who court complexion radiance are adopting it, too. If your own skin lacks that look of freshness by all means give this a thorough trial. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Eleanor Janney Wears Old Lace as Bride Today

The lovely old rosepoint lace veil that Miss Eleanor Janney will wear for her wedding this afternoon to Walter Miles Harvey Jr. has been loaned to her by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams Lynde. It is an heirloom in their family and has been worn many times. Mr. and Mrs. Lynde are the parents of Miss Janney's stepfather, Cornelius Lynde.

Miss Janney's marriage to Mr. Harvey, son of the Walter Miles Harveys of New York, will take place in Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lynde's Winnetka home at 5 o'clock.

Only the families will hear the Rev. Samuel D. Harkness of the Winnetka Congregational church read the services. A reception will follow at 5:30 o'clock. Ensign Frederick E. Janney will give his sister in marriage. Their father, Laurance A. Janney of Stamford, Conn., was unable to come for the wedding, and so were Mr. Harvey's parents.

Mrs. John M. Adams of New York will be her sister's matron of honor and her daughter, Joan, will be the flower girl. Mr. Adams is not coming west until New Year's eve. Woodward Boynton of Highland Park will be Mr. Harvey's best man.

Present at the ceremony will be young Mr. Janney's fiancée, Miss Ethel Wanner of La Jolla, Cal., who is remaining here until after the wedding of Miss Ruth Tilden and Robert M. Nelson on Jan. 16.

Miss Janney's stepbrother, Samuel A. Lynde II., is engaged to Miss Eleanor Wilson. Mr. Harvey and his bride will make their home in New York.

Another wedding of interest taking place in Winnetka tonight is that of Miss Beatrice Short, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Robson Short of Winnetka, to Christopher George Janus, son of Mrs. George Janus of Athens, Greece, formerly of Washington, D. C., and the late Mr. Janus.

Miss Short and Mr. Janus will be married at 8:30 o'clock in the Winnetka Congregational church with the Rev. Samuel Harkness officiating. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Marion Short will be maid of honor for her sister and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Hugh Franklin Waddell of Petersboro, Ont., Miss Barbara Kimbrough of Spokane, Wash., Mrs. Jeffrey R. Short Jr., Mrs. William Ward Evans of Pittsburgh, Mrs. John Kingery and Miss Louisa Beane of Cambridge, Mass. Fay Walker will be the flower girl.

Carl Hedblom of Cambridge will be best man. The ushers will be Leonard Eliel of Berkeley, Cal., Stanley Harris Jr., Mr. Short, William Morris Hunt of Brookline, Mass., Dr. George P. Biggs of Montclair, N. J., and Philip Weld of Elmhurst. Mr. Janus and his bride will make their home in New York.

The Rt. Rev. Frank E. Wilson, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Eau Claire, Wis., and Mrs. Wilson, formerly of Chicago, announce the marriage yesterday of their daughter, Florence Harrington Wilson, to Robert Charles Goold of Armada, Mich. The wedding took place at 4 o'clock in Christ church cathedral, Eau Claire, with a reception following in the parish house. Mr. Goold and his bride will make their home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Miss Cynthia Waldron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Waldron of Fort Madison, Ia., formerly of Evanston, and Dr. Richard Allen Twyman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Twyman of Kansas City, Mo., were married last night in the Union Presbyterian church at Fort Madison.

Among the bride's attendants were Mrs. Edwin C. Ward and Mrs. Hall Lippincott of Evanston. Dr. Twyman and his bride will make their home in Rochester, Minn., where he will be associated with the Mayo clinic.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Perkins of Highland Park announce the marriage on Dec. 24 of their daughter, Virginia, to Jack Keith White, son of Mrs. James Stewart White and the late Mr. White.

The bride was graduated from Principia college. Mr. White attended Washington and Lee university. Mr. and Mrs. White will be at home in Chicago after Jan. 15.

Lake Forest Alumni.

The Lake Forest academy's annual fathers' and sons' luncheon will take place this noon at the Union League club. Gen. Roy D. Keehn will speak. Ephraim Banning, president of the alumni association, will preside.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is perhaps no single bid from which a partnership can gain more, or lose more, than from a penalty double. I am not referring merely to the fact that the point score is doubled. There is a far more important side to the matter. In countless hands contracts are fulfilled only by virtue of the information which the double has given the declarer. I have said time and again that a close double of a slam bid is usually the height of folly. In the first place, the mathematics of the proposition are terrifically against the doubler. Presumably [if the opponents are any good] the contract will not be defeated more than one trick and, in this case, instead of collecting 100 points the doubler collects 200. If it is redoubled he stands to collect 400 instead of 100 [vulnerable], a gain of 300 points.

Now let us look at the other side of the picture. Suppose six spades is the contract, and that it is redoubled and fulfilled. The doubler has lost the difference between the 720 point trick score he is giving the opponents and the 180 points they would have taken if he had kept quiet. Even this is not the greatest potential loss of a bad double. If it places cards for declarer's guidance that could not otherwise be located the loss is simply terrific.

With this philosophy as a background, it is logical that a special significance should be attached to the double of a slam contract when, as and if it is made by a good player. The partner of the doubler should realize that the opponents have either undertaken one of those rare slam contracts which can be defeated so many tricks that an ordinary penalty double is the correct action or [and this is much more likely] that the doubler hopes to tell his partner, who is on lead, that certain action is required to defeat the contract at all. Thus we come to the lead-directing double of a slam contract, which can be summed up as follows: When the player who is not on lead doubles a slam he expects the leader to open a suit that he would not otherwise have selected. Let us apply this to an actual hand.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	2 clubs	3 spades	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

Actually, North was so pleased that he had an ace about which his partner could know nothing that he laid it down and that was that! West ruffed, drew trumps, and collected thirteen tricks.

If South had not doubled the final contract North could not have been blamed for his lead. The double, however, changed matters radically. South had given an absolute command for an unusual lead to be made. Actually, since North had five diamonds, it should not have been difficult for him to read South's intention and hope. But even if North had had fewer diamonds he should have been able to "follow orders" and open that suit. Admittedly North, with a short diamond suit and without the ace of hearts, might have felt that South's double called for a heart opening as the unusual lead. But the very presence of the heart ace in his hand guaranteed that South could not be hoping for such a lead. Hence his choice was distinctly narrowed to the one suit, diamonds. On a diamond opening, which South would have ruffed, the redoubled contract would have been defeated for a terrific "swing."

The Palette Club Has Interesting Winter Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The forty-fourth annual winter exhibition of paintings by members has opened at the Palette and Chisel Academy of the Fine Arts, 1012 North Dearborn street. It is a competent show, not perhaps as brilliant as other similar exhibits this gallery has staged, but interesting and, in part, stimulating.

J. Jeffrey Grant, for instance, shows two stunning canvases, one a landscape of a village buried in trees, tranquil, comforting and serene, the other, "Little Italy," a narrow street on a windy Monday morning with a week's wash cavorting like captured clouds on the lines stretched from house to house.

Leo Marzolo is to be congratulated on the exquisite beauty of his "Rose Leaves and Apples" and "The Red Apple." The first is done in the most delicious pastel shades imaginable, the perfect picture for a young girl's room; the second plays on a dull red motif and captures in brief the feel and color of autumn.

Mr. Marzolo has won a national reputation for his magnificent work in restoring and caring for the masterpieces at the Art institute.

There is no one painter in or near Chicago who can paint the nude as can Josef Tomanek. In the present exhibit his "The Bathing Pool" is a charming composition of garden, water and a bevy of young nymphs in various stages of dress. His figures are a delight.

Curry Bohm gives us an intriguing landscape with a rocky foreground backed by a range of hills partially lost in veils of shifting mist. Maurice Greenberg is responsible for "Peonies," a clump of flowers in a blue vase. The poetry that usually characterizes his work unfortunately is lacking here. Arnold Turtle gives us a still life of flowers that is poetic and a street scene in Galena that has been so enchantingly transformed by his accommodating fancy one might easily mistake Illinois for Florida.

James Topping shows two stunning landscapes and Holger Jensen a rather chilly view of California hills.

Mother Goose's Children Appear in Cross-Stitch

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here are five colorful cross-stitch figures depicting the activities of the famous Mother Goose children. This group may be arranged on a plain background and used as a wall hanging for the nursery, or may be worked individually and placed at random around the walls of the room. They are excellent figures by which to teach the youngsters the story of each person indicated.

'Copperhead' Is Too Dated for Modern Stage

BY CECIL SMITH.

Currently in revival by the Federal theater project at the Blackstone theater is Augustus Thomas' "The Copperhead," a drama of civil war mock heroics in which Lionel Barrymore made an immense success back in 1918. In the present performance Ian Keith plays Mr. Barrymore's old rôle of the Union sympathizer who serves his cause by joining the Copperheads in order to spy on confederate activities in the north.

"The Copperhead" now makes a faintly interesting museum piece. Its theater technique, much older than the chronological age of the play, belongs to the turn of the century, when the author fabricated his first successes. The personages of the play are either noble, i. e., Union adherents, or ignoble, i. e., confederate sympathizers. The hero is universally held by family and friends to belong to the second classification until the final scene, when he confesses his true status forty years too late to serve any purpose except to bring down the final curtain.

Mr. Keith presents the hero with laudable stagecraft, both as of 1861 and as of 1901. But nothing can save his lines or any one else's from seeming bombastic and outmoded. The saving grace of humor deserted the author most of the time, with the result that the play unintentionally trembles on the brink of burlesque a little too often for the comfort of the audience.

The production of "The Copperhead" represents a determination on the part of the Federal theater to give up ax grinding pamphleteering in favor of sheer entertainment. I can only wish it were entertaining. The settings are beautiful and the costumes tasteful. The cast includes several promising young talents. The play itself, however, is only valuable historically and is bound to seem dead as a dodo to a modern audience.

Pianist Who Changed Mind 5 Years Ago Will Marry the Same Man

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—After an "indefinite postponement," lasting more than five years, Eleanor Hepburn Fisk, concert pianist, daughter of Mrs. Pliny Fisk and granddaughter of the late Harvey Fisk, the banker, will wed Hugh Fraser Noall, English actor and musician.

Just when the marriage will take place wasn't known to Mrs. Fisk in New York today. She confirmed reports that there would be a wedding, and that the couple left New York yesterday for the event. The mother at one time was reported to object to the marriage.

The license was issued today at Doylestown, Pa. The couple was given a marriage license in New York City hall in April of 1933. Miss Fisk changed her mind the next day after going to the city hall to be married. At that time she was 28 years old and Noall was 30.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Willis of Hinsdale announce the engagement of their daughter, Josephine Bangs, to Edward Wright Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Eaton of Hinsdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edmund Higgs of Riverside announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis, to Arthur Waldo Thiede, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Thiede of River Forest. Mr. Thiede is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. No date has been set for the wedding.

Health Alters Personality of Teen Age Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A small child's world is quite simple and so his ways of acting have quite simple motives or reasons, which makes it easier to unravel troubling conduct. Older, "growing" boys and girls as we call them, still live in a comparatively simple world, though an expanding one, and so when friction and conflicts arise it is comparatively easy to learn why and do something about it.

But when our sons and daughters approach manhood and womanhood, life grows more and more complicated for them and the reasons why they act as they do are often subtle and intermingled. Neither child nor man they are—first one, then the other. Neither child nor man—they crave independence, yet are not financially nor emotionally independent.

This is not always a tempestuous time for them and their parents, but it often is. Or if it's not tempestuous it is frequently a time when parents who desire so much a happy, right life for their young people are anxious at each sign of trouble in the form of conflict or discontent.

We've talked a lot about possible causes in this column, so we'll suppose you've gone over things pretty thoroughly with yourself. You and your husband have made what seems to you to be a normal, happy home for your son or daughter.

You all love each other and the children have always been treated in a friendly affectionate way. You've tried to think things out intelligently and feel as if you can't have gone far wrong. And yet your child isn't socially inclined, is self-conscious, seems discontented, and really worries you a great deal.

Have you ever thought that some of this might have a physical origin? Adolescence has been said by one physician writer to be the healthiest time in a child's life. That may be, but I do know that it is a time of susceptibility to certain diseases and a time when great physical exertion in sports can have permanently bad effects.

Adolescence is a time not only of rapid growth but uneven growth. Take the young person of 15 who has shot up to his [or her] full height. There is not necessarily a comparable increase in growth and development of bone tissue, muscle tissue, and vital organs. Such young people and others must be guarded against overexertion and must not be allowed to "burn themselves out," as one college coach puts it, in highly competitive, especially in inter-scholastic, sports.

If your teen age children are fretting you a lot, have you ever thought that your child's health or appearance might have something to do with all this? A boy or girl who seems to be too fat or too thin should be taken to a good doctor for general health examination.

LONE MATANUSKA COLONIST FIGHTS COLLECTIVE RULE

New Deal Seeks to Purge Individualist Farmer.

Of all the 200 men who took their families several years ago to the Matanuska valley project in Alaska, one has been an outstanding success. He is an individualist and is making money. How this man, Walter Pippel, is being treated by New Deal agencies because he won't go along with collectivist ideas is related in an article by Ted Leitzell, published in the January number of the American Mercury.

"He [Pippel] has succeeded because he is a level headed, hardworking, old-fashioned American farmer," the article states, "able and willing to stand on his own feet.

"Herded Into Agreement."

"With tactics waranted to bring a nod of approval from Stalin himself, the other reluctant and unhappy colonists of Roosevelt's Alaskan adventure have been herded into agreements which leave them entirely at the mercy of the local New Deal commissars.

"They may not market their own produce; they must farm the way they are told; even after they pay for their lands they may be thrown off on thirty day notice if they displease the dictators in any way. They may not even sell their land, nor leave it to their children when they die, without the consent of the all-powerful who plan their daily lives for them."

Pippel, standing on his own feet now, with money in the bank, has refused to market his produce through a coöperative under the control of the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation corporation. He stands on the proposition that he is willing to carry out his obligations under his original contract, and that he can't be forced to sign new contracts which have been thought up by the dictators.

Ejection Hearing Slated.

The corporation, however, holds that Pippel was grubstaked by the government and that his profits should be shared with the coöperative. It has started proceedings in the federal court at Anchorage to eject him from his Matanuska homestead. The first hearing will come up Jan. 9.

Pippel's history is different from that of the early arrivals who bowed to the governmental will. One family got $16,000 worth of credit, then left Alaska after informing its friends that the government had canceled the whole amount. Others have followed the same system, and a total of 86 colonist families of the original 200 have given up and come back to the United States.

Pippel, who went to Alaska from Hennepin county, Minnesota, went to work. He carried out all his agreements, he maintains. His garden truck was good, and he sold it in the Alaskan cities at high prices. He added a greenhouse in which he grew tomatoes and cucumbers and other fresh stuff.

New Contracts Sent Out.

This individualism aroused "the comrades," in the words of Author Leitzell. In December, 1937, the corporation informed the colonists that each would be credited with liberal payments on mortgages provided he was a member in good standing by Jan. 1, 1940, of the coöperative that has been designated the marketing agency for the colony.

Then the corporation sent out the new contracts. They outlined a completely collectivist economy, according to Leitzell. "Whenever the corporation decides that the purchaser has failed to comply with the terms of the contract," the article states, "it is in a position to see him thrown off and virtually its own price paid for his land."

According to Leitzell's article, practically all the other colonists had to sign because they feared the government wouldn't feed them unless they did. Already $5,000,000 has been spent in Matanuska, or $34,000 per family, says the article. Leitzell relates that most of them say they won't pay back anything—that the government will take care of them if they obey the collectivist rules laid down for them.

LAD, 13, 'SPELLS DOWN' 46 GIRLS FOR STATE TITLE

Defeats 10 Boys, Too; Misses 16 Words.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Malcolm Miesenheider, 13 years old, of Palestine, Ill., won the state spelling championship today in a contest participated in by ten other boys and forty-six girls, all county champions. He is the first boy to win the state contest in many years.

Malcolm misspelled only sixteen out of 200 words. The ones he missed are:

incorrigibly	awe
queasy	gnome
nauseous	quixically
trousseau	mulatto
carboniferous	lingerie
iridescence	hierarchy
hideous	charade
superheterodyne	brusquely

The new champion, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miesenheider, said he had studied intensively to win the Crawford county championship. For two weeks he was excused from all classes at the Palestine school while his principal, R. M. Wright, drilled him for the contest in the state house today.

Awarded a Gold Medal.

"But it was worth all the trouble," the boy said, grinning. He was awarded a gold medal and his school was given a large banner.

Second place went to Edith Morris, 13 years old, of Tiskilwa, the champion of Bureau county. She missed eighteen words. A silver medal was awarded to her and a banner to her school. All other winners were given bronze medals and their schools were presented with smaller banners.

Mildred Neal, 13 years old, of Sorento, took third place, missing nineteen words. Minnie Baima, also 13, placed fourth after misspelling twenty-one words.

Other Winners.

Norma Jean Williamson, 12 years old, of Chatham, was fifth, with twenty-three missed words. Other winners were Bessie McKean, Cuba, in sixth place; Mario Soli of Henry, seventh, and Mary Helen Spelbring of Piper City, eighth.

Peggy Lou Ausberg of Pinckneyville won first place in the contest on principal uses of the dictionary. Other places in the following order were awarded to Lorraine Mohme of Sorento, Ada Logan of Cuba, Norma Fugate of Weldon, and Margaret Stock of East Lynn.

COACHES ADVISE SIX FOOTBALL RULE CHANGES

FEAR ALDRICH IS LOST TO T. C. U. FOR BOWL GAME

Star Center Has an Ulcer on His Eye.

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Burly Ki Aldrich, Texas Christian's center was treated tonight for an ulcer on the cornea of his eye that may keep him out of the Sugar Bowl game against Carnegie Tech at New Orleans Monday.

Dr. Webb Walker, Fort Worth specialist, examined the big lineman today and immediately advised Coach Leo [Dutch] Meyer not to use Aldrich in practice and added "There is a chance he will be unable to play Monday."

Aldrich scrimmaged yesterday and it wasn't until many hours later that his eye troubled him.

May Use Sophomore.

Second string center on the Horned Frog team is Clarence [Lefty] Alexander, a 195 pound sophomore who may be called upon to fill a gap that Aldrich plugged in incomparable fashion.

"The loss of Ki would damage us badly," said Coach Meyer. "He means a great deal more to us than a fine automatic player. He has the fire and leadership we need."

Aldrich, in three years on the varsity, has never lost a minute because of an injury.

DUKE ENDS SIGHTSEEING

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Duke's football followers today left the Blue Devil team to finish in secret its training for the Jan. 2 encounter with the University of Southern California. Wallace Wade, Duke coach, escorted his squad through a Hollywood movie studio this morning and announced it was the last sightseeing expedition until after the game Monday.

Little Worry Over Casualties.

Little official anxiety was expressed over the "crick" in the back developed yesterday by Dan Hill, co-captain and center of the Devils, or the ailment contracted by speedy Mickey Anderson, Trojan reserve quarter back, who ate too much Christmas turkey.

Coach Wade continued to put his squad through heavy contact work, covering punts and passing.

The Trojans, with Grenville Lansdell, Anderson, and Oliver Day as passers, have rehersed aerial tactics all week.

WEST HAS SCRIMMAGE

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Scrimmage appeared on the training program of the Western team today in preparation for the all-collegian charity football game here Jan. 2 with the east.

It was a surprise move by the Western coaches, Biff Jones and Orin Hollingbery. With five days to go it had been expected practice would be reduced to tapering off routine.

East Has Two Drills.

Stanford university players, on whose campus the West team trains, rounded up an eleven composed of Stanford and some Oregon State college players. Against this pickup team, the West ran off its assortment of plays.

Coaches Kerr and Bierman sent their Eastern stars through morning and afternoon drills. John Wysocki, Villanova end, major casualty of the last scrimmage with a wrenched back, was in uniform but took it easy.

COACHES AT MIAMI GLOOMY

Miami, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Coaches of the unbeaten Tennessee and Oklahoma football teams expressed dissatisfaction today with the results of semi-secret workouts for next Monday's Orange Bowl game.

"Not so good," Coach Tom Stidham said when asked how the Sooners looked. "The boys look sluggish. They haven't recovered from the effects of the train ride. We'll spend the next three days trying to get acclimated, then we'll go out on the field Monday and pray."

Maj. Bob Neyland, the Tennessee coach, was almost as pessimistic.

"Our hope is in passing," he said. "We're going to have to pass to get through that Oklahoma defense. Why, they outweigh us by a good ten pounds to the man. Our offense has been overbalanced on the running side all season and we are trying to do something about it."

WELCOME SUN BOWL TEAMS

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 28.—(AP)—This border city laid out the welcome mat tonight for visiting football teams and a probable 22,000 who will see them next Monday in the Sun bowl.

First to arrive were Coach Ike Armstrong and a squad of thirty Utah players. They lost no time in getting on their cleats and going to work on the practice field.

At Albuquerque, the University of New Mexico squad, forty-three strong, boarded its train. It will arrive here tomorrow morning.

RODAK TO FIGHT EFRATI IN ONE OF 3 TEN ROUNDERS

Bout Heads Program at Coliseum Tonight.

Leo Rodak, National Boxing association featherweight leader, and Leone Efrati of Rome, Italy, will meet tonight in the Coliseum, 15th street and Wabash avenue. The bout is one of three at ten rounds being presented under the auspices of James C. Mullen, Chicago's pioneer promoter.

Leone Efrati.

The others match Al Mancini, featherweight of Providence, R. I., and Frankie [Kid] Covelli of Brooklyn, and Al Roth, New York lightweight, and Billy Marquart of Winnipeg, Man.

In addition, there will be an eight round rematch between Johnny Barbara and Harold Brown, rival welterweights of Chicago.

Davis, Sabino in Opener.

The program will open at 8:30 p. m. when Verle Davis, 135 pound slugger of Kankakee, and Babe Sabino of Dallas, Tex., clash. Each of these matches has caused a stir among Chicago fans. Interest has been so great that Mullen is predicting more than 5,000 spectators will pay in excess of $9,000 to see the bouts. Rodak, Barbara, Brown, and Davis are graduates of Chicago Golden Gloves tournaments.

Major attention is being given the Rodak-Efrati meeting. Rodak will be making his first Chicago appearance since he held Jackie Wilson to a ten round draw in Marigold Gardens last Jan. 10. He expects to hands his Italian opponent a boxing lesson.

Leo reached this conclusion after watching Efrati fight an eight round draw with Eddie Dempsey in International Amphitheater Nov. 29.

Made to Order, They Say.

"Efrati is made to order for Leo," Rodak's handlers said yesterday after the Chicago boxer had ended workouts in a loop gymnasium. "Leone is aggressive, punches fairly hard, and has considerable stamina, but Leo is too clever for him." Efrati did appear unimpressive against Dempsey, but he earned the Rodak assignment by his fine work in conquering Frankie Covelli in the Park Casino Dec. 7.

For that reason Efrati's backers are confident their protégé will score an upset and remain undefeated in nine American battles. The outcome means considerable to both boxers. Rodak must win if he expects to obtain recognition as undisputed world 126 pound title holder. If Efrati loses decisively, he will drop to the preliminary ranks from which he rose after his arrival in this country four months ago.

The stipulated weight is 132 pounds. Rodak weighed 129 pounds last night and Efrati 131.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

RESIDENTS of Ponca City, Okla., home of Roland Young, Oklahoma's All-America end, sent his parents to the Orange Bowl game in Miami with all expenses paid. . . . The best talk this department has heard at a football banquet in years was turned in by Edward Hayes, former national commander of the American Legion, at the Stella-Bergner dinner in Kankakee Tuesday night. . . . And while we are on the subject, the Army and Naval academies need have no worries about how their football captains-elect will handle themselves in the banquet league. . . . The young men did all right when their big moment arrived Tuesday night. . . . Man Mountain Dean has visited nearly every country in the world, but his accent still is decidedly Brooklynese. . . . He is an authority on diet and can discourse at great length on the merits of spinach and steaks. . . . Here's another story to add to the Rockne legend. . . . One evening when his Notre Dame team was en route home after the final game of the season Rockne presented some of his athletes with cigarets and cigars. . . . He was careful to give certain brands to certain individuals. . . . Despite general denial that they used any form of tobacco during the season, each offender noted that he received the particular kind that he had been puffing now and then, figuring that no one knew about it. . . .

Dan Hill, Duke center, calls signals when Quarter Back Bob Spangler is not in the lineup. . . . Ray Carlen, Lou Nova's manager, used to handle Frankie Klick, one of the leading lightweights several years ago. . . . Wally Moses of the Athletics says his holdout days are over because it takes too long to get into condition after a layoff. . . . Jimmy Braddock and Joe Gould dropped $30,000 in their New York restaurant venture, which may be why Braddock is talking comeback. . . . Noble Kizer and his family will move back to Lafayette week after next. . . . He will assume full charge of the athletic director's office at Purdue for the first time since illness forced him to abandon his work a year and a half ago. . . . Jimmy Isaminger, Philadelphia baseball writer, says Connie Mack's greatest thrill of 1938 occurred in a game with the Yankees. . . . The Athletics didn't have to go to bat in the ninth inning.

Scars.

It's something you get here and there . . . while traveling through life. . . . A record of our many trials. . . . Of struggles and of strife. . . . You get them if you burn your hands. . . . Or if you should get bit. . . . Our car has quite a few of them. . . . Where it chanced to get hit. . . . It helps to find you if you're lost. . . . Or if your mind should stray. . . . And helps identify a thief who tries to get away. . . . The scar, I think, that is set apart . . . from all the others we know . . . is the one that's imprinted on your heart. . . . And follows you wherever you go.

SEEDED PLAYERS WIN IN JUNIOR TENNIS TOURNEY

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Seedings in the national junior indoor tennis championships remained intact today when eleven ranking players moved into the fourth round, led by Joey Fishbach, defending champion, who overwhelmed Judah Lober, New York, 6-4, 6-0.

Seymour Greenberg, Chicago, crushed Andrew Reynolds, Hastings, N. Y., 6-0, 6-2, and Isadore Bellis, Philadelphia, seeded third, routed Rossiyn Lyell, Rye, N. Y., 6-1, 6-2.

Bill McGehee of New Orleans subdued Costa Leodas, New York, 6-2, 6-2, and Bill Gillespie, Atlanta, defeated Orme Wilson Jr., New York, 6-3, 6-0.

Bill Umstaedter of Millburn, N. J., eliminated George Collins Jr., Forest Hills, N. Y., 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Other seeded winners were:

Robert Freedman of Springfield, Mass.; Malcolm Weinstein, Philadelphia; Harry Van Rensselaer, New York; Don Buffington, Atlanta; David Johnsen of Washington, D. C.

E. Victor Seixas, Philadelphia, led his three seeded mates into the third round of the boys' national tournament when he turned back Paul Napolitano, Trenton, N. J., 6-2, 6-2. Second seeded E. Blair Hawley of New York, advanced by default. Gardner Larned and James Evert of Chicago completed the victorious quartet. Jimmy Ginsburg, also of Chicago, defeated Hollis Young of Great Neck, N. Y., 6-2, 6-2.

8 p. m.—Lane vs. Parker.
9 p. m.—Roosevelt vs. Fenger.

Upsets and two point victory margins created excitement at the University of Chicago yesterday as the holiday tournament for high school basketball teams moved through its second day.

Eight more teams battled their way into the second round, which will be played today starting at 1 p. m. The sixteen teams which have survived thus far, including some surprise winners, are representatives chiefly of the south and west sides of the city.

Four of yesterday's eight contests were won by two points, and two of these went into overtime.

Lane Tech will meet Parker tonight at 8 o'clock. Other interesting games today should be the Harper-Marshall, Hyde Park-Tuley, and Hirsch-Wells contests.

As the second day of the tournament opened yesterday Bowen high, trailing 17 to 13 in the last half of the fourth quarter, came from behind to defeat a strong team from Sullivan, 20 to 18.

Englewood Eliminated.

In the second game of the afternoon Austin, led by Duckett, forward, and Manning guard, beat Phillips High, 35 to 14. Phillips had trouble locating the basket.

Farragut defeated Englewood, 22 to 15, scoring thirteen points in the first half. Englewood, trailing 20 to 8 at the end of the third quarter, rallied to score three goals, but it was not able to check the charges of the Farragut five.

Schurz upset the highly rated Kelvyn Park team, 27 to 25, in the first overtime game of the day. Trailing 14 to 9 at the half, Schurz tied the score at 18 to 18 as the third period closed. In the closing minute of the game, Betlejevski of Schurz took a pass down the floor for the tying score. In the overtime Puls, Schurz forward, sank a short shot which decided the issue.

Lane Tech, using two full teams, defeated Morgan Park, 27 to 19, in the last game of the afternoon. Lane led, 15 to 6, at the half.

Parker Beats Manley.

Parker, defending champion, defeated Manley, 24 to 22, in the last minute of the game. After leading, 15 to 14, at the half, Parker trailed, 22 to 20, in the closing minutes. The score was tied when Charles Steelman, Parker forward, sank a basket with a minute to play. With 15 seconds remaining, John Jorgenson, Parker center, took a long pass and made a push up shot for the winning margin.

Roosevelt defeated Washburn, 39 to 37, in an overtime period, Mendy Hirsch sinking a long field goal for the deciding points.

Fenger defeated Kelly High, 25 to

PURDUE'S FINAL DRIVE DEFEATS ARKANSAS, 57-51

New Orleans, La., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Purdue's speedy Boilermakers beat a taller University of Arkansas team, 57 to 51, in the fourth annual Sugar Bowl basketball game tonight before 5,000 fans. The free scoring game was fiercely fought. Arkansas pulled up to within 2 points of the leaders at 51 to 49 with but 2 minutes to play. The Indianans then dropped in three quick field goals, to pull away.

Purdue played without its captain and center, Gene Anderson, who had a bad knee. The towering Razorback center, John Frieberger, was all over the court, covering well on defense and getting the ball continually off the backboard. Lineup:

PURDUE [57]	B	F	P	ARKANSAS [51]	B	F	P

Little to Take Office as New Coaches' Head

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Lou Little of Columbia university will be installed as president of the National Football Coaches association at the annual business meeting in the Sherman hotel tomorrow morning. Little succeeds Harry Stuhldreher, athletic director and head coach at the University of Wisconsin.

Officers of the association are selected on the progressive system, moving up from the board of trustees through the four vice presidencies. A nominating committee will select a trustee to succeed Stuhldreher on the governing board.

Other officers who will be installed tomorrow are Bo McMillin, Indiana, first vice president; Fritz Crisler, Michigan, second vice president; Elmer Layden, Notre Dame, fourth vice president. The third vice president will be the president of the Football Coaches Association of the Pacific Coast, yet to be named.

Joel Hunt, the former St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, arrived at the meeting from his vacation to be greeted with rumors of his dismissal as head coach at the University of Georgia. Hunt has been head coach for only seven months.

"All I know is what friends tell me," Hunt said. "But it looks bad. The smoke seems to be coming from a fire started after I left Athens."

Announcement of Gloomy Gus Henderson's signing as head coach of the Detroit Lions in the National Football league, was bad news to Pat Page, the old Maroon star who resigned last year as head coach at Idaho. Page was eager to have a whirl at professional football and was just getting a campaign nicely organized among friends.

Dr. Clarence Spears announced his intention of installing lights at Toledo university and playing football on Monday nights to overcome the competition from Michigan, Ohio State and Notre Dame, which draw heavily from Toledo for their major games.

Glenn Thistlethwaite, head coach at Richmond, who is chairman of the association's stabilizing committee, will recommend to the association tomorrow that the committee be abolished or reorganized.

"We have never done anything about stabilizing the coaching profession," Thistlethwaite said, "and probably never will unless the association will provide for a long, intensive study in which schools can be classified according to the purpose of their football programs, and according to their athletic history. Such a survey would take several years, but it would permit the committee to do something constructive about bringing security."

Dougal Russell, Chicago Cardinal half back, milled about the lobby yesterday seeking information on the University of Miami, Miami, Fla.,

ASSOCIATION TO REQUEST MINOR REVISIONS ONLY

Recommend Safety Measures.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The members of the football rules committee of the American Football Coaches association, meeting yesterday in the Sherman hotel, agreed that there was very little demand from the various sections of the country for fundamental and radical changes in the rules. The committee had met to formulate recommendations to the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association. This committee will meet next week in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Specifically the football coaches made six recommendations to the rules body and one to their own members for experimentation in spring practice after which a report will be made to the Coaches association next year. Most important, probably, was the desire of the coaches that the rules committee "make a careful study of equipment in the interest of safety to players and that all equipment, including the ball, rigidly comply with the specifications set forth in the official N. C. A. A. football rules."

Study Safety Measures.

Numerous cuts and injuries have been reported as due to certain types of cleats; players have been injured, so coaches reported, by current types of protective pads, and the entire question is considered of paramount importance.

Believing that the loss of the ball at the point of the previous down, which is the present rule when a forward pass strikes an ineligible receiver, is too severe a penalty, the coaches recommended that the penalty be loss of a down and 15 yards from the point of the previous down when the pass strikes an ineligible player "on or behind the line of scrimmage."

Thus, the team passing still would have possession of the ball except on a fourth down pass. The recommendation was made "to permit more shovel passes [underhand forward passes generally behind the line of scrimmage] without the severe penalty of loss of the ball."

Suggest Passing Rule.

In line with this same consideration the coaches agreed that "in case of a forward pass, all ineligible men must remain on the line of scrimmage until the pass is touched or incomplete."

The coaches maintain that the intentional grounding of a forward pass, which carries a penalty of loss of 15 yards from the spot of the preceding down, is not called as frequently by the officials as it should be.

The coaches will ask a change in the present rule which provides that a punted ball, which is touched or downed by the kicking team, is a foul. A foul is offset by any foul by the other team. Under the present rule, the kicking team might down the ball on its opponents' one yard line only to have this effective play nullified by an offside or other foul by their opponents. The ball then must be brought back and the down played over.

Suggest Changing Foul Rule.

If touching a punted ball by the kicking team is not a foul, then the foul by the receiving team could be declined and the ball would be put in play at the point the ball was touched or downed.

The coaches also believe that the penalty which gives the receiving team the ball at the spot of a foul committed by the kicking team when the ball is in the air and in the field of play is too severe. They recommend that the N. C. A. A. rules committee study this rule with view of modification.

The coaches decided to experiment with a change in the rules which would give the team scored on by field goal or touchdown the same option of choices as at the start of the game. At this time the team winning the toss may choose the goal to defend, elect to receive or to kick. The team scored upon now has choice only of receiving or kicking.

Members of the coaches' football rules committee are:

Lou Little, Columbia, chairman; Maity Bell, S. M. U.; D. X. Bible, Texas; Earl Blaik, Dartmouth; W. H. Cowell, New Hampshire; Fritz Crisler, Michigan; Gus Dorais, Detroit; Dick Harlow, Harvard; Elmer Layden, Notre Dame; D. O. McLaughry, Brown; Bo McMillin, Indiana; Ray Morrison Vanderbilt; F. J. Murray, Virginia; James Phelan, Washington; Francis Schmidt, Ohio State; Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin; John B. Sutherland, Pittsburgh; Fred C. Thomsen, Arkansas; Tiny Thornhill, Stanford; Capt. William Wood, Army; Glenn Holmes, Oak Park, Ill., High school; C. A. Muhel, University City High school; T. L. Toomey, Englewood High school, Chicago; Dennis A. Gildea, New England High school coaches; Harvey Harman, Rutgers; Bryan Schley, Lubbock, Tex., High school; H. W. Hughes, Colorado; J. L. Marks, Kiski school.

DISCUSS PAID ATHLETES

Chancellor John G. Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh speaking yesterday morning before the College Physical Education association in convention in the Sherman hotel on the announced subject, "Athletics in Student Life," said emphatically, "I can not see that it is a sin to pay a boy to go to college, but it is a sin, so to speak, to pay him to go to college to play a sport for that college."

Chancellor Bowman spoke before more than two hundred members of the association. Several members of American Football Coaches' association, among them Dr. John B. Sutherland, football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, where the athletic policy has been a current subject for discussion, listened.

Asks Less Secrecy.

Dr. Bowman advised taking the secrecy out of intercollegiate athletics. He admitted that while it might be permitted to buy players, such practice immediately changed the game.

"You then have," Dr. Bowman said, "a group of boys making a living out of it.

Dr. Bowman's address included such generalities as a "college education is the most expensive experiment in history"; that "80 per cent of a student's contacts are material and he is dumb to beautiful things," and that "the greatest waste in this country is the mediocrity coming out of college."

The chancellor also took up the subject of scholarships.

"May a football player be given a scholarship?" Dr. Bowman asked. "Certainly a boy should neither be given nor denied a scholarship because he plays football. The real distinction is not as between students who have or have not scholarships; it is as between students who are good sportsmen and gentlemen, and players who are hired men to whom classes and laboratories are often a necessary nuisance.

Should Be a Contest.

"Wherever college football is on the right track, as it seems to me, it is not a main show or a side show, but a contest; and it becomes a contest of particular charm when each boy is thought of as a whole boy and not merely as a player. The whole boy plays hard, plays to his limit to win, yes. For the time being the game shuts all else out. But the boy knows and his fellow students know far more than does the public that he is not merely a player. Football is not his career. His main hope and aim are to become a doctor, engineer, chemist, or the like. He wants, besides football, the intelligence, the character, and the good manners that will carry him ahead on his main plan.

"The hopeful side of the picture is that in recent years large numbers of students are seeking to take part in athletics. Last year at the university [Pittsburgh] for example, we had, in addition to the football squad, 64 basketball teams, 32 baseball teams, about 500 men in track and cross country runs, and many others, men and women, in tennis, golf, hocky, discus throwing and other sports.

Wants Fun in Game.

"For emphasis let me say that we want lots of fun in each game. Without the joy of physical contest and of mental alertness with laughter ready to come through, no college game is worth playing. Is it not a fair assumption that a game is of value about in proportion to the enjoyment which students find in it?"

Prof. Harold S. Wood of Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., president of the College Physical Education association, attacked the problem of intercollegiate athletics more pointedly in his opening address yesterday morning.

"Properly maintained standards of admission to colleges will do more to overcome the evils of present day college football than any other single remedy," Prof. Wood asserted. Early objections to football, Prof. Wood pointed out, were based on numerous injuries sustained by players and the 'brutalizing' effects of so rough a sport.

"Today the important objections to college football are not the same as they were in 1897—they have been replaced by two new ones, subsidization of outstanding players and recruiting."

Louis Reaches Camp; Opens Drills for Lewis Bout

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Joe Louis rested in camp tonight, awaiting the start of preparations for the defense of his world heavyweight boxing crown Jan. 25 against John Henry Lewis at Madison Square Garden. Louis arrived here today an hour after stepping off a train from Chicago at Newark. His trainer, Jack Blackburn, said the champion would start gymnasium work tomorrow. Except for a slight cold, Blackburn said Louis was in "fine condition."

where a position as head coach awaits him.

The first order of business in the rules committee meeting yesterday was the ousting of Hugh [Shorty] Ray, rules chief of the high school federation, who had hoped to sit in and help the coaches on knotty problems. Ray can recite the discrepancies and inaccuracies in the college book from memory and he was no man to have around a committee that was about to approve the present rules.

Con Jennings, athletic director; Paddy Dirscoll, head coach, and Tarzan Taylor, assistant coach, are busier than bees attemptng to complete Marquette's football schedule. Their sixty-seventh lobby conference resulted in a tentative agreement with Jimmy Conzelman, the author, for a home and home series with Washington university in St. Louis, beginning in 1940.

Notre Dame coaches might do well to organize their own association. Meetings of such an organization would do a great deal to keep the lobby clear. Early arrivals among Notre Dame products included Buck Shaw, Santa Clara; Moose Krause, St. Mary's [Minn.]; Charles Bachman and Tom King, Michigan State; Harry Stuhldreher and Tom Keagan, Wisconsin; Adam Walsh, Bowdoin; Harry Baujan, Dayton; Chief Meyers, Cincinnati; John [Clipper] Smith, Duquesne; Moon Mullins, Loyola [New Orleans]; Joe Bach, Niagara; James Phelan, Washington; Rex Enright, South Carolina; Clem Crowe, Xavier; Eddie Anderson, Iowa; Mal Elward and Noble Kizer, Purdue; Gene Edwards, St. Vincents [Pa.]; Marty Brill, La Salle [Philadelphia]; Marchy Schwartz, Creighton; Tom Conley, John Carroll, and Elmer Layden, who as athletic director and head coach at the alma mater has become the father of the group.

Thirty-six coaches selected at random in the lobby favored Texas Christian to defeat Carnegie Tech by a vote of 20 to 16; Tennessee over Oklahoma, 28 to 8, and Southern California over Duke, 30 to 6, in the various bowl games.

DR. C. P. HUTCHINS, FORMER BIG TEN PRESIDENT, DIES

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles P. Hutchins, former president of the Western conference, died today at his home after a week's illness. He was 66 years old. Dr. Hutchins was Big Ten president during his tenure at Indiana university as football coach and director of physical education.

He went to Indiana in 1910 from Syracuse university, where he had held the post of head football coach. Prior to this he had been professor of physical education at the University of Wisconsin and professor of physical education and physiology at Dickinson college.

At the time of his death Dr. Hutchins, a world war veteran, directed an insurance company's rehabilitation bureau, with supervision of all the territory east of the Rocky mountains. He was graduated from the Long Island college hospital after studying at Williams and Columbia.

A. A. U. NAMES SWIM TEAM FOR ARGENTINA TRIP

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic union named a swimming team today to represent the United States in six meets in Argentina during January.

The team included Katherine Rawls Thompson of Miami, Jeanne Laupheimer of Brooklyn, Peter Fick of New York, Andrew Clark and Elbert Root of Detroit, Steve Wozniak of Buffalo, N. Y., and William Leonard, manager.

The group will sail this Saturday on the Brazil and arrive in Buenos Aires Jan. 18. The start home is set for Feb. 4.

Mid-City Basketball Teams to Play Tonight

Dr. E. F. Bennett's Shamrocks will play the Swift & Company five in the Mid-City Basketball league tonight in St. Rita gymnasium, 63d street and Oakley avenue. The powerful Alderman Connellys, who are one game behind the leaders meet the Golden Clothes in the other league game.

Grove, Ailing Arm and All, Still Is King

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It's nothing new for Robert M. Grove, ex-Athletic southpaw now with Boston's Red Sox, to be a standout performer among American league pitchers. Last season, with time pressing him toward the exit gate, he faded long before the race was close to the finish line, but, despite an arm malady, did so well before trouble overtook him that he finished well above nearly all the league pitchers who appeared often enough to deserve a serious rating.

Before being forced to desert the mound because his arm went to sleep so soundly that even the surgeons were baffled, Grove compiled fourteen victories against four defeats and an earned run average of 3.07 per nine innings. The latter showing was the best of the league's pitching batch except for Paul Andrews, the Yankee relief man, whose victories were limited to one and whose defeats numbered three.

Sox Take Some Honors.

The White Sox staf, which was badly riddled by injuries during the year, grabbed more than a one team share of positions among the elite of the mound. Pacing the Chicagoans was Thornton Lee, the lefty Manager Jim Dykes took off the hands of the Cleveland Indians because the latter didn't suspect the Californian was worthy of hire. Lee won thirteen games while losing a dozen, and his earned run yield of 3.49 gave him eighth place in league effectiveness.

One notch behind Lee was John Dungan Rigney, the youngster who on past performances should blossom into a winner during the coming season. Rigney had nine for nine in victories and losses, and an earned run mark of 3.56. The venerable Ted Lyons, who has been in the league since 1923 and apparently intends to continue indefinitely, finished eleventh in effectiveness with 3.69, and with nine triumphs against eleven defeats.

Yankees Get Pitching, Too.

As might be suspected by the ease with which the New York Yankees won their third successive pennant, their pitchers crowded into five of the first fourteen positions. The long hitting power of the world champions might be credited for this, but it also happens that the five fellows were close to the top in effectiveness, indicating they were carrying their portion of the load.

The top Yankee mound actor, Andrews being excepted because of his few innings of work, was Charles Ruffing. He won twenty-one games while being defeated seven times.

MONARCH TEAM BOWLS 3,345 IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

The Monarch Beers bowled games of 1,064, 1,156 and 1,125 last night at the Gold Coast for a 3,345 series, which is high in the Wednesday division of the Classic league. They won all three games from the Prager Beers, who totaled 3,026, and remain two games behind the champion Pabst Blue Ribbons, who defeated the Thompson Restaurants three times. The Pabsts bowled 3,273. The Power House Candies took two games from the Baby Ruth Candies, and the Schlitz Beers won two from the Ambrosia Beers.

VICTORY TONIC BRACES HAWKS; WINGS ARE NEXT

Teams Clash Tonight on Detroit Ice.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Every time the Blackhawks get to feeling swell they find it's time to play the Detroit Red Wings. Night before last they beat the Canadiens, 4 to 1, a great tonic, it seemed, until the reminder that they have to play the sixth place Detroiters tonight. They haven't been able to beat the floundering Wings so far this season.

It appeared the lads surely would take the Wings the last time they played at home. Remember that was the game they were winning 3 to 0 after 22 seconds of the second period, then let the Wings effect a tie by making three goals in less than nine minutes, later in the second period? Previously the Hawks had lost to the Wings, 4 to 2 and 4 to 1. Even now the Wings have won only five victories and have come out with two ties.

Hawks Back in Form.

With all the discouraging and jinxy precedents anent Hawk-Wing competition, the Chicagoans were pretty well perked up as they left Montreal last night for Detroit. Paul Thompson has started to come along in a big way and some of the new men who had disappointed on occasion after starting well also appear to be back in form. In Montreal Thompson, Earl Robinson, Russ Blinco, and Bob Gracie scored one goal each.

Although Johnny Gottselig did not get a point from all the goals and assists Tuesday night, his 20 points for the season top Sweeney Schriner, runner-up, by 4 points.

142,018 See Games.

In the ecstasy over the showing in Montreal the officials, on doing a little research here, showed that the Chicago fans like their Hawks pretty well, even though the lads go into reverse on occasion.

The Hawks in ten home games have played to 142,018 paying guests. This probably will stand as a league record for ten consecutive games, but if the statistical boys want to make the number real pretty, they might add the last two games of the Stanley Cup series. That would be the world record 18,600 and the 17,800 the following night, which would make the paid attendance at the last dozen games in the Stadium, 178,418. The best attendance of this year was the 17,894 who saw the Boston Bruins Dec. 4.

Houston Opens $3,000 Golf Meet Today

Houston, Tex., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Play in the $3,000 Houston open golf tournament will begin over the River Oaks course tomorrow with a special pro-amateur event in which approximately 100 players will compete. The open proper will start with eighteen holes on Friday.

Those in the field who have been practicing for the last few days are hoping for a sharp turn in the weather, for the prevailing low temperatures have not been suited to good golf. Among those who have found the wintry airs a bit too sharp are Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

These two have been established as co-favorites, McSpaden on the strength of his recent victory in the rich Miami open, wherein he took away first prize of $2,500, and Snead by virtue of his money winning mark of the year—more than $20,000, a new professional record.

Among other stars entered are Dick Metz of Chicago's Mill Road Farm course; Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa.; and Jimmy Demaret and Jack Burke of Houston. All neared par on their initial tours of the course today.

Seabiscuit Starts West to Race at Santa Anita

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Seabiscuit, outstanding race horse of the year, left tonight by train for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will continue training for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap next month.

PAR ON U. S. OPEN COURSE REDUCED FROM A 71 TO 69

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The Philadelphia Country club's Spring Mill course, site of the 1939 national open golf tournament, will be a par 69 layout instead of the 71 now in effect. The decision of the club was approved today by the championship committee of the United States Golf association.

It will be the first time the open ever has been played on a par 69 course. Officials of the club said yesterday that they plan to make par fours of the 479 yard eighth hole and the 480 yard twelfth, each of them now par fives.

HISTORIANS HEAR WHY AMERICANS THINK AS THEY DO

Convention Speakers Sift Out Native Ideas.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Reasons why Americans, descended from Europeans, should think and act differently from the people of Europe were explored yesterday by two speakers before the American Historical society. The society is holding its annual meeting in the Stevens hotel.

As a vehicle for their inquiry Dr. Frank J. Klingberg of the University of California discussed European ideas that did not migrate to America, while Dr. R. R. Palmer of Princeton university discussed indigenous American ideas that have no parallels in Europe.

Takes Two as Symbols.

As symbolic of ideas that Americans failed to bring from Europe, Dr. Klingberg mentioned that the United States has no equivalent of Britain's permanent secretary of the treasury, or archbishop of Canterbury. The permanent secretary is head of the British civil service. Lack of an American civil service in the higher levels—career men in government—has handicapped America in its solution of politico-social problems, he said.

He used the archbishop not as a religious symbol, but as symbolic of the failure of what he termed the Anglican aristocratic tradition to migrate to the new world. This came about, he said, because settlement of the American colonies was started during a lapse of that tradition just preceding the Restoration.

"I have suggested," he said, "that it was not a mere political creed supporting the king, but that it had a tremendous intellectual and artistic front; that Puritanism menaced the arts and that its democratic temper was particularly suited to the new frontier environment; that the Revolution, with its disestablishment of the church, abolishment of entails and purge of 100,000 loyalists was another force cutting across what might have been an early rooting of an aristocratic society."

Traces Profound Difference.

The most profound difference between European and American ideas, Dr. Palmer said, is the American's sense of living in a new world, the white man's second chance and land of the perpetual new deal. From that, he said, had flowed the idea that America has a case to prove, and that it is a nation with a mission to justify its system to the old world. He cited the speech of John Winthrop to the Puritans, just landed on a savage coast separated by two months' voyage from Europe:

"For we must consider that we shall be as a city upon a hill."

Although the fundamental idea of America is equality, America knows inequalities unknown to more homogeneous European populations, both in its Negro problem and its attitude toward the recent immigrant. Of the latter, he said:

"There are subtle repugnances and attitudes of superiority that are usually unspoken, but which come to the surface in times of stress, as in the delusion that radicals are usually foreigners, and foreigners, as like as not, dangerous radicals. Probably also the lack of sympathy with which the comfortable classes have looked on the mass of unskilled workers is in large part due to the feeling that they are not Americans."

Discuss Share Croppers.

Another session of the meeting heard two conflicting views of the problem of the southern share cropper and tenant farmer. Dr. A. B. Moore of the University of Alabama maintained that the share cropper is not a special problem, but part of the world problem of the closing of frontiers, ending an expansion of the western races that started with the discovery of America. Dictatorships in Europe, he said, are a manifestation of the same problem, an attempt to solve it through increased state controls.

H. C. Nixon of Birmingham, Ala., representative of the Southern Conference for Human Rights, argued that share croppers are a special problem, and traced their history to the post civil war efforts of the freedmen's bureau to rehabilitate the freed slaves. Three-fifths of present share croppers, however, are white.

He described the share cropping system as a skin game from bottom to top, brought about by excess agricultural population, in which the cropper skins the land, causing erosion, the landlord skins the share cropper, and the rest of the economic system skins the landlord.

PROFESSORS RAP DAKOTA COLLEGE FOR DISMISSALS

The American Association of University Professors, meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday, placed the governing board of North Dakota Agricultural college on its list of censured administrations. The blacklisting of the college administration was taken as a result of the arbitrary dismissal of seven faculty members last year.

One factor in the dismissals was faculty resistance to an attempt by the state political machine of Gov. William Langer to assess professors 5 per cent of their salaries for a campaign fund. Langer was defeated for reelection in November, and the present governing board has been replaced, by constitutional amendment, by a new body that takes office in July. The association recommended that the new board make proper restitution to the dismissed professors.

Rollins college, at Winter Park, Fla., was removed from the censured list. It had been placed on the list in 1933 after President Hamilton Holt dismissed several faculty members. Trustees of the college have now subscribed to a code of academic freedom and tenure jointly drafted in October by the association and the Association of American Colleges.

BARON MASUDA, MITSUI PRODUCTS FOUNDER, IS DEAD

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Dec. 28.—Baron Takashi Masuda, 91 years old, died today. His death removes the last living link between present day and medieval Japan, to which Townsend Harris came as the first American envoy. Baron Masuda was born in Tokio. When Harris settled in the old temple, which was the first American legation, Masuda, then 12 years old, was sent by his father to serve as an office boy and learn the English language and foreign ways. This experience gave him a liking for Americans and until his last days he delighted in having his American friends visit his beautiful seaside villa to look at his treasures.

Masuda reached manhood at a time when Japanese commerce was expanding from zero. His greatest business feat was the founding of Mitsui Bussan Kaisha [Mitsui Products company], which now has tentacles all over the world.

He passed his entire business life in the service of the historic firm of Mitsuis, and was one of the wealthiest men in Japan when he retired. He also was one of a small group of Japanese who received imperial recognition, despite the rule that titles cannot be conferred on employés, however eminent.

A. A. Hughart, Valparaiso Educator and Banker, Dies

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Arthur A. Hughart, 74 years old, educator, died today. Hughart served as superintendent of Porter county and Valparaiso schools and also in Coffeyville, Kas. He was president of the Farmers State Bank for four years.

HERO OF BIG ROCK TRACKS 2 WOLVES, SHOOTS 'EM DEAD

If the wolves around Aurora don't get into their sheep's clothing right away there won't be a one of them left. In the Big Rock neighborhood, 12 miles west of Aurora, Farmer John Evens tracked down two in the snow yesterday and shot them dead. The day before Otto Shingoethe shot the wolf that had been robbing his hen roost southeast of Aurora.

Evens was acclaimed a hero at Big Rock. Farmers there say he got two of a pack of five wolves that have been killing chickens, sheep, and young pigs for the last year. Evens said the larger wolf he shot, which weighed sixty pounds, was the leader of the pack.

MARS RESCUES STOCKS AS TAX SELLING FADES

'War Babies' Rise in Broadest '38 Trade.

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Speculative buying in armament shares today helped prod the stock market out of a decline into a brisk upturn. It was the broadest market since Oct. 21, 1937, with a total of 1,001 issues traded.

The aircraft shares, recently hit by a surge of profit taking, got a strong lift. President Roosevelt's proposal for training 20,000 youths yearly for the air services was taken widely in Wall Street as a hint the administration was determined to bring before the new congress a big defense program.

Three of the arms favorites in the list—Bethlehem Steel, Bendix Aviation, and Electric Boat—touched the highest prices recorded this year on advances of around 2 to 3 points. Most of the market climbed out of the early decline to join the "war babies" in the rise.

Letup in Tax Selling.

Although United States armament spending prospects clearly guided much of the buying, most observers credited the rebound primarily to a letup in liquidation to establish gains and losses for income tax returns. It was the last session for making year-end tax transactions through the usual deferred delivery method. Tomorrow, brokers said, tax transactions would have to be made on a cash basis to get under the deadline.

Assuming the market was about to be relieved of the bulk of the selling generally blamed as a factor in holding it back in recent weeks, many traders shifted to the buying side. Transactions increased to 2,164,080 shares, the largest since Nov. 10, from 1,236,280 yesterday.

Demand Is Concentrated.

Demand was concentrated, aside from the individual arms favorites, on steel, copper, rubber, and rail shares. Ending 1 to 2 or more higher were American Smelting, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, U. S. Steel, Western Union, Southern Railway, Great Northern preferred, Westinghouse, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, and Texas corporation.

The number of individual stock issues traded today crossed the 1,000 mark for the first time sinc Oct. 21 last year. The number traded that day was 1,006. The largest number of issues ever traded on the exchange was 1,043 on Oct. 19, 1937. At that time the market was just steadying up after a selling period which capped a long decline.

Lack of Quorum Blocks Interborough Meeting

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The annual meeting of the Interborough Rapid Transit company stockholders was adjourned today to March 28 because of lack of a quorum. Only 109,461 shares were represented when the meeting was called to order. A quorum requires 175,000.

M'KESSON SCANDAL MAY BRING CHANGE IN AUDITING RULES

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The American Institute of Accountants announced today it will make a survey of auditing procedure "to determine what, if any, changes should be adopted by the profession in the light of the case of McKesson & Robbins, Inc."

McKesson is the 105 year old drug company whose president, F. Donald Coster-Musica, recently committed suicide after theft and misstatement of the company's assets were disclosed.

"Out of the present discussion may evolve plans for closer coöperation between accountants and directors," the institute said.

William J. Wardell, sole trustee of McKesson & Robbins, announced the United States District court had approved the appointment of Ford, Bacon & Davis, industrial engineers, as appraisers, and S. D. Leidesdorf & Co., certified public accountants, as auditors to study the assets of the company. Sixty engineers are being sent to various parts of the country to visit seventy-seven McKesson & Robbins warehouses to observe inventories that will begin Dec. 31 and must be completed in three days.

November Rail Net Operating Incomes Rise

Net operating incomes of most railroads reporting yesterday on November results were larger than those for November, 1937. The comparisons are less favorable than the figures indicate because in November last year rail revenues were falling.

The Alton, one of the leading roads connecting the Chicago market with the southwest, had a November net operating income of $75,016, compared with $8,844 in November, 1937. Gross revenues for the month were only slightly under the November, 1937, total of $1,336,834.

The New Haven, important eastern carrier, reported a November net operating income of $704,501, against $36,127 a year earlier.

The class 1 railroads are estimated to have a total of about $50,000,000 of net operating income for November, a gain of 54 per cent over $32,440,920 reported for November, 1937.

Roads reporting yesterday on earnings included the following:

BROWN HARRIMAN & CO. WILL CHANGE NAME TO AVOID CONFUSION

Brown Harriman & Co., Inc., announced yesterday that it will change its name to Harriman Ripley & Co., Inc., effective Jan. 1. The company explained that confusion sometimes arose because of the similarity of its name with that of the private banking firm of Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. For this reason it was decided to adopt the new name which includes that of Joseph P. Ripley, president of the firm, which has its headquarters in New York.

Charles S. Garland, a vice president of Brown Harriman & Co., Inc., in charge of the Chicago office, has announced his resignation, effective Dec. 31. He will become a general partner in the investment firm of Alex Brown & Sons, Baltimore, Md. Nathan D. McClure, who has been in the Chicago office of Brown Harriman since it was opened in 1934, will succeed to Garland's position here.

Ripley said in New York that the company under its new name will continue in the underwriting and distribution of federal, municipal, and corporate securities.

STEEL OUTPUT RATE ESTIMATED AT 40 PER CENT

Year-end inventory reductions and holiday shutdowns will cut the nation's steel-making rate to 40 per cent of ingot capacity, Iron Age reported yesterday. This week's output is expected to run about 13 points below the indicated rate for last week.

The seasonal decline will be overcome in the first week of the new year and the rate will jump to about 50 per cent, the survey said.

"If automobile production comes up to expectations, steel demand should be sufficient to support ingot production to 60 per cent or higher during a considerable part of the first quarter," the magazine said.

New orders booked by the structural steel industry in November were the largest since July last year. The total was 150,988 tons compared with 132,835 tons in November, 1937. Scrap prices are unchanged.

CREAMERY FIRM BOOSTS PROFITS ABOVE YEAR AGO

Beatrice Quarter Net Is $397,214.

The Beatrice Creamery company yesterday reported an increase in earnings in an interim statement issued to stockholders.

Net income for the quarter ended Nov. 30 was $397,214, equal to 73 cents a share on the common stock after provision for preferred stock dividends. Profit was $279,615, or 42 cents a common share, in the corresponding 1937 period.

Interim reports released by other companies showed declines in earnings from last year in most instances.

Wesson Oil Earns Less.

Wesson Oil and Snowdrift company had net income of $324,825, equal to 5 cents a share, in the November quarter. This compared with net income of $709,465, or 72 cents a share, in the November quarter of 1937.

Public Service Company of Indiana released a statement for the eleven months ended Nov. 30, showing an increase of $141,833 in net income over the comparable 1937 period. Net income for the period was $890,328. For the year ended Nov. 30 net income was $1,013,766, an increase of $144,296 over the preceding year.

Profit of $747,665 was reported by Allied Stores corporation for the nine months ended Oct. 31. This contrasted with the corresponding 1937 period's profit of $2,096,279.

Hat Corporation of America had net income of $325,888 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, against profit of $662,363 in the preceding year.

Bethlehem Steel Will Fight NLRB Drive on Labor Program

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The Bethlehem Steel company, the nation's second largest steel maker, will resist a National Labor Relations board effort to make it give up its 20 year old employé representation plan.

Eugene G. Grace.

Eugene G Grace, president, declared that the steel concern will contest the recommendation of Frank Bloom, trial examiner for the labor board, that the company be forced to abandon its labor plan. He charged that the ten month inquiry by the labor board into Bethlehem's labor policies was instigated by the C. I. O.

Grace said it should be up to the company's employés to decide whether they wanted the present labor representation method abandoned. They have continuously shown their desire that their organizations be continued, he declared.

Grace Blames C. I. O. Activity.

Grace said that the Bloom recommendation, disclosed last Tuesday, was the latest phase of an attempt by the C. I. O. to force upon Bethlehem employés an organization which they do not desire.

"The report makes no constructive suggestion as to how to avoid the chaos that would follow the disestablishment, nor does it suggest that the wishes of the employés be ascertained," he said: "The C. I. O. does not want to see the issue put to a vote until the employés' collective bargaining agencies are thrown into discard. In other words, C. I. O. wants to compete only with itself."

Grace declared that the steel company for more than twenty years has recognized that the right of its employés to set up their own organizations for collective bargaining and to select their own representatives is fundamental. He said that the company's financial support to the employé representation organization was given up when the Supreme court declared the labor act constitutional.

"Concerned for Industry."

In his formal statement, Grace said he could not refrain from expressing "profound concern for industry in this country if the examiner's recommendation to scrap such relations be approved by the board."

Bloom recommended that Bethlehem post notices at once withdrawing its recognition of its labor plan, and that if this is not done within ten days the labor board issue an order to compel it. Bloom ruled that the Bethlehem management had engaged in unfair labor practices by dominating and interfering with the employé representative organization in the company's nine plants.

ASSOCIATED GAS SERVICE UNIT TO BE ABANDONED

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The utilities service organization through which Howard Colwell Hopson began his building of the Associated Gas and Electric system sixteen years ago will cease working for the big holding company New Year's eve.

John I. Mange, president of Associated Gas, announced today that the personnel of the organization, which for years has done financial, accounting, statistical, and corporate work for companies in the Associated system, would be absorbed by the Utility Management corporation, which supplies management services to Associated Gas subsidiaries.

"The Utility Management corporation is entirely owned by the operating companies in the Associated system and renders services on a non-profit basis," Mange said.

The service organization built up by Hopson has been a profitable source of income for the Hopson family. Hopson's connections with Associated Gas have been aired at federal commission hearings.

Transcontinental Air Line Gets Mail Pay Increase

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission increased today the compensation of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., for carrying the mail over route No. 2 between Newark, N. J., and Los Angeles. The company has received 24 cents per airplane mile for monthly mileage of 600,000 miles since March 1, 1935. The I. C. C. ordered this increased to 27 cents per mile for the period Oct. 1, 1936 to June 30, 1937, and to 30 cents from July 1, 1937.

U. S. Tea Board Renamed; Chicago Man Is Member

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today reappointed for 1939 the members of the federal board of tea experts, which establishes standards for the tea trade. Members included Edward Bransten, San Francisco; Walter Hellyer, Chicago, and A. P. Irwin, Philadelphia.

GOLD MINE FOR WHICH FORD PAID $10,000 IS AUCTIONED FOR $800

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Vaucluse gold mine, which Henry Ford once bought for $10,000 to get possession of its antiquated machinery for his Dearborn, Mich., museum, was sold at public auction here today for $800.

The 200 acre property near Wilderness, Orange county, was put on the block by the V. M. corporation which worked the mine for three years. It was purchased by Alex Gayle, local real estate dealer, who said he planned no mining operations.

The V. M. corporation, composed of Fredericksburg business men, recently ceased operations at the mine after announcing the ore vein was nearly exhausted and overhead costs had become prohibitive. The mine once was worked by slave labor.

28 MORE TOWNS BUY POWER LINES; GET TVA CURRENT

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Twenty-eight towns and communities in seven west Tennessee counties today completed negotiations for purchase of electric properties of the Kentucky-Tennessee Light and Power company. TVA current was to be switched into the area at midnight.

Purchase price was announced as $992,000 in cash and $332,000 in bonds.

Tweny-six municipalities and nineteen coöperative associations already are receiving TVA current, authority officials said.

TVA DECEPTION IS CONFIRMED, SAYS SENATOR

'Yardstick' Is Fraud, Bridges Asserts.

Results of the congressional inquiry into the Tennessee Valley authority confirm suspicions of deceptions, Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] declares. He makes this statement in Investor America, a new publication of the American Federation of Investors, Inc. The publication will be distributed next week for the first time.

Sen. H. Styles Bridges

A lengthy record of public hearings by the joint congressional committee upholds the position of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted chairman of TVA, according to Bridges. Senator William H. King [D., Utah] and Bridges early last year demanded a bipartisan investigation of TVA.

Deceived Congress and Public.

Dr. Morgan, who was discharged from the chairmanship by President Roosevelt, held that the TVA has been deceptive in its dealings with congress, the public, private utilities, utility investors, and American taxpayers.

Senator Bridges writes that criticisms of the TVA, formerly held as opinions, can now be offered as facts. Main criticisms, which uphold Dr. Morgan's position, are listed in the senator's article as follows:

1. TVA "yardstick" power rates are a brazen fraud on the public, the taxpayer, the consumer, and the investor.

2. TVA's bookkeeping is lax, incompetent, deceptive, impossible of audit, and designed to conceal rather than to reveal the true state of fiscal affairs.

3. Protests that TVA is a flood control and navigation project, and not primarily an adventure into socialism via the backdoor of federal sale and distribution of electric power, are only a part of the reason Dr. Morgan charges the TVA with "dishonesty."

Purpose of Destruction.

4. TVA's destruction of investments in private utilities by duplication of existing facilities has been for the purpose of reducing the sale price of such properties to a below cost point. This is low enough to create a capital rate base on which the "yardstick" rates could pretend a semblance of realism.

5. TVA's most potent aid in its policy of utility duplication has been the PWA.

6. That instead of being a "bankable" proposition, as its officers have asserted, the TVA will run an annual

Lack of Quorum Blocks Interborough Meeting

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The annual meeting of the Interborough Rapid Transit company stockholders was adjourned today to March 28 because of lack of a quorum. Only 109,461 shares were represented when the meeting was called to order. A quorum requires 175,000.

Trucking Industry—5.

Critics of the present situation in the truck transport industry list several unsatisfactory elements. These include overcrowding of the highways, heavy trafic on Sundays and holidays, improper use of heavy vehicles, congestion in the metropolitan areas of large cities, and a conviction that trucks do not pay enough taxes for their use of the highways.

Probably the strongest objection to trucks on the highways comes from the Sunday and holiday drivers. To meet this situation three states, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Nebraska, have passed laws which call for partial restriction. These laws generally limit the Sunday and holiday hours in which trucks, with certain exceptions, may operate.

Because concrete is subject to "fatigue" [cracking and settling under weight], public criticism has been made of the excessive weights of truck shipments. Older highways were not built to withstand the impact of heavy, high speed trucks operating with great frequency over the roads. New highway construction has partially overcome this objection. Besides, the industry answers this complaint by pointing out that trucks represent about 14 per cent of the total motor vehicle registration, and pay about 27 per cent of all motor vehicle taxes. Last year trucks' taxes and fees totaled $410,000,000. Balanced against this is the fact that the peak of national annual highway expenditures for new construction is only about $600,000,000.

CREDITORS SEEK JOLIET C. OF C. REORGANIZATION

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the United States District court seeking reorganization of the Joliet Chamber of Commerce and its assets under the Chandler bankruptcy act. The chamber owns a two story building at 214 North Ottawa street, Joliet, which has been in foreclosure receivership since 1931.

The bill was filed by creditors holding bonds of a $125,000 first mortgage and a $150,000 second mortgage issue on the building in 1925. The petition said the entire $125,000 principal of the first mortgage is unpaid and that $98,000 still owing on the second mortgage has been defaulted.

Chrysler Chicago Branch to Be Dissolved Jan. 1

The Chrysler-Illinois company, a factory branch of the Chrysler corporation, will be dissolved on Jan. 1, K. B. Brown, president, announced yesterday. Hereafter Chrysler dealers in the Chicago area will deal directly with the factory at Detroit. Brown will become Chicago regional manager for Chrysler and Plymouth, with offices in the Wrigley building.

Charles E. Mitchell Settles $1,384,222 U. S. Tax Lien

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A discharge of a $1,384,222 tax lien against Charles E. Mitchell, former banker, relating to 1929 income taxes was filed today in federal court. The amount of his settlement was not disclosed. Mitchell was president and chairman of the board of the National City bank.

VOTE DIVIDENDS ON UNITED LIGHT SENIOR STOCKS

Northern States Power to Pay on Arrears.

Three regular monthly dividends on each of three classes of preferred stock of the United Light and Railways company were voted yesterday by the board of directors. The company is a utility holding corporation with offices in Chicago.

The payments will be 58¼ cents a share on the 7 per cent prior preferred stock, 53 cents on the 6.36 per cent prior preferred, and 50 cents on the 6 per cent prior preferred on Feb. 1, March 1, and April 1.

The McCall corporation, publishing company, declared the usual quarterly payment of 25 cents on the common stock for Feb. 1.

Utility to Pay on Arrears.

Directors of the Northern States Power company [Wisconsin] declared a dividend of $40.25 a share on the $100 par value 7 per cent preferred stock, for the period from March 1, 1933, to Nov. 30, 1938. It is payable not later than Jan. 10 to stockholders of record last Dec. 28. A dividend of $1.43¾ a preferred share was declared for the quarter ended Feb. 28, 1939, payable March 1, 1939, on stock of record Feb. 18. The dividends were made possible under a plan of recapitulation approved Dec. 10.

The parent company, Northern States Power of Delaware, declared quarterly dividends of $1.31¼ a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred and $1.12½ a share on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred. They are for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1938, and will be paid next Jan. 20 to stockholders of record last Dec. 31. A recapitalization plan for the Delaware company was approved by stockholders Dec. 27.

Amendment of the incorporation certificate of the Middle States Petroleum corporation to permit dividend payments on the class A and B stocks was approved by the holders of the voting trust certificates.

Payment on Arrears.

Northern States Power company [Wisconsin]. Declared a dividend of $40.25 a share on $100 par value 7 per cent preferred for period from March 1, 1933, to Nov. 30, 1938. Payable not later than Jan. 10 to stockholders of record last Dec. 28. First dividend since $1.75 was paid March 1, 1933.

No Action.

Holly Sugar corporation. Took no action on the common stock dividend. Last payment was 25 cents on Dec. 5. Previous payments were withheld on suit in the New York Court of Appeals by the preferred stockholders. Court ruled recently that the dividend on the common be limited to $10 a year until the preferred stock is redeemed. Paid $2 on Feb. 1, 1937.

U. S. Foil company. No action taken by the directors on the dividend on the 7% preferred stock due at this time. The last payment was $1.75 on Oct. 1.

The letter "q" in the table represents regular quarterly payments; the letter "m" regular monthly payments.

Business Bits

C. A. Phillips.

Dean C. A. Phillips of the college of commerce of the University of Iowa, has been appointed economist and adviser to the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. He will remain on the university staf, but will direct the research and statistical department of the 7th federal reserve district.

Directors of the Allstate Insurance company and the Allstate Fire Insurance company have elected Gen. Robert E. Wood chairman of their boards and E. J. Pollock chairman of their finance committees. P. B. Kelly was named controler for both companies. Wood succeeds Gilbert Alexander, who recently became president of both companies. Wood is president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Pollock is a Sears vice president.

Reuben A. Lewis of Chicago yesterday was elected a director of the Baldwin Rubber company.

GRAIN MARKETS RISE; WEATHER IS MAIN FACTOR

Wheat Prices Highest Since October.

American grain markets were decidedly strong yesterday. At Chicago wheat futures advanced ½ to ¾ cent a bushel and closed at the top. Prices were highest since last October. All deliveries of oats went into new high ground for the season and closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher on the day. Cash oats sold up to 33½ cents, the highest price since last April.

Corn futures were ¼ to ⅜ cent higher. Continued hot and dry weather in Argentina and receipts of only 22 cars of cash grain in Chicago were the strengthening influences. Receipts were smallest since Sept. 10, 1937.

Causes of Wheat Upturn.

Continued cold weather over the American winter wheat belt and firmness in foreign markets were responsible for the upturn in wheat. Liverpool futures were ⅞ to 1⅞ cents higher than on Friday. A renewal of the Indian demand for foreign wheat due to prospects for a relatively small crop strengthened the English market.

Commission houses were fairly persistent buyers of wheat, corn, and oats futures. There was some pressure on wheat due to liquidation of futures bought during the "war scare" last September, brokers said. No export business was reported in either domestic or Canadian cash wheat.

Crop Damage Indicated.

Apprehension that the winter wheat crop will suffer irreparable damage from the current cold wave is increasing. The weather bureau indicated the crop continued to deteriorate west of the Mississippi river as the result of dry weather. The trade paid little attention to a forecast for light snow in parts of Kansas.

Maximum temperatures of 100 degrees and more have prevailed in the northern part of the Argentine corn belt for ten days. Reports yesterday said the heat and a deficiency in rainfall this month increased fears over the condition of the crop.

CASH GRAIN

BONDS ADVANCE IN MOST ACTIVE TRADE OF YEAR

Railroad Issues Make the Widest Gains.

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—With the volume of transactions rising to the highest level of the year, the bond market today overcame early hesitancy and closed with substantial gains. Dealings totaled $15,499,000, par value, the largest amount since Oct. 19, 1937. Yesterday's total was $10,883,550, par value.

Dealers said year-end tax selling and switching were largely responsible for the sharply increased turnover. It was the last day that tax selling transactions could be made on a regular basis. For the remainder of the week tax sales will have to be for cash.

B. & O. 6s Actively Traded.

Railroad loans made the widest gains toward the close as the market rose along with the buoyant stock list. Advances ranged to around 3 points. One of the largest individual transactions of the year was recorded in Baltimore and Ohio 6s of 1995. A block of $238,000, par value, changed hands at 17. The previous sale had been at 18. Issues of Baltimore and Ohio accounted for a considerable part of the trading in rail bonds.

Sizable advances were made by loans of Illinois Central, Delaware and Hudson, Southern Pacific, and Great Northern.

Utilities Turn Weak.

A number of utility issues were weaker. Some inactive corporate issues, handicapped by thin markets, lost ground.

Backward sections of the list were United States government obligations and foreign loans. United States treasury issues showed a predominant downward trend and finished 10-32ds lower to 4-32ds higher. Some Italian, Japanese and Polish obligations were down a point or more.

HEAVY CONSUMER BUYING ADVANCES PRICES OF MEATS

Broad consumer demand, the result of the cold wave, reasonable prices, and decrease in supplies lifted wholesale meat prices yesterday. Advances of 50 cents a hundred pounds were registered in beef, veal, and lamb meat. Pork sold strong to 50 cents higher.

Fresh pork prices have risen $1.00 to $1.50 in two days under brisk competition for supplies. Sales of pork loins at $13 to $16 yesterday were highest since Nov. 30. This improved demand for pork enabled salesmen at the stockyards to retain the gains on hogs registered in the preceding session.

The general market for medium to good grades and some near choice cattle was weak to 25 cents lower, however. Calves rose 25 to 50 cents.

Steady to 10 cent higher prices were paid for fat lambs.

Ward Baking.

Investors' Guide: I should think that the baking business would be a stable and profitable one. Is it? Specifically, what about the Ward Baking corporation of New York? Is the B common stock a good buy? I understand the company has put through some kind of merger.—F. D.

Answer: Ward Baking is one of the country's four largest bakers of bread and cake. Bread sales are quite stable for most bakers, but price competition is stiff. Cake falls in the semi-luxury class of goods, and its sales are influenced directly by the ups and downs of general business. Nothing has been earned on the class B common stock of Ward Baking since 1929, when profits equaled 47 cents per B share. The company's 500,000 shares of B stock are junior to 83,000 shares of A stock and 256,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred.

Both the A and B stocks are highly speculative. The dividend outlook for these stocks is very uncertain, because back dividends of $25.50 a share have accumulated on the preferred stock. The A stock is entitled to $8 a share a year, but this dividend rate is noncumulative. Nothing has been paid on the A stock since 1929.

The company made profits in every depression year, but net income slumped steadily from a high of $4,476,000 in 1926 to a low of $397,000 in 1933. In 1936 net income amounted to $1,839,000, covering the preferred dividend rate of 7 per cent for the first time since 1931.

Net income slipped in 1937 to $1,141,000, or $4.46 a preferred share. The recession this year brought a further decline in net income to $670,000 for the first forty-three weeks, compared with $913,000 in the same 1937 period.

The merger which you have in mind was a consolidation of the Ward Baking corporation with its subsidiary, Ward Baking company.

The heavy prior dividend rates on the preferred and A stock plus the accumulated preferred dividends make the position of the B stock unfavorable.

Taxes When Worthless.

Investors' Guide: If a stock is wiped out in reorganization, may the taxpayer deduct his total cost from income in computing income tax? I had 100 common shares of Woods Brothers corporation, real estate and construction company. It was reorganized this year and common stock holders were left out. I bought the stuff in 1930.—A. K.

Answer: You may make the deduction from your income for tax purposes this year. It must be done in the year the stock is proved worthless. Having held the stock more than two years, you may deduct only 50 per cent of the cost from income.

Photo-diagram of plan for Chicago downtown airport which has been approved by Civil Aeronautics authority in Washington. The airport would be made by filling in 325 acres of land 2,750 feet east of Northerly Island.

Provision is also made for a possible expansion to 425 acres (dotted lines) to be protected from the lake by bulkhead. The plan calls for three runways each 5,000 feet long on the 325 acre field. (Story on page 1.)
